EISENHOWER MURDER TRIAL.

The Jury Secured After Exhausting the Whole Venire.

THE "HERALD" REPRESENTATIVE.

He Furnishes a Full and Detailed Report of the Trial Up to a Late Hour This Afternoon—The Line of Defense Probably Insanity.

SPECIAL TO EVENING HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, June 16th.—The trial of Theodore Eisenhower for the murder of John Schwindt, at Shenandoah on the 17th of February last, started in earnest this morning and may consume the balance of the week. It was announced yesterday that the Commonwealth would call about twenty witnesses and that the defense had subpoenaed thirty-six, but last night the Commonwealth issued subpoenas for twenty-two additional witnesses, so that a large audience is assured for the trial in those compelled to attend, if not in curious people. That the attendance on the part of the latter will be large, however, is almost a foregone conclusion. The people of this place seem as much interested in the case as the people of Shenandoah. Not because of any particular interest in any of the parties connected with it, but on account of their being "a woman in the case." To every inquiry as to what case is being tried before Judge Savidge the reply is, "That Shenandoah woman case." This is a signal for a grand rush to the court room and there is a great straining of necks, not to get a glimpse at the accused man, nor the weeping widow, or the fatherless children who sit either side apparently unable to understand what is transpiring, but to get a look at Mrs. Eisenhower, the wife of the murderer, and on whose account Eisenhower says he did the shooting. But Mrs. Eisenhower is not in evidence. She has thus far kept away from the court house, and in fact from Pottsville. If the defense does not subpoena her it is not likely that she will be seen here at all, as she will not appear here voluntarily, and the Commonwealth cannot subpoena her, as she would then be made a witness against her husband. It has been hinted, however, that Eisenhower's children may be put upon the stand against him. In such an event they will be called upon to testify to the event on the night Eisenhower says his wife behaved unseemingly with William Schwindt, the man Eisenhower intended to kill.

It is understood that the prosecution will endeavor to show that Eisenhower's proclaimed grounds for jealousy are merely fabrications and that he had determined to kill William Schwindt in revenge for a beating he received at the hands of Schwindt.

The defense, it is believed, will set up a claim of insanity and attempt to show that it was brought about by the wife's unfaithfulness. It is also expected considerable evidence will be introduced to show good character on the part of the accused.

The preliminaries of the trial concluded at 6 o'clock last night, when the twelfth juror was secured. At 5:30 the panel of 70 was exhausted. After 62 had been examined Clerk of the Court Sherrill explained that one of the remainder had failed to respond, one was excused from duty on account of being deaf and the other six were excused for various reasons. Up to 5:30 but seven jurors had been secured. Judge Savidge directed that efforts be made to secure the rest from the jurors who had been stood aside after examination, and in half an hour the seats in the jury box were filled. Judge Savidge then instructed the jurors as to their duties between sessions of the court. He admonished them not to talk about the case, or allow anyone to talk to them concerning it. He also admonished them not to read any newspapers published in this county and only such other newspapers as shall first be inspected by the court. The jurors are also to remain together and are in charge of two court officers at the Hotel de Court, of which Joe Wadlinger, formerly of Shenandoah, is proprietor.

In the panel of jurors examined were George Douglas, William H. Green, Thomas A. Evans, Jacob Noll, John Watson, James Bell, Edwin V. Williams, John Daddow and E. J. Wasley, of Shenandoah, and Levi Durnsill, lately of Shenandoah, but now of Gilberton. None of these were accepted. Neither side was disposed to accept a resident of Shenandoah. Several of the parties named said they had formed an opinion on the case, but could set aside the opinion and render a verdict on the evidence.

Silas Hofnagle, of East Union township, was among those examined. He said he could render a verdict of murder in the first degree, knowing hanging to be the punishment, but not in Eisenhower's case, as he had known the man from boyhood. Hofnagle was excused.

All but three of the jurors are comparatively young men, apparently in the thirties, but all are married. Both sides seemed disposed to select only married men for the case. The jury impaneled is as follows:

- No. 1. A. E. Granzow, shoe dealer, Ashland.
- No. 2. George Hill, miner, Silver Brook.
- No. 3. Isaac H. Lutz, laborer, Tamaqua.
- No. 4. D. B. Thompson, miner, Tremont.
- No. 5. Harry Wigmore, watchmaker, Tremont.
- No. 6. Levi Kisinger, merchant, Shenikill Haven.
- No. 7. T. L. Prosser, painter, Ashland.
- No. 8. Jacob Ledisch, farmer, Hubble township.
- No. 9. Maurice J. King, laborer, Tower City.
- No. 10. Wm. W. Leonard, laborer, St. Clair.
- No. 11. Patrick Dougherty, miner, Ashland.
- No. 12. Frank Horn, clerk, Ashland.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

The jurors, witnesses, Judge Savidge and court officials were on hand promptly at nine o'clock this morning, but it was ten minutes after the appointed hour when District Attorney Edgar Bechtel commenced his opening address before the jury. The prosecuting official opened the case by saying that on the 17th day of January, last, Eisenhower appeared at the Turkey Run colliery in an intoxicated condition and asked William Schwindt to take him home and Schwindt agreed to do so upon condition that Eisenhower would promise not to beat his (Eisenhower).

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

It Was Called to Order by Chairman Carter To-day.—Fairbank's Speech.

SPECIAL TO EVENING HERALD.

ST. LOUIS, June 16, 3:35 p. m.—The Republican national convention was called to order here to-day by Chairman Carter, of the National Committee, and C. N. Fairbanks, of Indianapolis, was made temporary chairman.

Temporary Chairman Fairbanks opened his speech with review of achievements of Republican party to date, extolling its policy on tariff reciprocity and currency, and denouncing free coinage of silver. When the Republican party was in power he said our currency was as good as the best on the globe. We made sound money and an honest protective tariff to go with it; sound money and an honest protective tariff to go hand in hand, not one before the other. Great and splendid and powerful as our government is it cannot accomplish the impossible. It cannot create value; it has not the alchemist's subtle art of transmitting unlimited silver into gold, nor can it make 50 cents worth one hundred cents. As well undertake by a resolution of Congress to suspend the law of gravitation as attempt to compel an unlimited number of fifty cent dollars to circulate with one hundred cent dollars at a parity with each other. An attempt to compel unlimited dollars of such unequal value to circulate at a parity is bad in morals and vicious in policy. We protest against lowering our standard of commercial honor.

We stand against the Democratic attempt to degrade our currency to the low level of Mexico, China, India, Japan. The present high standard of our currency, our labor, our flag will be secretly protected and preserved by the Republican party. The struggle for Cuban liberty enlisted the ardent sympathy of the Republican party—a party which has given to liberty the fullest meaning on the continent. We wish to see a new republic born on Cuban soil to greet the new century whose dawn is already purpling the East. My friends, the campaign of 1896 is upon us; the great questions are free trade and free silver against a protective tariff and sound money.

Chairman Fairbanks closed his speech with these words: "A distinguished Republican has said that the supreme desire of the American people is for an honest currency and a chance to earn it by honest toil."

Fairbanks Selected.

A special telegram from St. Louis this afternoon states that C. W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, was made temporary chairman of the Republican national convention and Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, permanent chairman. At 1:35 the indications were that Connecticut would declare for gold.

SENATOR QUAY IS STILL IN IT

His Name Will Be Presented to the St. Louis Convention.

GOV. MORTON FOR VICE PRESIDENT

It is Now Stated That New York's Governor Will Stand for the Position—Platt's Victory Over Miller—Chauncey I. Filley Defeated.

ST. LOUIS, June 16.—As a result of much telegraphic negotiation between St. Louis and Albany it is definitely stated on what is believed to be good authority that Governor Morton has finally yielded to the solicitations of his friends and has agreed to accept the vice presidential nomination, and despite the split in the New York delegation, is now to be vigorously pressed for the nomination.

The selection by the various state delegations of their membership on the committees was not marked by sensational incidents save in New York and Missouri. In New York all the snarlaldering bitterness between the Platt and anti-Platt factions broke forth, and ex-Senator Warner Miller, the head of the anti-Platt faction, threw down the gauge of defiance to the New York leader. He made a ringing speech, in which he spurned the leadership of a man who had declared that McKinley was unfit for the presidency, and moved to depose him by making Chauncey M. Depew chairman of the delegation. There were hot words on both sides. Thurlof Wood Barnes denounced the Herkimer statesman who had been instructed for Morton as a traitor. The anti-Platt faction polled seventeen out of the seventy votes in the delegation voting, and Mr. Platt was re-elected chairman.

Thurlof Wood Barnes' denunciation of Miller made even the Platt adherents who surrounded the delegates look on with amazement. "Steak, sword, crawler, traitor, jayhawker and backslider" were a few of the expressions used, and Miller sank back in the seat, his lips trembling, his face white with anger, but his lips sealed. John Raines was even more bitterly personal in his remarks. "Destroyer of trust, liar, kicker and sergent in the camp" were some of Raines' expressions, and he would stride across the floor and put his finger almost under Miller's nose.

After this sensational meeting had ended Mr. Miller said: "I fail to understand how Mr. Depew could possibly have misestimated my meaning. After the meeting this morning, when everybody understood the situation thoroughly, Mr. Depew talked with me and made no amendment to withdraw. His extreme at this time, it seems to me, is, therefore, illusory. I am not disturbed by the personal attacks upon me, but I am disturbed at Mr. Depew going back on his word to me. But," he added significantly, "the fight is on in New York, and we now know who our friends are."

Mr. Depew this morning reiterated his statement that he had entirely misunderstood Mr. Miller's proposition.

As a result of the meeting it is found that seventeen of the seventy delegates will cast their votes, not for the New York state convention's choice, but for William McKinley. The delegates are: George H. Nevins, T. B. Willis, G. H. Roberts, W. B. Atterbury, John Milliken, F. J. Klattenbach, C. N. Bliss, S. V. R. Cruger, A. G. McCook, William Brookfield, General Collins, R. J. Wright, W. H. Robertson, Albert Storg, George E. Matthew, W. C. Dudley, N. V. Fanchot and E. A. Curtin. It is believed that this vote is surprising even to Mr. Platt.

Pennsylvania will present the name of M. S. Quay to the convention, and of the sixty-four votes of the Keystone state fifty-eight will be for Quay and six for McKinley. The McKinley men counted four votes as sure before the caucus convened at 8 o'clock last night, and they count the result as a gain for them, although the caucus went from first to last as the Quay men dictated. The program was written out before the caucus met, and with the exception of two unimportant items the proceedings were in exact accordance with
