THE STATE CAMPAIGN OPENS

Many Patriotic Democrats in Pennsylvania for McKinley.

THEY RISE TO THE OCCASION!

Ringed Address to Sound Money Men in the State—Three Electors Have Resigned. They Could Not Consistently Stand Upon the Chicago Platform.

(Special Correspondence.)
PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—The sentiment of the state as reflected in the last week has been entirely favorable to McKinley and Hobart and against Bryan and Sewall. The patriotic Democrats of the commonwealth have arisen to the importance of the occasion, and, like the war Democrats of 1860, are for the Union first and the party afterwards. Already three electors have resigned from the ticket, while thousands of Democratic voters have announced their intention of bolting in November.

There is much significance in the consultation held by leading Democrats of this city to consider what line of duty they should accept in the present presidential contest. The following resolutions were offered by John C. Bullitt and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, 1. That the platform adopted by the Chicago convention is neither honest nor patriotic, and, therefore, nor Democratic.

2. That it differs so radically from the past doctrines of the Democratic party, and particularly from the national platform of 1860, and of the Pennsylvania platform of the year 1886, that we cannot, as honest Democrats, accept its wide departure from true Democratic doctrine, and we believe that the highest duty of true Democrats is to make every effort to defeat the ticket nominated at Chicago.

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed, of whom the president of this meeting shall be chairman, with instructions to confer with representative Democrats throughout the state, for the purpose of formulating some plan to preserve the integrity of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, and secure the defeat of Bryan and Sewall.

As a result of this meeting an address has been issued to the Democracy of the state. It is signed by Henry D. Walsh, chairman; John C. Bullitt, George F. Boer, James F. Sullivan, William M. Singler, Joseph Morwitz and Emanuel Furth. Commenting upon the platform the address says:

"This platform is a bold and startling departure from the principles, traditions and teachings of the Democratic party as proclaimed from the birth of the republic, down to the assembling of the convention at Chicago—a platform so false, so mischievous in its tendencies, and so dangerous in its policies to the welfare and peace and life of free government that it behoves all honest and patriotic men to denounce and condemn it."

"It proposes to deluge the coin of the United States by the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the rate of 50 cents for a dollar of 100 cents, and by the power of the government to compel the acceptance of these false and debased coins—no longer so limited in amount as to be convertible into gold—by the people at their nominal value, thereby cheating honest creditors, defrauding the laborer of nearly one-half of his wages, robbing the pensioned soldier of one-half of the value of his pension, contracting the currency, by the expulsion of gold coin from circulation, and injuring, if not destroying, our commerce with European countries, enriching a few silver mine owners at the expense of the people, and permitting, under cover of law, a dishonest debtor to evade payment of half his indebtedness. It tends to bring the farmers and the workmen down to the wretched financial condition of the people of Mexico, India, China and Japan, agricultural countries in which the silver standard prevails, and where the rewards of labor are lower than anywhere else in the world."

The address further says: "The Chicago convention having thus departed from the Democratic faith and promulgated new and strange doctrines, and having erected within the temple of Democracy a shrine for the worship of false gods, all Democrats are absolved from every obligation to respect or support its revolutionary methods; and as the doctrines announced are dishonest, destructive of national honor and private obligation, and tend to create sectional and class distinctions, enrage divisions and hatred and strife among the people, we are bound as true citizens of the republic to repudiate it, and exert every lawful means to insure the defeat of Bryan and Sewall, who have both given their adhesion to its false doctrines."

POSSIBLE STATE CONVENTION.
"Many of our fellow Democrats who regard the integrity of party organization as of the first importance will doubtless feel constrained to accept the platform and nominees of the Chicago convention under protest, and trust to the future to restore sound Democratic principles; but those who are Democrats from belief in and attachment to the just principles of free government, which the party has hitherto so courageously and persistently asserted, and who regard party organization as only a means to secure the practical enforcement of those principles in the administration of government, cannot conscientiously accept so narrow a view of their duty to their country."

The over-enthusiastic and over-confident Populists and Silverites who counted

Senator Cameron as one of their own are disappointed. He has not been figuring prominently of late, but he turns up all right, as might be expected. Cameron will support McKinley. "I am for free silver," he says, "but I am not a fool."

There is a world of wisdom in this brief sentence. Senator Cameron was one of those who entertained the idea that in some way, it was never quite clear how, silver might be restored to circulation without repudiation, robbery and revolution. He rather acquiesced with the idea as possibly good politics. But he is not and never was a fool. And seeing what has come of the fallacy, and into what company it would take him, he draws out. Whatever may have been Senator Cameron's notions on silver, he has no place in the Populistic gallery. And there are many others who will come to a similar conclusion and will define their position toward the Chicago platform in his sententious phrase, "I am not a fool."

Republicans and sound money Democrats here are interested in news from Washington. In the first place, it can be stated with authority that Secretary of the Navy Herbert will not support the ticket nominated by the Chicago convention. Then Assistant Secretary Hamlin, of the treasury department, who is supposed to represent President Cleveland, is out in a statement in which he says:

"No political issue is involved in the coming election. The question to be decided is far deeper and more vital. The perpetuity of Republican institutions has been threatened. Every loyal citizen should ally himself against the forces which control the Chicago convention, a force of lawlessness, which are inconsistent with the maintenance of the republic."

"Henceforth there should be no Republican—no Democrat—but a union of loyal citizens against the combined forces of repudiation and disorder. When once this dangerous element has been stamped out at the polls by an indignant people we can again divide and discuss those political questions which for generations have kept alive the two great political parties."

Waldron's Big Canada Horse Sale at Pottsville.

Waldron, the great Canadian horse shaper, will arrive in Pottsville on Tuesday with two car-loads of horses that are to be sold there in public auction on Thursday, July 30th. There will be draft horses, chucks, roadsters, drivers, express and general purpose horses, in fact there will be horses of all kinds. Every horse must be sold as Waldron has the reputation of never drawing a horse from the ring. When Waldron was in Shenandoah two weeks ago, he sold thirty-two horses in less than two hours, and every one knows that every horse led into the ring found a new home, which will be the same at Pottsville. So if you are in want of a horse it will pay you to go to the big sale next Thursday, July 30th, at one o'clock promptly, rain or shine, at the Stock Yard Stables, Pottsville. 7-27-st

Promised to Leave Town.

About 11 o'clock last night Chief of Police Tish found two tramps loafing about the Pennsylvania Railroad station and placed them under arrest. One said his name was Ryan and that he hailed from Pittsburgh and the other registered at the Hotel de Steffal—Murphy, from Williamsport. They were held in custody until this morning and then discharged upon a promise to leave the town and not return.

THE CYCLONE IN THE EAST

SEVERAL FATALITIES REPORTED!

In the Pittsburgh District Three Men Were Killed, While One Was Killed by a Falling Tree in New York City. Many Farms Destroyed.

PITTSBURGH, July 28.—A wind and rain storm of unusual fierceness visited here at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, causing the loss of at least three lives and doing immense damage to property. Several dwellings were completely demolished and others partially wrecked. Eight or ten churches had their roofs blown off and were otherwise damaged. Telegraph, telephone and electric light poles were snapped like pipe-stems, mixing the wires in an inextricable mass in the streets and making travel in many sections of the city impossible.

Pierce lightning and high wind accompanied the storm, or rather two storms, for Pittsburgh and Allegheny was the meeting place of one storm from the west, which came up the Ohio valley, and another from the east, which followed the course of the Allegheny river. Such a battle of the elements is rarely witnessed. In East Pittsburgh and Wilkesbarre hail fell in large quantities. In the first five minutes of the storm 3/8 of an inch of water was precipitated, and the wind reached a velocity of thirty miles an hour.

At 8 p. m. another storm broke, almost as fierce as the first, and 3/8 of an inch of rain fell, making a total of 1.13. The rivers are now rising and another flood is expected.

Among the casualties reported is an accident to the camp of the Eighth Ward Hunting and Fishing club of Allegheny, who were in camp at Sugar Grove. The members say the storm was cyclonic. Trees in the grove were broken and twisted as though they were weeds. A large sycamore was snapped off near the ground and fell upon the tent of campers, killing John Egan, breaking the back of George Miller, who will die, and seriously injuring Thomas O'Connell, Charles Kosuth, Jack Metz, Frank Ott and Harry Biddle. On Greenfield avenue Joseph Ashford was killed by a sign striking him on the head. In Sharpshooter W. L. Norr was killed by the falling roof of a house.

At McKee's Rocks, where Professor Gerdvode, curator of Carnegie Museum, had a band of men at work digging an old Indian mound in the interest of science, lightning struck the shed under which the party had taken refuge, shocking into unconsciousness one of the laborers and Mr. Pool, son of a college professor. Both will probably die.

The result of the storm in property damage has not been fully gathered, but it is known that all through Allegheny, the south side and the east end, many houses were unroofed, sills blown down and windows broken. Along Pennsylvania avenue toward Homewood, where many fine mansions are located, the splendid shade and ornamental trees ruined. It is estimated that $200,000 will hardly cover the loss in this locality alone. Reports from outlying towns tell of much damage to property.

In Allegheny twelve people were struck by lightning. They are in the hospital and considered by the physicians to be in a critical condition. Their names are: Almer Hays, freight receiver of the Fort Wayne railroad; A. B. Bennett and three children; August Smedley, his wife and their four children. Mr. Hays was standing in the freight house door when a bolt of lightning struck the building, knocking Mr. Hays unconscious. Mr. Bennett and his children were standing on their porch on St. Clair terrace when a flash was conducted from a trolley wire in front of the house to the porch, prostrating the entire party. The Smedley family were eating supper when lightning struck the residence, following the chimney. Due to a neighbor discovered the whole family lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. They may recover, but it is doubtful.

A Miniature Cyclone.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—A heavy wind storm, having many of the features of a cyclone, passed over this city shortly after 6 o'clock last evening. The clouds were the heaviest and blackest that have been seen here for many years. They whirled and circled outwards for half an hour and then a heavy downpour of rain came. Despite the hurricane violence of the storm, very little damage was done in this city. The storm was general in this state, New Jersey and Delaware. Lightning played many pranks with the trolley and electric wires. Several farms are reported to have been struck by lightning and destroyed.

Storm Damage Out West.

STOCK CITY, Ia., July 28.—Full reports of Sunday night's and yesterday's storm show that the loss is inestimable over northeastern Nebraska and southeastern South Dakota. From Maxwell, within an area extending one mile south, sixteen west and eight north of town, standing grain has suffered from five to ten bushels to the acre and in many cases was totally destroyed. In the town itself many buildings were injured and scarcely a whole pane of glass remains.

The Storm at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 28.—The storm here last evening lasted about fifty minutes, and was accompanied by incessant thunder and lightning. The wind blew from the north at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, the thermometer dropped twenty-five degrees, and in less than fifty minutes a half inch of rain fell. At Ellicott Park, a popular suburban resort, all the lights were extinguished. Much damage of a minor nature is also reported.

FIFTEEN MINERS DROWNED.

An Awful Result of the Storm of Last Night.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

MCDONALD, Pa., July 28.—During last night's storm a building used as a boarding house for miners was caught in a flood from the mountains and washed away, causing a loss of fifteen lives. All the occupants of the house were miners and none of them have been seen since the storm. A search is being made for the bodies.

Dr. Jameson Found Guilty.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

LONDON, July 28.—The high court of justice, queen's bench division, resumed to-day for the trial of Dr. Lauder S. Jameson and his co-defendants, for alleged violation of the foreign enlistment act in the invasion of the territory of the South African republic. The defendants offered the plea of not guilty. The trial came to an end yesterday, and all the defendants were found guilty, the jury rendering their verdict to-day.

A Posing Case.

Edward, the year-old son of John and Alice McCarthy, of 435 West Raspberry alley, died last evening under circumstances that are puzzling to the family. Last Wednesday morning the boy was found unconscious in his bed and he remained in that condition, in spite of medical attendance, until his death. The cause of death is said to be congestion of the brain. Children of the neighborhood say the boy fell several days ago while playing in a building in course of erection. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the family residence, interment in the Annunciation cemetery.

Critically Ill.

W. J. Lloyd, the well-known caterer, lies critically ill at his home on West Cherry street. He is suffering from a complication of diseases and his condition is so serious that it gives color to frequent reports of the patient's death.
