REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

To the Republican electors of Pennsylvania: The Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen representatives, will meet in State convention Thursday, April 22, 1896, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the opera house, city of Harrisburg, for the purpose of nominating two candidates for representative at-large in Congress and thirty-two candidates for Presidential electors, the election of eight delegates at-large to the Republican National convention, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented.

By order of the State Committee.
M. S. CHAY,
Chairman.
J. B. REK,
Secretary.

Forty years ago, this 22d of February, the Republican party was born, and it has been growing ever since.

PUGILIST MAHER CAN now blame it on his eyes. He couldn't see Fitzsimmons when the latter hit him.

TRICKS will not be successful this fall. The plain people know precisely what they want, politically speaking.

It is, to say the least, a little foolish to ask for the national delegateship and Congressional honors in the same breath.

THE public credit is all right so far, but there is no reason to suppose it could stand up under another four years of Democratic misrule.

If the ground hog wishes to accept the responsibility—assume the pressure as it were—for the cold wave, perhaps it might be prudent if he did not show himself at all hereafter.

It has been discovered that the figures of the year '96 look the same right side up or wrong side down. This accounts for the result of Tuesday. Some people didn't know where they stood.

PATTON, Pennsylvania's favorite Democratic son, appears to find favor with the Democracy in a good many other states, and at present may be regarded as among the leading candidates of the "unterrified."

THAT yellow-haired youth with a quiver filled with arrows whose points are dipped in the juice of sweet but poisonous flowers, commonly known as Cupid, has been doing pretty good business in this section. His efforts will now relent, that the Lenten season is upon us.

We have had occasion several times to call the attention of the authorities to the inhuman treatment some owners of horses display toward these dumb animals. It is not an uncommon thing to see an unmerciful driver urging his horse to pull a load that is big enough for two horses. The dumb animal cannot defend himself, but obeys blindly the driver's orders. If the law was applied to these cruel and inhuman people with the same force that they apply the lash to the dumb beasts, there would be less cause for complaint in this respect.

The aspect of financial affairs, says Henry Crows, continues to steadily improve. In the intrinsic conditions of trade, and in the earnings of corporations, there is no great change; although the tendencies are favorable and the feeling is growing more and more hopeful. It is conceded that there is now a clear prospect of a year's comparative rest from distress; and that at least affords a safe basis for all operations not extending far into the future. In respect, however, to certain special conditions, which have long disturbed confidence in our finances on both sides of the Atlantic, there is a change so marked and important as to lay the basis for a distinct revival in Wall street interests.

A PERFECT AMERICAN.

Everybody knows that in honor and memory of George Washington's birthday, the 22d of February is observed as a holiday. It is one of the few dates that we remember. But we question whether young people know that our first President is the only American whose birthday is kept; that he is not only the one American who has a public birthday, but "the only human historical character who has one anywhere in the world."

Washington will always stand peerless and alone as the perfect American, and as one of the grandest and most heroic figures on the pages of human history. The world has never seen his superior, and, without attempting to forecast the possibilities of the future, it is safe to say that no one will ever attain, in the estimation of men, the place held by him. He will always rank as "first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

The late humorist, Artemus Ward, once referred to Washington as the only great man who never "slipped over." There is much in the hoary expression. How many of the world's heroes have passed before the world and said and done things for which their friends blushed and because of which even they in after years hung their heads with shame! And yet rarely did Washington lose that majestic self-possession, his matchless poise, and not once did he fail in displaying good, hard, common sense.

He could be stern, as when he refused the prayer of Andre; and it is easy to believe that had he been able to lay his hands on Arnold he would, in his consuming wrath, have smitten him dead to the earth. He could be tender, as when at Trenton lie stood with sympathetic words beside the bed of the dying Hessian commander; but the one all swaying, all controlling motive of his life, was his love for his native land. He recoiled from the offer of the crown of his country as he would have recoiled from the rattle of a snake in his path.

Washington had many good traits of character, but, to our mind, the sweetest picture in which he appears is when, on his way to become the first President, he turned aside to bid his aged mother good-by. The massive man, in the prime of his magnificent powers, with the strength of a giant, picked up that frail, wasted form as if it were that of an infant, and, holding her to his vast chest, kissed her again and again and mingled his tears with hers. What greater crown of glory could woman crave than to be the mother of George Washington?

May the day that gave Washington to the young republic ever be honored, and in so doing we honor ourselves as a nation.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the spring, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act so surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison, Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, etc., as Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at A. Wasley's drug store.

The Board of Pardons has refused a pardon to Henry and Adam Bankes, of Ryan township, who were convicted at the September term of criminal court of an assault and battery upon Henry Blew.

A warrant is in the hands of a constable calling for the arrest of Joseph Miller, a Polish saloon keeper, of Mahanoy City, for an alleged violation of the Sunday liquor laws, on oath of two Shenandoah countrymen.

J. A. Murphy, of Pottsville, has succeeded John T. Canfield as manager of the Mahanoy City beef house of Swift & Co.

The Borough Council of Pottsville will organize this year with closed doors.

John O. Ulrich, county solicitor, was bitten by a dog.

Sheriff Scott has the fair grounds of the Schuylkill Agricultural Society, at Orwigsburg, advertised for sale in pursuance of an attachment for $4,866.67 in favor of the Schuylkill Real Estate, Title, Insurance and Trust Company, of Pottsville.

Marvellous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamond, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at A. Wasley's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

Marked by Energy and Intelligence.

John F. Graf, a well known young merchant of Shenandoah, died at 5 o'clock last evening, after a short illness. Death is attributed to heart disease with anemia. Mr. Graf's business career was marked by his energy and intelligence. In a little store not much bigger than a candy shop he built up one of the finest grocery trades in Shenandoah. His ardor was the admiration of newspaper people from their wit and originality, and would be looked to by readers as soon as the news to see what new surprise he was springing.

Indigestion

Yields readily to Hood's Sarsaparilla because it tones and strengthens the stomach and aids digestion by supplying pure blood.

"I had indigestion so badly that I was all run down and could hardly walk. Had no appetite and could not sleep. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken a fourth of a bottle I was very much better. I also used Hood's Pills and found them splendid, very mild, yet effective. I cannot say enough in praise for what they have done for me. Since using two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills occasionally I feel almost like a new person. I have a splendid appetite, sleep well and work with ease." ANNE C. LANTZ, Belleville, Pennsylvania.

A Book for Young Men.

An immeasurable amount of suffering and injury to the human race, is due to the ignorant violation of physiological laws by the youth of our land. Ruinous practices are indulged in, through ignorance of the invisible injury to the constitution and health which surely follows. By every young man, the divine injunction, "Know Thyself," should be well heeded. To assist such in acquiring a knowledge of themselves and of how to preserve health, and to shun those pernicious and most destructive practices, we have written a little book which is replete with useful information to every young man. It will be sent to any address, securely sealed from observation in a plain envelope, by the World's Dispensary Medical Association of 668 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y., on receipt of ten cents in stamps (for postage), if enclosed with this notice.

Berlin's Great Strike Renewed.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—The tailors and seamstresses have held stormy meetings in different quarters of the city, which were attended by 15,000 workers, and they have repudiated the agreement made on Thursday in their behalf. The great strike continues. The agitation has extended to Madgeburg, Erfurt, Eisenach, Breslau, both the Frankforts, Speler, Worms, Ashaffenburg, Munich, Augsburg and many other towns and cities. Wages in the German clothing trade are low, averaging in some places hardly ten marks a week for women (less than $2.50), for twelve to eighteen hours hard work a day. The main reason is that most of the women work at home, and that their relations with their employers are regulated by middlemen, who pocket the lion's share of their earnings.

WHERE HEART DISEASE IS UNKNOWN.

A Beulah Land in Contrast With This Age of Fret and Fume.

Where this Beulah Land? Thousands will enquire, for Heart Disease is striking down its victims in every corner of the land, and its victims grow apace. Beulah Land, the victor of heart disease is to be found in the use of that remarkable medical discovery, Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, which is miraculous in its effectiveness. In desperate cases it gives the quickest relief—really within 30 minutes after the first dose is taken—and in a short time banishes the disease. Where the symptoms are less pronounced, every wise man and woman will take this medicine as a certain means of freeing the system of any elements of heart trouble. Only one positive statement does this medicine justify—it is an absolute cure for heart trouble. Sold by S. P. Kirkin.

The French Chamber Wins.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—In the senate yesterday M. Demole, Republican senator for Saone-et-Loire, read a statement protesting against the cabinet's interpretation of the constitution, but withdrawing the interpellation which he would offer, demanding an expression from the government concerning the responsibility of the cabinet towards the senate and the chamber of deputies, leaving the country to judge between the cabinet and the senate, which latter body, he said, had decided not to provoke a crisis. The senate approved M. Demole's statement by a vote of 184 to 60, thus capitulating before the chamber of deputies.

COUNTERFEITERS CONVICTED.

The Veteran Brockway and His Pals Pronounced Guilty.

TRENTON, Feb. 22.—The jury in the Brockway counterfeiting case last night returned a verdict of guilty as to the three defendants, with a recommendation to mercy in the case of Wagner. The guilt of Brockway and Mrs. Smith was determined upon immediately after the jury's retirement, but three hours were consumed in deliberating over Wagner's case.

The scene in court was pathetic when the verdict was rendered. The room was dimly lighted, and on a table lay all the counterfeiting paraphernalia which has played such an important part in the trial. Mrs. Smith was sobbing bitterly, while Wagner, his arms around her, vainly tried to console her. Mrs. Wooten, Brockway's granddaughter, sat upon the old man's lap, with her arms about him. She, too, was weeping, but Brockway was the calmest in the room. Edward Smith, Mrs. Smith's son, and Miss Maggie Ross, who was a witness for the defense, also gave way to the strain of the situation.

Judge Green thanked the jury, and said the recommendation in Wagner's case would be considered. He announced that no sentence would be imposed until counsel for the defense had been given an opportunity to present reasons why he should exercise clemency.

The extreme penalty is an imprisonment of fifteen years and a fine of $5,000 on each of the ten counts in the indictment.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Rapid Rise in the Price of Bonds Strengthens Public Confidence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The restoration of the treasury reserve has been effected with remarkably little monetary disturbance, though stringency in many markets, greater elsewhere than here, and greater in commercial than in other loans, has somewhat retarded business. The rapid rise in the price of bonds strengthens public confidence. While money markets are growing easier as rapidly as could be expected after the withdrawal of over $70,000,000 from unemployed funds, the expected activity in commercial loans does not appear, as offerings are small.

In no important branch of business is there yet apparent much disposition to expand. Purchases to cover several months' actual consumption were made within a few weeks on rising markets last fall, distribution to consumers has been slow and reductions in prices have not brought a renewal of such buying. Prices of commodities, as a whole, are now at the lowest average ever known.

In almost all manufactured products decline continues, though in some classes quotations are so irregular that the change cannot be accurately measured.

Bradstreet's review says: While no radical improvement has appeared in the general trade situation, more favorable influences are reported than for some weeks. Hardly less favorable than the improvement in bank clearings is the sudden drop in the total number of business failures throughout the country, that for the week being 278, against 381 last week, 327 in the corresponding week one year ago, 225 in the week two years ago, and 202 in the third week of February, 1893.
