ONE-FIFTH DIE.

Troubles Come Thick in Baby's First Year.

Two-Thirds Die in Summer of Bowel Disorders.

The Scourage of Infants Under Five Years.

Why Lactated Food Is a Sure Preventive.

It Makes Weaning in Summer an Easy Undertaking.

The first five years of every baby's life is only a sort of probation.

Insurance companies refuse to take the risk of their living, and no one will be surprised who counts the funerals with the white hearse that sadden the streets of every city and village throughout the summer.

Half the deaths in June are those of children under five years.

A third of all who die every year are infants.

If every one of the children who succumbed to intestinal diseases had been fed on a diet of pure lactated food there would have been no fatal cholera infantum.

After using lactated food for five years in cases of children suffering from cholera infantum, and in debilitating or wasting diseases, during which time it has never failed me, I have pleasure in calling attention of physicians to it, and in recommending its use.

There is nothing equal to lactated food to take the place of mother's milk.

It is made for the express purpose of forming a perfect substitute for healthy mother's milk, as analysis will show.

Baby must not stop eating heartily when hot weather comes. Loss of strength is more dangerous at such times than any other.

The danger lies in the child's food proving indigestible, clogging and irritating, and thus inviting diarrhea and cholera infantum.

Many a mother, too, has been strengthened by using it. It makes nursing easy by providing an abundance of rich breast milk.

Thousands of infants whose mothers have been sickly have thrived and grown to be strong children upon lactated food, which is as pure and health-giving as the air among the hills of the Green Mountain state where it is made.

trick, Schwindt said, "I am shot in the back; send for a doctor." There was no cross-examination.

Justice T. T. Williams identified the revolver that Harry Smith gave him and which Smith says he took from Eisenhower's pocket, Eisenhower said, "I shot Bill Schwindt. He ruined my home and I made up my mind to shoot him, and I shot him." Eisenhower did not appear to be excited at the time.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

Judge Savidge was on the bench promptly at nine o'clock this morning. His first act was to hastily scan letters which some of the jurymen had written to be sent to their respective families. His Honor, in a very agreeable manner, told the jurors that they need not hesitate about incorporating anything of a private nature in their letters, as the inspection of them by the court was a matter of form and he paid no more attention to the contents than the law required.

Dr. J. S. Callen, of Shenandoah, was the first witness of the forenoon and upon direct examination by Mr. Whalen stated that he reached John Schwindt's home about an hour after the shooting. Dr. Callen described the attempt with the other physicians to probe for the bullet and also the operation performed by Dr. Biddle, in which Dr. Callen assisted. The latter testified that the spinal chord of the victim was found almost completely severed. Dr. Callen was not the attending physician and therefore could only give the probable cause of death. To this Mr. Brumm objected and was sustained.

Mr. Brumm cross examined Dr. Callen for 20 minutes on the operation and the methods the doctor favored in connection with such operations. Upon re-direct examination Dr. Callen said great care was exercised in removing the amount of bone from the spinal column to remove the bullet, because they didn't want to expose any more of the spinal marrow than was necessary; the less exposed the better for the patient.

WILLIAM SCHWINDT TESTIFIES.

A buzz of interest ran through the court room as William Schwindt, brother of the man that was killed, was called to the stand by Mr. Whalen. I have resided in Shenandoah 18 years. I am 30 years of age. I resembled my brother. We were twins. We both worked at Turkey Run colliery. My brother was a miner. I was a watchman in the drift. My employment brought me inside the mine. One week day shift, one week night. I was on day shift the week my brother was killed. I usually went home at 4 o'clock in the afternoon when on day shift and had no particular route to go home.

I saw Theodore Eisenhower for about two years before this shooting. He was a seaman at the Turkey Run colliery. He lived at the colliery.

An objection by Mr. Brumm to a question as to whether William Schwindt had trouble with Eisenhower was overruled by the court, Mr. Whalen stating that he proposed to show a motive for the intended murder; that Eisenhower wanted to kill the witness for revenge following the trouble the prisoner and witness had.

Eisenhower eyed the witness on the stand sharply and bit at his finger nails. Schwindt retained composure and looked at the respective counsel as they argued, paying no attention to the prisoner.

"Now, Mr. Schwindt," said Mr. Whalen after the ruling, "tell us what occurred in Eisenhower's house on the night you had the difficulty with him?"

Schwindt: "On the 3rd of August, last, Eisenhower came to the colliery intoxicated, or pretended to be so, and wanted to lay in the boiler house. I was going to get him a gum coat to tie down, but the foreman said it was too damp and then I told Eisenhower he had better go home. He said he would if I would go with him. Between the house and the boiler house I told him I would not go with him if I thought he would make any trouble at the house. He said he would be good. He said he wanted me to go with him because his wife had locked the door. When we reached the house the wife and one or two sons were on the porch. Eisenhower said to the wife, 'You locked the door on me.' The wife said she didn't. We went into the house and Eisenhower laid on the floor. I said I would light my pipe. The daughter, two sons and the wife were in the room when I was leaving Eisenhower sprang up and caught hold of my wife. I said, 'Theodore, my God! you promised me not to do anything.' I caught hold of him and in the scuffle that followed he fell, or I threw him down. I am not sure which. I ran out of the house then. Afterwards Eisenhower had me arrested before Squire Cardin for assault and battery.

The court sustained Mr. Brumm's objection as to whether the witness had heard that Eisenhower had made threats against him, or that the witness had told his brother that Eisenhower had made such threats.

The witness stated positively that he was never at Eisenhower's before or after the difficulty.

Cross-examination by Mr. Brumm—I had not been at Eisenhower's that night before I went with Eisenhower. As watchman I was my duty to patrol as far as the drift mouth and one leg of the drift timber at the mouth is in the boiler house. The door of the house was open when we got there. The lamp was burning in the room when we entered. The house is about 100 yards from the colliery. Eisenhower could walk to the house, but was about three parts full, but could talk as sensibly as I could. When I tried to prevent Eisenhower from attacking his wife Eisenhower grabbed me and when I got away from him I ran out. I did not turn the light down in the room that night.

Mr. Brumm: "Who did?"

Mr. Whalen: "Objected to."

Ovrruled.

Schwindt: "The wife."

Brumm: "Didn't she turn that light down because she sat in your lap?"

Schwindt: "No, sir."

Brumm: "Or you in her lap?"

Schwindt: "No, sir."

Brumm: "Schwindt, will you swear before this jury that this woman was not sitting in your lap that night?"

Schwindt: "I can swear she was not on my lap, or near me."

Schwindt also swore that he had no intimacy with Mrs. Eisenhower that night, or any other time, and that he was never in her house before, or after that night.

During this examination Mrs. William Schwindt, wife of the witness, became so much affected that she was obliged to retire from the court room.

Schwindt continued his testimony: On the night of the difficulty Eisenhower's wife and children left the house after the difficulty. I saw them standing on the railroad and then it started to rain and I saw them go under a shed. That was between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning. I didn't see them after. I advised her to get out of the rain and go to the house or the shanty. I went to sleep on the timber under a shed. I don't know what became of the wife after. Louis Gray and Edward Farrell were with me when I saw the woman and spoke to her. I didn't notice whether she had her baby with her or not.

Savilla Eisenhower called. I am past 17 years of age and daughter of Theodore Eisenhower. I remember the night when Schwindt was at my house. He came there with my father. I was in the middle room with my two older brothers. My father and Schwindt came in the kitchen first, my mother was right in front of them. She had been out to help fetch father in. I heard no talk. My father wanted his coat, hat, vest, shoes and stockings of. Schwindt helped to undress him. My father laid on the floor. I was sitting with my mother on the opposite side of the room. Mr. Schwindt told father to go to sleep and he would light his pipe. I had the child and it became restless. I took it upstairs. When I got to the top I heard a racket and went down. Mother, Schwindt and father stood at the door. Father had a chair raised above his head. After the trouble my mother, brothers and myself left the house and we remained in the bush until daylight. When I went back to the house my father was not there. My mother returned to the house at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. I heard my father make threats against William Schwindt the morning after the difficulty and about an hour after I got home. Said he would have revenge, that he would kill my mother and Mr. Schwindt and hang for them. She said she left the house with her brothers by getting out of the back window. Had the baby with her. Joined her mother in the back yard.

Mr. Whalen asked the witness why she left the house. She answered she was afraid of her father; she heard him say he would have revenge on Schwindt because he made trouble in the family. The answer was ruled out by the court.

Percy and Oliver Eisenhower, aged 15 and 13 years respectively, sons of the prisoner, swore they were in the house and up stairs with their sister when the disturbance occurred. Oliver said he heard his father threaten to kill Schwindt and to cut him up in pieces.

Burton Kolb, of Shenandoah, was the next witness and testified that he heard Eisenhower threaten to take the life of Schwindt. Savilla Eisenhower was recalled and testified that she never saw Schwindt in the house before or after the disturbance, but subsequently admitted that up to Tuesday preceding the Saturday of the disturbance she was living out. Saw Schwindt at one time setting on the Pennsylvania railroad, and saw her mother going in his direction.

Hugh Gray, who is employed at the boiler house at the Turkey Run colliery, testified that Eisenhower hung around the boiler house up to 7:00 o'clock in the morning after the disturbance looking for Schwindt. Told the witness he caught Schwindt setting on his wife's lap, and if he caught him would fix him. At the time Eisenhower had a penknife in his hand. Schwindt was lying in the lumber pile near the boiler house. Eisenhower's family was seen on the Pennsylvania railroad after the trouble, and went into the shed to protect themselves.

The Commonwealth then rested their case. Mr. Brumm recalled Dr. Church and examined him as to his practice. The witness testified that he had practiced medicine for nine years—one year in Locust Gap, two years in Shenandoah, one year in Seattle, five years in British Columbia and surrounding country, and again in Shenandoah.

Mr. Brumm then recalled Hugh Gray and questioned him particularly as to the parties present when the disturbance occurred.

At 3:15 Mr. Brumm began his address to the jury on behalf of the defense and closed at 3:45.
