CANDIDATE BRYAN SPEAKS.

And He Declares Himself Opposed to a Second Term.

CHICAGO, July II.-Mr. Bryan received the announcement of his numination with all the composure and columnss at a man who had been used to such things during a longer life than his. His handsome a longer life than his. His handsome black eyes were perhaps slightly more dilated than ordinarily when the Asso-ciated Press bulletin carrying the nomi-nation message was handed to him, but otherwise he manifested no change of countenance or manner. He was, at the time, sitting chatting with two newspa-per friends in his parior at the Clifton House.

"H," said he, 'this is true, I want to do that which I have for some time had in contemplation in this emergency." He then turned to the parier table, and with a lead pencil, wrote on a scrap of paper the following:

"To the American People: In order that I may have no ambition, but to discharge faithfully the duties of the office, I desire to announce that if elected president I shall under no circumstances be a candidate for re-election."

Immediately afterward the hotel began crowding with people who came to offer their congratulations. There were loud calls for a speech, and the candidate made a brief address. Soon the little hotel became so crowded that It was necessary to call in the police for the purpose of keeping the crowd away.

Later the Bland club, headed by the Bland Silver band, marched to the Clifton House and serenaded the Democratic nomines. The loud cries for Bryan and demands for a speech brought Mr. Bryan to the balance by when he was absented waith and cony, where he was cheered again and again.

He smilingly acknowledged the plandits from below, and addressed the crowd. "There shall be no signs of 'Keep off

"There shall be no signs of 'Keep on the grass' when you come around, boys," he began good naturedly to the jostling thousands on the street. Then he asked: "Is this the Bland club?" A yell in the affirmative answered his inquiry, and he proceeded:

proceeded:
Then I want to say to the friends of Bland that if the convention had chosen as their negative the main whose name is inscribed on your banners, he would have had no more legal supporter than I. The fact that he was not chosen ename be taken as the slightest reflection upon his great shifty. No man more deserves of the convention its love, its hopers and its confidences than Richard P. Bland.
When the company is over I, think there is deserves of the convention to leve, its impores and its confidences than Richard P. Hand.

When the campaign is over I thinh it can be said that no mistake has been made. But it depends upon you, upon the plain people. Abraham Lincoln once said that the Lord must leve the plain people because he made so many of them. If we win in thingrast fight it will be because the plain people believe that we will being to them camet and opini dunt fluite. We ruise no plea against the power and the just due accorded to intelligence and to education, but we insist that whan the government comes in contact with the people these must be equal aid, exact justice to all silke rich and paor, areast and humble.

The issues of this campaign is the money question, and we cannot be driven from our faith by the clarge that we advocate dishonest money. The free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 18 to 1, independent of any mainon on the face of the earth, will not give a dollar's worth of value to one and another to another man. It will give to the man who tells the same as to the man who holds the mortgage. It will give to the fight of the campaign, and you, my friends are to do the fighting.

A good many people seem to think that the candidates must do all the lighting. But this you, my friends, are to do the fightfuir.

A good many people seem to think that the candidates must do all the fightfuir. But whit is your fight. It is more important to the people that they should select their officers than it is to the candidate that they should elect them selves. The officers of the people are their sortium, and it is for you to say who your hired man will be.

HUMPHREYS

Mr. Bryan bowed and stepped back, and shout went up which echoed and re-choed through the nerrow street and was taken up and continued for a block in either direction as the candidate waved a parting salute to the harrahing crowd below and re-entered the hard.

low and re-entered the hotel.

Mrs. Bryan was not present when the news came. She occupied a platform seat in the convention, and did not leave the hall until after the recess which followed.

The state executive committee of the "honest money Democracy" of Hilmots have adopted a resolution favoring a national convention for the purpose of nominating independent Democratic candidates for president and vice president. Senator David B. Hill and William C. Whitney left Chicago at 6:30 last evening for New York. Governor Flower and a large number of the New York delegation remained for the night session. Senator Hill was for the night session. Senator Hill was asked if he had anything to say and he re-plied: "I was a Democrat before this convention, I am a Democrat still." Senator Hill said that his absence from the convention yesterday was not, as reported, in-tended to mean that he had belted the convention of the gold men at the Chicago convention, will support the ticket headed by Bryan. He said so last night in unequivocal terms. Then his attention was called to the proposed action of the gold Democrats, headed by Mr. Whitney and others, looking to the appointment of a committies, one from each state, to obtain the views of citizens as to the advisability of nominating a gold ticket. To this he re-mominating a gold ticket. To this he replied: "I will vote the Democratic ticket."

"Do you mean that you will support the nomines of such a convention?"

"Undoubtedly not By the Democratic ticket I mean the ticket regularly nominated at Chicago, hended by Bryan, of Nebraska. I have no sympathy with a convention of bolters, and that is what a convention such as it is proposed to hold would be."

Asked his position on the platform, Mr. Pattison said: "The views of the convention, expressed in the platform, may be somewhat extreme, but they seem to be acceptable to a majority of the delegates of the party and were adopted by cham."
