They Saw II.

The Hazleton Standard gives the following account of the blowing up of Miller & Bachert's powder mill in the Catawissi Valley, between Ringtown and Zion's Grove, on Monday : The explosion was witnessed by Nicholas Stoegner, Abe Thrash and Elder Spangler, of West Hazleton, who were in the vicinity at the time on a fishing expedition. When within 200 yards of the mill Stoegner asked Thrash whether he ever saw a powder mill explode, he replied in the negative, and no somer had he uttered the words, when the engineer of the mill, who was on the second floor, appeared at the window and shouted : "Lookout, boys, there she goes," and a second later there was an explosion, scattering the debris right and left and ecathering the detries right and left and filling the air with smoke. The engineer escaped by dropping out of the window to the ground. He sustained several body brubes. This is the second explosion of this mill within a year. The damage is esti-mated at $1500. The escape of the three West Hagletonians was a mirae
