BABY'S CRITICAL YEAR.

Infant's "Second Summer" the Mother's Dread.

Age When Cholera Infantum Proves Most Fatal.

Avoid Mistakes in Diet by Feeding With Pure Lactated Food.

Mothers look forward to baby's "second summer" as an anxious pilot does when he approaches the narrowest, most risky part of his course.

In most cases the child, but recently taken from its mother's milk, has not yet fully adapted itself to its changed diet. It takes but a trifle to overturn its digestive organs: a sudden rise in temperature, even a single indigestible meal, too heavy food or the least impurity, are enough to bring on a sudden attack of diarrhea.

Thousands of homes are to-day freed from the dread of cholera infantum and such wasting diseases by lactated food. Countless parents now sleep soundly, knowing their precious charges are safe, even when the nights are hottest. Lactated food fully meets every need of growing children. It is a perfect substitute for mother's milk—sugar of milk is the basis of both. Children weaned or for any reason deprived of breast milk grow steadily and keep strong and well when fed with this best of all infant foods.

Next to breast milk, when the mother is vigorous and fully capable of bringing up her baby, lactated food has no equal. But hot weather reduces the richness and abundance of mother's milk as well as weakens the child's appetite and power of digestion.

In such cases lactated food is far superior to breast milk that has become thin from protracted nursing, or that for any reason is not agreeing with the child. This is proved by the splended way in which lactated food brings babies through the teething period when they are fretful and disinclined to eat at all.

Says Mrs. Grace Agnew of 657 East 6th St., Erie, Pa., in a letter to the proprietors of this best of foods:

"I have been using lactated food, with excellent results, since my little one was two months old, and am still using it. She likes it so well, and it agrees with her so nicely that we are buying the hospital size for her. Little Vi was 21 months old the 12th of November, and weighs 24 pounds, which is just three times as much as when she was born. She held her own during teething time and the hot summer weather, and in the last three months has gained three pounds. She is the life of the house, is strong and healthy, and I feel sure we owe it to the use of lactated food."

Birthday Party.

Miss Estella Smoyer last evening celebrated her 10th anniversary by entertaining at her home, 219 West Coal street, Bessie, Carrie and Harry Heckler, of Lost Creek; Annie, Emma, Lillie and Hattie Davis, Bella and Hannah Leeb, Maud Lewis, Annie Harms, Eva Roberts, Minnie and Mary Meuser, Mamie Ramer, Ella Thompson, Louisa Williams, Mollie and Lizzie Zimmerman, Carrie Deegan, Vena Mases, Katie Bevan, Ray, Hannah, Florence and Margaret Smoyer, Noah, Harvey and Herbert Ramer, Lloyd Smoyer, Garfield Zimmerman, Edward Schoppe. Vocal and instrumental music and games were indulged in and refreshments were served.

Dr. Baird to Go to McKeesport.

Dr. W. C. Baird, of Brownsville, has been notified of his appointment as resident physician at the McKeesport, Pa., General Hospital and will enter upon the discharge of his duties on August 1st. Dr. Baird has a host of friends who, while regretting his approaching departure, will be pleased to hear of his advancement professionally.

Ask your grocer for the "Royal Patent" flour, and take no other brand. It is the best flour made.

The Bast Colliery.

It is now believed that the Bast colliery will be able to resume operations within two weeks. The fall was a heavy one, and the damage to the slope was very great, but the company officials have every reason now to think that the work of repair can be completed in the time mentioned. Three shifts of men working eight hours each, are working night and day clearing up the rubbish, and putting in new timber, and the work is being pushed ahead with all possible speed.

Driven to Death.

"Tony" one of Michael O'Hara's black team of hearse horses, dropped dead at Indian Ridge colliery last night. Mr. O'Hara loaned the horse to a young man of town to drive to Mahanoy City. The horse was kept in use about six hours. The borrower acknowledged that he drove the horse to death and will make reparation to Mr. O'Hara. The horse was valued at $150.

Will Preach To-night.

Rev. Alfred Hoebner, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, will occupy the pulpit of the Lost Creek Union church this evening. Services will commence at 7.30 o'clock.

Obituary.

Joanna Capewell, aged 93 years, died at Port Carbon this morning. Deceased was the widow of Benjamin Capewell, formerly a well-known resident of St. Clair and a sister of the late Mrs. Thomas Boddall, of Port Carbon, at whose home her death occurred.

PROF. BOGART EXONERATED

Bogart's to give the Board an unfavorable opinion of him; that it was the feeling of the Board that had not the rumors gained circulation he would still be in the schools; and that the Board would not have permitted him to resign, but would have prosecuted him and discharged him if there had been cause to justify the action.

An affidavit by Miss Catherine Norris, now superintendent of the schools, stated that Clara Yates is smaller than the average girl of her age. (Detective Toole claims she is well developed.) Miss Norris swears she believes the Yates charges are wholly untrue and that Prof. Bogart is a man of excellent reputation and ability.

An affidavit by Minnie Rebeck, a pupil in the schools, states that the Yates girl told her that the story was what she had dreamed and that it had no foundation.

Elsie and Lillian Shuck, also pupils, swear that it was the universal custom for children to visit the schools and receive instructions from teachers; that Prof. Bogart frequently escorted them and other pupils home after such meetings and they never saw him do anything other than what a gentleman would. That he was always more like a father than a stranger.

Elizabeth Gallagher swears she was employed as a domestic in Prof. Bogart's home and lived in a place adjoining Knoxville. She went home every night and when she was delayed after dark Prof. Bogart escorted her home. His conduct was always that of an upright and honorable gentleman.

A clipping from a Knoxville newspaper stamping the Yates charge as a malicious attack for vengeance upon Prof. Bogart, as well as a letter to similar effect and embracing a high recommendation to State Superintendent Schaeffer from Griffin Reno, D. D., of Knoxville, and Frank D. Troth, ex-Secretary of the Knoxville School Board, were also read. A similar letter from W. O. Quest, of Knoxville was read and then President Price read the report of the committee that visited Knoxville, and which was favorable to Prof. Bogart. It was read at the last meeting.

President Price concluded his presentation of affidavits by reading one by Superintendent Bogart, in which he swears that he never treated the Yates girl ungentlemanly, or in any way insulted her.

Immediately after this affidavit was read Mr. Higgins moved "that Detective Toole be called in as further evidence." Mr. Devitt seconded the motion, but it was lost by a vote of 7 to 8. Mr. Church voted with the six Democratic members.

Mr. Devitt and President Price had another lively discussion on the relevancy of Mr. Toole's appearance, the President overruling Mr. Devitt with the statement that if Mr. Toole had any papers he could send them and that it was understood that the evidence he had gleaned was embraced in the affidavits that had been read.

Mr. Devitt: "Perhaps not half of ours is out yet."

Mr. Price: "If he has any papers let him send them in."

Mr. Devitt: "Well, I don't know that he has."

Mr. Hanna: "We are investigating this case and I don't see what dread there can be of having Mr. Toole come in here and giving what he learned."

Mr. Price: "He has given what he has found in the affidavits presented."

Mr. Edwards contended that there really was only two pieces of evidence bearing directly on the charge—the affidavit of the girl making it and the affidavit of Superintendent denying it. He added, "Suppose a girl came into this room when Mr. Hanna was alone and asked him for a book, and after getting it, the girl went out and said he had insulted her. How could he prove himself innocent?"

Mr. Hanna was anxious to reply and made it quite lengthy, saying, substantially, that he would not run away, but would stand his ground and face the charge, etc.

Mr. Edwards replied with the remark that Mr. Hanna's denial would not prove his innocence.

Mr. Hanna: "Don't the father and mother say that Mr. Bogart promised that if they would let the matter drop he would resign and leave the town?"

Mr. Edwards: "And five of the School Directors swear that that is not true and our committee to Knoxville claim it is not true. We have the commission from the State Superintendent; the Attorney General decides he has no jurisdiction; then you went back to the State Department and asked them to recall the commission, and the answer you have. Now, we have these affidavits, a flat contradiction of everything you have read. You cannot do any more than make Prof. Bogart deny it under oath, and you have his statement before you. A man's word should be as good as his oath.

Mr. Hanna: "O, no; a man's word is not as good as his oath."

Mr. Edwards: "I say a MAN'S word is as good as his oath at all times."

Finally Mr. Edwards made the following motion: "I move that the Superintendent that was elected on May 5th, 1896, to serve for three years be entirely exonerated from these charges, that the report of the State Superintendent be accepted and filed and that the committee of five be discharged." Mr. Baugh seconded the motion.

Mr. Devitt moved as an amendment "that the superintendent does not be exonerated and that the committee be continued until he has proved himself innocent of the charges preferred against him."

Mr. Lee said he did not think there was any alternative left, but to accept Mr. Bogart.

Mr. Edwards: "An intelligent and impartial man would not ignore all the evidence that is there. We have the affidavits of five members of the Knoxville School Board swearing that there was no evidence against Mr. Bogart, or he would not have been allowed to resign. Are we going to ignore them and believe just what the girl says?"

Mr. O'Brien: "We are just in the same place as when we started this evening. I don't think it fair to acquit this man without having a hearing in Knoxville and if we do not, I say gentlemen right here, the citizens and tax-payers will not stand it and a meeting will be called, and we will have an investigation over our heads."

Mr. Sullivan: "This thing of only two affidavits. I want to know if Mr. Bogart would go out on the street if he intended to commit that act. There couldn't be but two there."

The amendment to the motion was defeated and the original motion carried by a vote of 8 to 7, Mr. Church voting with the six Democratic members on both.

Wood's College.

The students already enrolled for September will make a large school. All the old teachers will be retained, as they have proven eminently satisfactory, and every thing will be added to make the college first-class in every department.

Wood's colleges stand at the head of business colleges, and the graduates are taking the preference in all our large cities.

The business men of Philadelphia take all the finished students they can get, while the applications of Philadelphia students are thrown in the waste basket.

The success of Wood's colleges is not an accident, but is due to the management and talents employed.

Faculty, students and equipment all combine to make a college. Wood's colleges have them all.
