THE WARFARE IN CUBA

To Send Twenty-five Thousand Soldiers After Maceo.

A HUNDRED THOUSAND MORE MEN

To be Sent from Spain to Suppress What the Spanish Government Chooses to Call an "Insignificant Uprising of Unorganized Malcontents."

HAVANA, June 2.—Word has been received here that Antonio Maceo has attacked the town of Consolacion del Sur in Pinar del Rio and has obtained an entrance to the plaza armas. At the time the report was dispatched it was said that the garrison of the place had already lost four killed and ten wounded. A lady in the town had also been killed.

It has been decided to send 25,000 men immediately in pursuit of Antonio Maceo, and complete his isolation in the province of Pinar del Rio. The bands of insurgents in Pinar del Rio and Havana province are reported to be very short of resources. It is alleged that Zayas, on account of his last defeat, is completely demoralized.

It is also reported that Collazo, with 3,000 men and artillery from Santiago de Cuba, has arrived in the district of Sancti Spiritus to join Gomez, but it is felt that this course will not suffice to break the trocha and to rescue Antonio Maceo.

The report that 100,000 reinforcements are to be dispatched here and that a loan of 300,000,000 pesetas (about $57,000,000) has been concluded by Spain, produces the best impression here. The people see in the loan a proof of the sympathy of all Europe towards Spain in the Cuba affair. Opinion here approves the course of the government.

A column of the battalion of Rouse has had a fight with the insurgents near Cumaragua, in which the column lost two killed and five soldiers and one lieutenant wounded.

The lieutenant colonel of the battalion of Navarro encountered 1,200 insurgents under Morejon. When they were dislodged from their positions they left nine killed and fifteen wounded.

Colonel Moroto left Cuevitas near Colonin Matanzas to fight 3,000 insurgents who were supposed to be from the province of Santa Clara. When attacked they divided into groups and retreated, leaving two killed.

The report is received here that a Spanish gunboat chased and fired upon the steamer Laurada near Port Anton, Jamaica.

A Well Known Lawyer Disbarred.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 2.—Cornelius Smith, one of the best known criminal and damage case lawyers in this section of the state, was yesterday disbarred from the Lackawanna county bar, in an opinion read by Judge H. Edwards and concurred in by Judges R. W. Archbald and F. W. Gunster. The disbarring is directly connected with the famous Jennings suits against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company. Attorney Smith was the leading counsel for the plaintiff and charged Deputy Prothonotary Kasson with packing the juries, the late Judge Connolly with corruption in trying the case, Judge Archbald with knowing of the corruption at the time, and Judge Gunster with withdrawing, at the instigation of Deputy Prothonotary Kasson, an opinion handed down in a libel suit which was a consequence of the Jennings case.

Abortion and Murder.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 2.—Sophironia Beauregard, aged 24, who lived with her married sister, Mrs. Frank E. Clair, was found dead in bed at Chandler's hotel early yesterday morning. An autopsy showed that death was the result of an unsuccessful criminal operation, attempted with a bicycle pump. About 8 o'clock Sunday night Eugene Bernatchez, aged 21, a carpenter, and Miss Beauregard started on a bicycle ride. It is alleged that about on hour later the couple entered Chandler's hotel and registered as "John M. Smith and wife, Boston." The night clerk assigned them to room 19. About 12 o'clock Miss Beauregard was found dead, lying partly disrobed on the bed. Bernatchez has not been found.

Milwaukee Strikers Not Yet Subdued.

MILWAUKEE, June 2.—In a speech to the striking street car men at a monster picnic at the Shooting park W. D. Mahon, national president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, declared that the fight against the railway company has only begun. The organization of a street railway in which the city of Milwaukee shall own a majority of the stock was urged as a means of bringing the Electric Railway and Light company to terms. It is claimed that the project will receive the indorsement of the city council. Next Sunday there will be a monster parade and picnic, in which 10,000 workingmen from Chicago alone will participate.

Kharpoot Missionaries Homeward Bound.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 2.—The family of Rev. Crosby H. Wheeler, of Warren, Maine, and Mrs. Mary E. Gates, of Chicago, wife of Rev. C. Frank Gates, missionaries at Kharpoot, have arrived here on their way to the United States. Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Gates both suffered losses during the riot and massacre at Kharpoot last fall, and the fright of that event caused Mrs. Gates to give premature birth to a child, which did not survive.

Probably a Murder Case.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 2.—Paul Kopressak, a Slav, died yesterday at Charity hospital, evidently a victim of the bludgeon. Kopressak was picked up with a fractured skull on Sunday morning in an unconscious condition on a public road near Port Kennedy, and brought to the hospital. Kopressak died without recovering consciousness, and the manner of his death is a total mystery.

Brooklyn's Trolleymen May Strike Again.

BROOKLYN, June 2.—Discontent at the lack of system existing in the management of the Brooklyn trolley lines, which makes it difficult for motormen and conductors to earn a full day's pay, is having its effect upon the employes, who are again talking strike, and there is more than a possibility that there will be a tieup of the Nassau and Brooklyn Heights systems.

General Harrison to Visit Wisconsin.

DARTFORD, Wis., June 2.—Green Lake is soon to have a visit from former President Harrison and his bride. They will be the guests of General John C. New, who has had a summer cottage here for many years. They are expected to arrive this week. The news of the St. Louis convention will reach the ex-president here.

YANKEES AND BRITONS

Quickly Suppressed Disorder at Corinto, Nicaragua.

TOOK POSSESSION OF THE TOWN.

A Honduras Ally of the Nicaraguans Made a Bold Demand for Possession of the Custom House, but Was Promptly Brought to Terms by a Show of Force.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Associated Press correspondent at Managua, Nicaragua, under date of May 14, sends the following: In view of the fact that the government controlled the wires at the time, the correspondent of the Associated Press here has been compelled to send by mail the following account of the landing, on May 2, at Corinto, of a force of about 100 American and British marines from the United States cruiser Alert and the British cruiser Comus, who, acting in the most perfect harmony, occupied that port and protected, until May 4, the property of foreigners in the custom house and at the railroad station, subduing a riotous and drunken mob, which threatened to cause the most serious disturbances.

About March 24 Samuel Mayorga, who was minister for the treasury in the Baca or revolutionary government, made a demand on Mr. H. S. Harding, an English subject, controller of the branch at Leon of the London Bank of Central America, for a loan of $80,000 on about $33,000 of Nicaragua bonds of doubtful ownership, threatening to withdraw protection from the bank if the demand was not complied with within a given time.

Mr. Harding succeeded in staving the matter off until he managed to have letters delivered secretly to Commander Franklin Hanford, of the United States cruiser Alert, then the only warship at the port of Corinto, and to the United States consular agent at Corinto, Mr. Henry Palazio. Commander Hanford immediately assured Mr. Harding that he would resist any effort to take by force the property of citizens of the United States or of subjects of foreign governments in friendly relations with the United States. Commander Hanford sent this letter by the United States consular agent, who took prompt action and succeeded in saving the money of the English bank from the Nicaraguan officials, while at the same time, clearly showing the insurgents that the property of foreigners could not be interfered with.

But on April 16 Minister Mayorga issued a decree in the name of the revolutionary government, declaring that the officers and books of the custom house at Corinto were to be at once removed to Leon, the capital of the revolutionary government, situated about thirty miles in the interior, adding that "owing to the fact that the troops of Honduras (sent to assist the army of President Zelaya) might at any time overcome the small force of President Baca's troops at Corinto, and seize the millions of dollars' worth of merchandize in the custom house belonging to citizens of Nicaragua and to foreigners.

It was evident, however, that the real object of Mayorga's move was to obtain possession of this property and hold it as security for a war loan. The foreigners protested to Commander Hanford and to Captain Henry H. Dyke, of the British cruiser Comus, which had arrived at Corinto about April 5. The American and British commanders decided that they would not allow the insurgents to take possession of the property of foreigners in the custom house or railroad depot at Corinto, as the latter buildings, being within 900 yards of the guns of the two warships, were at least as safe as if the property was at Leon.

This enraged Minister Mayorga so much that he caused the arrest of all natives in Corinto between the ages of 17 and 70 years, on the plea that a great battle was imminent at Momotombo. After detaining them on the railroad cars for a few hours Mayorga released all of those who could pay him from $100 to $200 in cash and returned to Leon with the other unfortunate inhabitants of Corinto, without giving any receipts for the money collected, but declaring that he would return again to Corinto. This he did on May 1, when his party disbanded and sought safety in flight.

Although the chiefs of the insurgent party succeeded in escaping, a great number of the officers and soldiers of the insurgent army, with their arms, flocked to Corinto, in the hope of getting out of the country, but were unable to get away, owing to the lack of means. The disappointed soldiers became reckless after their leaders deserted them, began drinking and rioting. Some of them succeeded in crossing the estuary and made for the woods. Others commenced robbing houses and threatening the lives of everyone of the law and order class at Corinto. Women were insulted, and an attack upon the custom house was planned.

On the morning of May 2 the commandants, at the request of the peaceful residents, sent a committee to Chinandega with a letter to Manuel Bonilla, vice president of Honduras, who was in command of the troops of that republic sent to support President Zelaya, to send a force to protect that port. While the committee was away the most serious disorders broke out at Corinto. The disbanded soldiers seemed to be insane with drink, robbed houses, violated women and young girls, and began gathering about the custom house. Palmer, the commandant of the custom house, hurried a written request for protection to Mr. Henry Palazio, the United States consular agent, requesting the latter to appeal for help to the commanders of the American and British warships in port, the Alert and Comus, asking them to land men and take charge of the port.

Commander Hanford and Captain Dyke again consulted and decided to comply with the request. Consequently, at about 1 p. m. on May 2, a force of about 100 marines, commanded by four officers and a number of midshipmen, were landed from the Alert and the Comus. The marines quickly drove the rioters into hiding. The flag of Nicaragua was hoisted to the flagstaff in front of the custom house and the Stars and Stripes and the British flag were hoisted at either end.

In the evening General Metuta and about eighty Honduras soldiers arrived, and the Honduras general demanded the surrender of the custom house, but as he could show no authority from President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, the demand was refused. The following day (May 3) he made another demand. This time he was so offensive that the warships were ordered to prepare for action, and he quickly apologized and withdrew with his troops. The next morning Corinto was turned over to the Nicaraguans.

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cart load of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD," referred to in this paper, and the company promises to send the book, in sealed envelope, without any marks, and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

Defects in the Battleship Oregon.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Defects in the construction of the big battleship Oregon, just completed, have recently come to light. It appears that there have been departures from the contract requirements as to the thickness of the plates used in making up the protective deck, and that the deck has been made to appear of the proper thickness by using thin concealed plates in the body of the deck. The facts have been brought to the attention of the department by dissatisfied employes, but the contractors have agreed to make good the defects.

The Bermuda's Latest Trip Successful.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A letter has been received by Thomas Estrada Palma, of the Cuban delegation in this city, from President Betancourt of the Cuban republic, in which it is stated that the thirty-four men and a large quantity of ammunition sent by the last Bermuda expedition had been safely landed on the island and had joined an insurgent detachment sent to the place in anticipation of the landing. A report that the men had been captured by the Spaniards and that the vessel had to fly to escape capture is contradicted.
