Putting in a New Front.
Workmen are now engaged in making extensive improvements at Kefowich's clothing store. The entire front will be torn out and one of the largest and handsomest glass fronts in the county will take its place. The interior will also undergo a change, new and handsome fixtures will be put in, and when the improvements are all completed Mr. Kefowich will have one of the finest store rooms in the county. He will make a specialty of children's suits and novelties. In quality, variety and price he acknowledges no competitor, and the people of Shenandoah will be enabled to make as good a selection as in any of the large cities. The Kefowich building, when all the improvements are completed, will be an ornament to the town.

PERSONAL.

Thomas Timmons spent to-day in Shamokin.

P. J. Devers, of Freeland, spent yesterday in town with friends.

Mrs. George J. Wadlinger, of Pottsville, has given birth to a daughter.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert O'Boyle visited friends at Centralia to-day.

Mrs. T. H. Hutchinson will spend Sunday with relatives in Sunbury.

School Director Charles Hooks and family expect to move to Pottsville next Tuesday.

F. E. Bausher, traveling passenger agent of the P. & R. R., was in town to-day.

Mrs. John Spence and son, Frank, who spent the past three weeks visiting her parents at Brownsville, returned to her home in Philadelphia to-day.

Letter Carrier M. J. Malone to-day entertained his colleagues at Peabody's, in Ashland. Mart is a jolly good fellow and if the votes of his fellow-carriers could make him President he would soon be in the White House.

Just Think of It.
The Factory Shoe Store is leading them all. Why? Because their prices are your prices, and their goods are right up to date.

The Grim Reaper at Ashland.
Jacob McHardy, aged 68 years, died at Ashland Thursday night, after a brief illness. The deceased was formerly a resident of Wm. Penn. The following children survive: Jacob, Jr., George, Mrs. Lewis Wilmann, and Mrs. Frank Linkhorst, of Wm. Penn. and Daniel W. of Ashland.

Mrs. Jesse Wentzel, another resident of Ashland, died Thursday night, aged 68 years. A husband and two sons survive. The funeral took place this afternoon.

To My Friends.
If in need of a fine suit, ready-made or made-to-order, call and see me at J. H. Williams', cor. Market and Centre streets, Pottsville.

Advertised Letters.
Letters addressed to the following named people remain uncalled for at the local post office: Frank Neiman, William J. Kibby, George Grimmer, James Findley, Jr., Mrs. Victor Delacey, Mrs. Mary Carney, Harry Cole, A. Allen, Christ. Cook and Bernard Brigham.

Don't miss one of Wood's charter member scholarships, at half price. They are going like hot cakes. Call on Prof. Martin at the Ferguson House.

Do You Wear Shoes?
If so, you can save money by buying them at the Factory Shoe Store. We are offering big bargains in shoes. For example, we are selling a boy's calf congress for $1.25 that can't be bought anywhere for less than $2.00. In fact, all our prices are about 20 per cent. less than at other places, because they are factory prices.

March Term Jurors.
The following are among the jurors drawn for the March term of court beginning March 23d: Michael Graham, H. M. Bradigan, Edward Kester, Monroe H. Keller, Michael Scully, of town; Thomas Broderick, Frank Kline, Henry Curtis, Mahanoy township; Robert Jarvis and William J. Smith, Gilberton.

Suing for a Commission.
Last summer Michael Curley and son, Patrick, then residing in town, but now of St. Clair, placed their East Lloyd street property for sale. Justice Laylor claims he was employed to sell it. The property was purchased by Dr. J. P. Roberts directly from Curley. Laylor asserts that he secured the doctor as a purchaser and made a demand for $100 for his services, which was refused and a suit followed. Yesterday the case was arbitrated at Pottsville and an award found against Michael Curley for the amount claimed and no cause of action as to Patrick Curley. The Curleys are represented by C. E. Breckons and M. M. Burke, Esqs., and Laylor by J. H. Pomeroy, Esq.

At James Goodman and Co's.
Fresh eggs 17 cents per dozen.
Best pound-print cranberry butter 25 cents.
Country dairy round prints 20 cents.
Good tub butter, 10 lb. tubs, 18 cents.

Arm Scalded.
John Jennings, the butcher, had one of his arms badly scalded yesterday while at work at his slaughter house. He slipped and fell in such a manner that one of his arms extended into a vat of boiling water. Dr. D. J. Langton dressed the arm.

WANTED.—Three or four good boarders. Apply at 130 East Coal street.

Special Sunday Services.
A special patriotic and home missionary program has been prepared for to-morrow evening's service at the Presbyterian church, it being the Sabbath set aside in commemoration of Washington's birthday. The program is as follows: Hymn, invocation and Lord's prayer, scripture responses, hymn, Home Mission responses, the Children's Song, reading, hymn, address, offering, prayer, hymn, benediction.

Special services will also be held in the M. E. church, corner Oak and White streets, to-morrow evening. Rev. Meredith, the pastor, will deliver a special sermon to the members of the P. O. S. of A., in commemoration of Washington's Birthday.

ONLY ONE BRIEF ROUND!

call of "time" known. Up sprang Fitzsimmons, advancing with his little eyes flashing like balls of burnished blue. Maher's advance was rapid enough to meet Fitzsimmons at the middle of the twenty-four foot ring. His eyes were circled from the recent attack of "alkali eye," and seemed staring like a stage make up without the deceptive footlight glare. The big fight for the heavyweight championship of the world was at last a reality.

Fitz led with his left and Maher backed towards his corner. Fitz landed with his right and a clinch followed. Maher struck Fitzsimmons with his right hand while they were clinched, and Referee Siler warned him that if he did so again he would give the fight to Fitzsimmons. After a breakaway Peter landed his left on Fitzsimmons' neck. Close infighting followed, and Maher succeeded in landing his left on Fitz's upper lip, drawing blood. Then Fitz landed with left and right. A clinch followed, Maher fainted and Fitz led with his right, but fell short. A mix up followed, in which Maher landed both right and left on either side of Fitzsimmons' head. Maher led with his left, and another clinch followed. Fitz seemed a bit bothered, and broke ground on Maher's leads. Maher followed him up and led with his left, when Fitz side stepped and swinging his right landed full on the point of Maher's left chin. Maher measured his length on the floor, his head striking the canvass with great force. He vainly attempted to arise, but could do no more than raise his head. His seconds called on him to get up, but he failed to respond, and sank back to the canvass. The fatal tenth second was counted, Maher was declared out and Fitzsimmons announced the victor.

As Maher fell to the floor Fitzsimmons stepped back, his eyes sparkling and a smile playing around his mouth. He gazed upon his fallen foe for about three seconds and then walked over to his corner and sat down. Julian, McCoy and Everhart crowded around him, urging him to get up and fight.

"Look out for him, Fitz," yelled Julian; "look out for him."

"Stand up, for heaven's sake," pleaded Everhart, "he may come at you."

"Get away from me, get away from me, I tell you," snarled Fitzsimmons. "It's all over, he's out," and by the time he had finished speaking, Maher's championship was a thing of the past.

The winner sat for a few minutes in his corner looking across at Maher, and then jumping briskly to his feet he walked rapidly across the ring and offered his gloved hand to Maher. Peter reached for it, but Fitz drew it back with a laugh, and getting Julian to untie the string at the wrists he walked back to Maher and offered his bare hand, with the remark: "Well, Peter!"

Maher reached for the extended hand and shook it heartily without rising from his seat or raising his head to look at his conqueror. Julian then announced that Fitzsimmons was "ready at any time and place to defend his title of champion against any man in the world," and the declaration was greeted with loud yells of approval.

Maher was unconscious fifteen seconds, and it was fully a minute after he had been carried to his corner before he regained consciousness.

"He got me good and hard, and that was all that there was to it," he said. "I heard the referee counting and heard the men in my corner calling me to rise, but I could not rise. When I knew anything at all I was in my corner and they were rubbing my face with water."

Fitzsimmons was very modest regarding his victory. "I could have put him out the first punch," he said, "but did not reach him hard enough. There never was a minute since the match was made that I have anticipated any other result than this. I knew it was all over when I landed on him. It was dead easy from the start."

A quieter and better behaved lot of visitors to a prize fight never gathered. General Mabry and twenty-six of his Texas rangers, with heavy laden cartridge belts, horse pistols and Winchester rifles, accompanied the train. The rangers and the Adjutant General witnessed the fight and enjoyed it. But those who had the best view of the mill were the villagers and persons for miles around who have been looking for it for a week or more. They were perched in the cliffs on the Texas side of the river, and had a bird's eye view of the arena beneath, and they cheered at the knockout as loudly as those at the ringside.

The general opinion among the sporting men who witnessed the fight was that it was a most brilliant and unequalled victory for Fitzsimmons. Maher may not have been in as good condition as the Australian, but he could not have been out-fought so quickly, no matter what his condition had been, had he not been badly outclassed in point of skill. The general feeling is that Fitzsimmons is fully capable of giving Corbett or any other man on earth a desperate hard fight at any time. No weights were announced at the ringside, but Fitz weighed about 195 and Maher about 185.

During the brief fight there was a slight rain, which, though not heavy enough to prevent the meeting of the men, was disastrous to Mr. Rector and his kinetoscope, as no pictures could be taken. As a result, after the fight, Rector offered Fitzsimmons $5,000 cash if he would fight Maher six rounds on some fair day. Fitz agreed to the offer, with the extra proviso that he must have 50 percent. of the kinetoscope receipts. Negotiations thereupon fell through.

The crowd disappeared from Langtry almost as quickly as it had come, and it was not in the neighborhood over two and a half hours all told. The west-bound regular train for El Paso was held until 6 o'clock p. m., and when it went out carried with it the pugilists and nearly every person who had come down to see the fight. The one special train from El Paso started on its homeward way at the same time.

The village of Langtry has one saloon—the Jersey Lily—and about fifty residents. It is 3 miles from El Paso and 234 from San Antonio. Del Rio is sixty-four miles away. A special train from Del Rio and El Paso brought 175, which, with those from El Paso, were all there were about the ringside. There were five cars from El Paso, carrying 150 spectators, all of whom paid $1.15 each for the trip and $2.75 for the fight.

No more perfect place for a fight without interference could be devised. It is all but inaccessible and from the Mexican side cannot be reached, except by coming up over the stream for a long distance. Two hundred Mexican troops were at El Paso, ready to move upon advice from the governor of Coahuila, in which

Paine's Celery Compound Gave Mrs. Porter Back Her Strength.

These sharp, raw, capricious days of February are blamed for much sickness that is simply the direct result of nervous weakness.

Perfect health will keep one above any depressing influence from the weather.

Pure, richer blood and better fed, nervous tissues will make people feel well even in February.

During his many years of hard and wonderful work, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, Dartmouth's great professor, had in mind the thousands who were weak and run down.

His study of the many cases of nervous prostration, neuralgia, rheumatism, dyspepsia, and debility led him to that most marvelous discovery of the century, Paine's celery compound.

In every city, as well as the smaller villages scattered through this country, are men and women who for years have relied upon Paine's celery compound whenever they found themselves weak and out of health. Hundreds of letters like the following from Mrs. Porter, of New York city, tell how this great medicine has kept them well and strong.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1896.
MESSRS. WELLS & RICHARDSON CO.,
Dear Sirs:—For several years I have used your Paine's celery compound whenever I found myself running down in health. During that time I have recommended it frequently to my friends and I know of many persons who have been benefited by it. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, and take great pleasure in expressing to you my belief that it does a great work for humanity.

Mrs. M. PORTER, 282 Eighth Ave.
Mrs. Porter's experience is like thousands of others. Paine's celery compound made her well, because it fed the starved nerves and blood and regulated their functions. Try it and be convinced of its remarkable power to cure disease.

since the night took place, but it would have taken them two days, forced marching, to reach the spot of the fight.

Corbett Challenges the Winner.
CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Corbett had a big house at the Haymarket last night, and he was wildly cheered when he read the following telegram to H. L. Beach, Associated Press correspondent at Langtry, Tex.: "Tell Fitzsimmons to come to Chicago between March 1 and 6, and I will make a match with him for any amount, to fight him in any place on earth." Corbett, after reading the telegram, placed $1,000 in the hands of Manager Davis, of the Haymarket theater. "There are only three places on earth where we can fight," said Corbett, "England, South Africa and Australia. I will go to any one of these places to meet this man. I want to say right here, as a young American of Irish descent, that I will meet any man on the face of the earth."
