THE BABIES FIRST.

Their Diet Just Now the Most Vital Question.

Those Not Eating Well are in Danger of Diarrhea.

Delicate Babies Take Lactated Food With Zest and Appetite.

The tiny heir just born to the Czar of all the Russians is not a whit more precious in his parents' eyes than thousands of little ones who must some day make their own way in the world.

Babyhood the world over has but one proud distinction—health. The only rivalry among babies is in who can eat the heartiest, sleep the soundest and grow the most rapidly.

OWES HIS LIFE TO LACTATED FOOD.

Physicians and nurses who have had large experience in the care of young children in cities as well as in towns emphasize the fact that babies brought up on lactated food escape wasting diseases, cholera infantum and diarrhea in a most unmistakable manner.

Every child, however luckily born, must run the gamut of these summer disorders.
The fearful infant mortality during hot weather has compelled medical men to make extraordinary efforts to find the reason. It is to-day an absolutely ascertained fact that none of these intestinal disorders can be explained by hot weather alone. High temperature simply weakens the infant digestion, and makes it easy for improper feeding to bring on cholera infantum, convulsions and colic.

Above is a picture of the happy baby boy of Mrs. Leigh Putney, of Appleton, Wis., who writes:

"I enclose you will find a picture of our baby, Truman, who owes his present perfect health, if not his life, to lactated food.

"We fed him on milk until he was about 5 months old. At that time he suffered a severe attack of cholera infantum. He did not seem to rally from this, but grew thinner and weaker until he was nearly 10 months old. There were days at a time when he could retain nothing on his stomach, nothing more than a little hot water or arrow-root tea, and even a teaspoonful of milk would bring on his bowel trouble. We tried everything in the line of foods that was suggested, but nothing seemed to be right, and he grew so weak and emaciated that it was difficult to dress or handle him.

"At last on my own responsibility, I determined to try lactated food. He began at once to improve. He has never been sick since then, and we can almost see him grow fat. He has just accomplished the feat of cutting eight teeth all at once, and has not been sick or kept us awake a single night."

Lactated food has saved the lives of thousands of infants during the hot, dangerous months of summer.

Lactated food is the best diet for June.
Cholera infantum often terminates inside a few hours, and no household with little children in it should feel safe during these summer days and nights unless using lactated food.

Lactated food pleases the infant taste and induces the child to eat heartily. Try it.

BRUMM MAKES AN ABLE PLEA

Your opinion may have been as to what this man deserves; no matter if you think it is a curse to have this man in this world; no matter how much you may sympathize with the widow and orphans; no matter how horrible this crime may seem to you, as individuals, that can have no weight in law."

After scoring the Commonwealth for failing to call certain witnesses as demanded by the defense, Mr. Brumm turned his attention to another thought and said: "I never before saw a case where private individuals were hauled before the court, running from one place to another talking to witnesses and carrying messages, as has been done here by a man named Smith—the euphonious name of Smith—from Shenandoah, taking such an unwarranted interest to hang a man. Smith, whose son is the prime witness in the case, Smith, the sportsman, not in any sense or degree related to this family. And yet that exhibition struck me to be at least very unseemly. What do they want? Do they want blood? Is that what they are after? Or, do they really want justice only?"

Speaking more directly upon the defense, Mr. Brumm said: "We say that Theodore Eisenhower shot this man. We are not here to beg this jury, but to assert the truth; and, if facts make that truth, I say broadly and clearly that this jury shall not even have a particle of doubt. Eisenhower shot this man. The pistol, the eye witnesses, the wound, the death, the burial, the widow, the orphans, all show that Eisenhower shot this man. We don't invoke the benefit of doubt on that proposition. We stated as clearly as can be stated in the beginning of this case that we claim only two propositions—that, although he shot him, he didn't kill him; that, though he shot him, and you believe he did kill him, that he is not responsible for his act, and that is law."

Shortly after this Mr. Brumm thrilled the spectators with a dramatic piece of acting.
"I have sympathy for the weeping and misery of his wife and children, and whose fault is it? (Looking over the rows of spectators.) Where is he? It is the fault of Bill Schwindt and the prisoner's wife, unfaithful woman, too. If Dr. Biddle did that which was not necessary to save life and went beyond that purpose and for some personal ambition, to add to his great fame and name as a surgeon one more successful operative, why should he lose sight of his duty as a man and physician and went beyond a necessity to save life, then Dr.
Biddle killed this man."

At this point Mr. Brumm commenced to make use of the vertebra, surgical instruments, etc., in evidence and devoted over an hour and a half in describing how the tools were used, how they must have tended to increase the inflammation of the spinal cord and the sufferings of the victim. He argued that all the evidence agreed that the bullet had done all the harm it could, and could have safely been allowed to remain in the spongy part of the spine, therefore the boring with the trephine, the nipping, etc., was unnecessary.

This morning Mr. Brumm resumed his address to the jury by stating that he would dwell upon the defense to the charge under which the prisoner was indicted and that he would first take up the question of character.
He said that where the act is an unnatural one the character of the accused is immortal and the jury should be satisfied that the accused has been good the natural presumption is that the prisoner must have been of unsound mind at the time the act was committed. If there is any possible case in which good character shall avail much, this is the specific case. Not one. The good ness heard against the reputation of the prisoner prior to last August, which was only six months prior to the commission of the act. Nothing has been said evil of him.
The only evil heard of him is the good.
No one knows, hence it is the law says that you shall not tell what you think, or what your opinions are, but what the neighbors say. The evidence of character hinges upon general reputation. We have opened the doors wide to the Commonwealth. Let them contradict it if they dare.

Mr. Brumm then proceeded to quote from works on insanity with the intention, as he expressed it, to impress upon the minds of the jury the various degrees of insanity and cited the various cases in which insanity had been discovered until the very act was committed and up to that time the insane person had conducted himself as one with brilliant attainments and remarkably good memory, witnesses of which the prisoner Eisenhower possessed.

Referring to Mrs. Eisenhower, Mr. Brumm recalled the shooting and killing by Gen.
Daniel E. Sickles at Washington, D. C., of the man who had been an intimate with his wife at the time of the shooting. In this case Mr. Brumm said, the erring wife begged the forgiveness of the husband. She was forgiven, withdrew from society and for the balance of her life lived with her husband and family.
Mrs. Eisenhower, Mr. Brumm said, "You should have gone on your hands and knees and begged for the balance of your life, asking God to forgive you and become a slave of your husband, instead of becoming the woman who rights his wrongs with will and insane course. It is remarkable that Eisenhower did not kill both her and Schwindt, as Schwindt! Schwindt! Schwindt!!! was in his mind day after day and night after night.
Death would have been welcome to the poor man himself at any time."

Mr. Brumm concluded his address to the jury at 12:10 o'clock, and the court adjourned until 2:00 o'clock. He spoke for eight hours and a half.

When Judge Savidge called court at 2:00 o'clock John A. Whalen, Esq., private counsel for the Commonwealth, began the closing argument, and he will consume about one hour. He expects to close at about 4:30 o'clock, when Judge Savidge will instruct the jury, and the case will be in the latter's hands at about 5:30 or 6:00 o'clock. There is not much likelihood of a verdict to-night.

THE MINELLA MURDER CASE.

It Was Resumed This Morning by the Commonwealth.

POTTSVILLE, June 24.—The trial of Mike Minella, Peter Nazone and Pietro Mico, for the murder of Joseph Zukuski, was continued this morning in court room No. 2, before Judge Albright.

Late yesterday afternoon Thomas Toth, chief of police of Shenandoah, related the arrests made by him, and identified photographs of the scene of the shooting.

James Cooney, of Shenandoah, took the stand and described the flight from the time he saw the Italians coming out of the saloon, until the time he ran away for safety. He saw Richard Amour take a Winchester rifle from Mike Minella, and also saw Joseph Zukuski, standing in the middle of the road, fall, covered with blood. He did not see any one strike Zukuski. The flight lasted about twenty-five minutes. On cross-examination by Mr. Burke, witness stated that he saw the Italians go in the saloon and take a drink; that he saw Joseph Zukuski go in the back room with the woman running the saloon, and when he came out had a pen knife in his hand, which he held behind his back. That they then went down Coal street and in front of Joseph Zukuski's, he said, that man there pointing to a building in the court room, knocked an Italian into the gutter. Then the other Italians came up from Lane street and when I went down the alley 'Big Joe', which was the murdered man, was lying in the gutter and the Italians were all around him. The only one in front of the house when I came back was Joe, the Italians had gone down the street.

After a re-direct examination by Mr.
Bishop, in which witness stated that Mike Minella, one of the defendants, when he was coming out of Dobiedt's saloon said: "I'll kill him like a butcher and shoot him like a dog," but did not know to whom he referred.

The first witness called this morning was Anthony Suckalofsky, of Shenandoah, and he told practically the same story of the fight as the other witnesses.

Anthony Sweeney, of Shenandoah, next took the stand. He remembered seeing the defendants coming out of the saloon on the evening of the 13th of April last. He heard Minella say as he came out of the door, "I'll kill him like a butcher and shoot him like a dog." Saw one of the Italians slip in the gutter and Mike Minella came running up with a Winchester rifle, and pulled out a knife and used it on Joe Zukuski, cutting him on the head and in the back. Minella then pulled a revolver and fired at Joe and the woman of the house. On cross-examination witness stated that he saw the Italians' house on the other side of the street from the saloon where the Italians came out, a lot and a half to the west. That Peter Magone was not with the other two when they came out, but the third man was a large one, who was not in the court room. Did not know which party started the quarrel.

Richard Amour, of Shenandoah, was then sworn. He testified that he was on a car coming from Grandville on the 13th of April last and when near Coal street some women saw him and called to him to get off the car.
Witness noticed a large crowd on Coal street.
When he went up he saw Minella coming up with a Winchester rifle. I went after him to take it. Two Italians saw me and fired at me with their revolvers. Minella saw me coming also and pulled the lever of the rifle back as if to load it again and an empty shell fell out. I grabbed the rifle and tussled with him for a few seconds, when some one said "Look out, Amour, a man is firing." I then called for assistance and two men came to my aid and took the Italian into custody.
One of them took a large knife from Minella.
The other which Amour took from Mike Minella was then produced and Mr. Amour identified it by the number and he also identified the knife. They were both offered in evidence. The rifle was of the Winchester 35 calibre type and was a repeater, the knife was a chapsaw with a hooked blade about five inches long.

Mr. Amour stated that Minella said to him: "They kills my brother, I kills them," after he had taken the rifle from him. When going up the street on the way to the lockup with the prisoner, Minella, witness stated that he had to pass a large number of Lithuanians and Italians and they were brandishing knives and revolvers at him and uttering threats. In answer to a question of Mr. McLaughlin's witness said: "I saw five several shots fired at him by Italians, but none of them hit him."

Mr. Amour was then excused for the present and Dr. Stein was re-called. He produced the bullet which he said he took from the body of Joseph Zukuski and was, in his opinion, the cause of death.

Joseph Lebowacks, of Shenandoah, followed Dr. Stein and gave his testimony through an interpreter. He is the man who is known as "Little Joe" in the case and the one who pushed the Italian into the gutter in front of Joe Zukuski's house. The witness remembered the day of the fight. Did not know any persons in the saloon, and did not know if Joseph Zukuski was there.

Several other witnesses were called and examined, but they only corroborated the previous testimony.

John Whetovago, of Shenandoah, gave his testimony through an interpreter. Said he was present and saw the fight from the beginning to the end. Saw the Italians around Joe and he knocked one of them down. When he got up the middle man, Peter Nazone, started to cut Joe with a knife. Saw Mike Minella and Joe Nazone with knives in their hands. Cut Joe's head with a knife and saw some one shoot but could not tell who it was. The Italian ran down to the house and left Joe lying in the gutter. The witness helped to take Joe to the house, where he died the next day at 11 o'clock. Upon cross-examination the witness said he did not see Little Joe hit the Italian who was knocked down.

Preliminary Examination.

Among those who were before the examiners to-day for admission to the bar, was
