REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

To the Republican electors of Pennsylvania: The Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen representatives, will meet in State convention Thursday, April 23, 1896, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the opera house, city of Harrisburg, for the purpose of nominating two candidates for representative at-large in Congress and thirty-two candidates for Presidential electors, the selection of eight delegates-at-large to the Republican National convention, and for the ratification of such other business as may be presented.

By order of the State Committee.

M. S. QUAY, Chairman. Attest—Jesse B. Hays, Secretary. F. R. Anderson, Secretaries.

This world is full of queer people, as any one can see by looking around him—or even in the glass.

The retirement of John Youngfleish as city editor of the Miners' Journal, after a service of five years upon that paper, has been received with much regret by that gentleman's many friends. As a descriptive writer, there are none to compare in Schuylkill county; his command of language was such that the readers of the paper will miss his fluent pen. We shall ever remember Youngfleish's description of Tumbling Run. In his new field of labor we hope to see him attain the same prominence and success as he did in that he has just relinquished.

To-morrow is Ash Wednesday, when the season of Lent begins, and fashionable society will array itself in sackcloth and for the once will abandon amusement and frivolity for mortification of the flesh and meditation and prayer. Whatever may be said of this practice as an ecclesiastical custom, it is a most wholesome one viewed from other standpoints. It teaches individuals the invaluable lesson of self-denial and self-control, and enforces upon them the old truth that "life is real, life is earnest," and has its duties as well as its privileges. In this modern, work-a-day world, with its mad rush for gain and eager search for pleasure, it is well that a certain portion of the year is set apart for deeds of self-abnegation and for reflection. The spiritual, like the physical man, needs its period of temperation.

QUAY THE CANDIDATE.

Notwithstanding his emphatic refusal a few weeks ago, Senator Quay is now a full-fledged candidate for the Presidency, and it is stated that he is consented only in consequence of the great pressure brought to bear upon him to allow his name to be used.

His candidacy has evoked great enthusiasm throughout the state, and is very well received in the country at large. Pennsylvanians who have known him so long are, perhaps, disposed to underrate his abilities, but the statements of the Republican party throughout the country hold very high opinions of his political sagacity and superior executive ability, more especially those who came in contact with him during the campaign of 1888 when he was at the helm and landed a Republican President in the White House.

Senator Quay enters the contest with 41 votes from Pennsylvania solidly at his back, and if he does not win the nomination for himself will be in a position to dictate who it shall be given to, and will, in either event, direct the campaign which at this time has a most favorable outlook for the Republican party.

His services as Senator from Pennsylvania, while not characterized by any great oratorical effects, have reflected great credit upon his state, and his opponents respect him for the statesmanlike qualities he has displayed while zealously upholding the principles advocated by his party, and his excellent judgment and great political ability as a party manager were the admiration of the whole country in his great contest last summer, when a combination of politicians, deemed almost invincible, were put to rout with great ease.

The Junior Senator's unwavering loyalty to his party and his friends is such that, now that he has consented to enter the contest for the highest office in the gift of the people, his party and his friends rally to his support enthusiastically and will work unceasingly for his advancement.

As to his fitness for the office, there is no question raised by friends or foes, and if chosen he will give the country a good Republican administration without any "object lessons" to entail misery upon millions of its people in an effort to force objectionable political ideas upon them.

Nerves and Blood

Are inseparably connected. The former depend simply, solely, solidly upon the latter. If it is pure they are properly fed and there is no "nervousness." If it is impure they are not, therefore cannot be strong and healthy, and the horrors of nervous prostration result. The only sensible way to cure is: Feed the nerves on pure blood. Make pure rich, red blood and keep it pure, by taking

WITHHOLD MORTON'S SALARY.

An Amendment to That End Will be Introduced in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The agricultural appropriation bill occupied the attention of the house yesterday. A great deal of criticism of Secretary Morton was indulged in on both sides of the political aisle, but no one rose to his defense. The omission in the bill of a provision for a chief clerk of the bureau of animal industry at a salary of $2,000, which was made upon the secretary's recommendation, led to the intimation that the secretary wanted to legislate out of office P. E. Lyle, a free silver Democrat from Missouri. An amendment was pending when the house adjourned, making mandatory the execution of the provision in the bill for the distribution of seed. It is understood that Mr. Conzins, of Iowa, will offer an amendment directing the secretary of the treasury to withhold the payment of Secretary Morton's salary until this provision is executed.

The speech of Senator Davis supporting the resolution of which he is the author, enunciating the policy of the United States on the Monroe doctrine, was the event of yesterday in the senate. There was added interest and significance in Mr. Davis' utterances, as his resolution voted the sentiments of a majority of the senate committee on foreign relations, of which he is a member. The public interest in the subject was evidenced by filled galleries, the attendance being greater than at any time since the vote on the silver bond bill. Mr. Davis spoke for two hours, and was accorded close attention throughout. The language was temperate and conservative, and was not the radical utterance some had anticipated.

Mr. Davis spoke with gratification of the reports coming from across the Atlantic that a settlement of the Venezuela trouble was likely to be effected, yet the senator declared with emphasis that the American people would never endorse a settlement based on concession of any feature of the Monroe doctrine. While minimizing the possibilities of war, the senator said that a firm and explicit announcement of our policy to resist European encroachments would give the surest guaranty of peace.

Suit for Illegal Discrimination.

HAVEHILL, Mass., Feb. 18.—Oliver Armstrong, colored, has instituted a suit against Louis Valiquet, a barber, for refusing to shave him Saturday night. The colored people of this city complain that they are discriminated against, and this is to be made a test case.

British Troops in Korea.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The officials of the foreign office confirm the news-paper reports saying that a detachment of British marines, among others, have been landed at Chemulpo and sent to Seoul, capital of Korea, in order to protect the British legation there.

The Weather.

For eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Fair, except a partial cloudiness and possibly snow flurries near the coast; slowly rising temperature; decidedly warmer tomorrow; northeasterly, shifting to southeasterly winds.
