Herote Sacrifices of Two Men Who, Having Saved Themselves, there Up Their Lives in Superhuman Efforts to Rescue

Pitraurica, July 20.—Eight persons were browned in the flood Monday night, even of these met death at Coull, a min-the and all hamler in Washington county, the eighth viettin group down at Carnagies. The dead area Mrs. Samuel McKinney, her deaghter, 89; James McKinney, her deaghter, 89; James McKinney, her deaghter, 80; James McKinney, her son, 8; Chaude Beatry, 21, all well pumper, of Sistersville, W. Va.; G. C. Higgins, 46, all well pumper, of Bradford, Pa.; Vincent Wilkinson, 25, all well employe, of Vowinkle, Forest county, Pa.; Jennie Holmes, 18, daughter of a Cecil county miner; John Wright (colored) 17, employe of a liveryman at Carnegie.

miner: John Wright (colored) 17, employs of a liveryman at Carnegie.
Samuel McKinney kept a bearding house at Ceell for the accommodation of oil men and miners. The house was situated on the banks of Milher's ran, a tributary of Chartiers creek. Ordinarily the ran, which flows through a valley banked by high and steep hills, would scarcely float a chip, but Monday tight a cloudburst filled in its closely confined quarters to such an extent that everything quarters to such an extent that everything along its banks was endangered. There were thirteen people in the Me-Kinney house when the water commences to rise, but no serious danger was appro-hended. The man busing themselves carhended. The men busied themselves car-rying the household goods to the sevent floor, and the female portion of the hous-hold continued their dressing for the dates which was being held in a neighbor-dance which was being held in a neighboring hall. Suddienly the house, a two story frame, was washed from its foundation into the seething waters and rapidly carried down stream. It was then too latefor any one in the house to escape.

Below the site of the house, about 200 yards, stands an old inshioned country bridge, which spans the stream. The house cracked against this structure, the roof was torn off and the rost of the building was crushed like an oggahed in being ing was crushed like an organish in being forced under the bridge. Higgins died there, but Whitner made a most rainage. lous escape. Just below the bridge the wreshage of the house struck on a sand bur, with those of the party who were still alive diffusions to the pieces, with scarcely a hope of being rescued.

Thomas Hayes, Vineson Wilkinson and others formed a rescuing party. Whitner was rescued while fast in the wreckage by was researed while fast in the wreckage by Wilkinson, who also dragged the dead hody of Higgins from its ledgment. Samuel McKinney was also swed by Wilkinson. After assisting in other resears. Wilkinson heard a cry for help from the opposite side of the stream and notwithstanding the extreme hazard attached to the attempt the beave fellow made the effort to swim across with a rep. When about half way over a tog struck him on the head and broke his neck. His body was found several hundred yards below. ledged in a tree. lodged in a tree Claude Beavy was another here of the a foccoming papelar. You will like it, disaster who lost his life. He made streng make a specialty of hair centring disaster who took his life. He made stron-uous efforts to save Margaret McKinney and Jennie Holmes, and had thom lodged in a tree, when a wave came along and swept all three to death. Beatty had sav-eral oppartunities to save himself, but re-fused to leave his weaker companions. Those of the unfortunate party who were resented were taken from the branches of trees and continue of the waveled home.

Wright, the solund liveryman, while attempting to drive across a bridge at Murray Hill, was caught by the high water of Chartiers creek, near Carnegie, and drowned.

Several houses in the valley were swept away, but the occupants, so far as learned, all managed to seek places of safety before their homes were carried down the stream of the occupants were rescued in

The rigging in many oil wells was swept away, and the non-working about their were compelled to fee for their lives, as the torrent bore down the valley on its course of death and destruction

At Ellwood, Lewrence county, the pumping station was struck by lightning and Charles Mitchell, the engineer, paralyzed this condition is critical. At Turtle (Cond. a new hours) Creek, a new house was struck by light-ning and demolished. Four children who had sought shelter in the house from the storm escaped injury.

In Fayette county, seven bridges were washed away between Connellsville and washed away between Connellsville and Uniontown.

At West Newton, the building of the West Newton Greand Cement and Lime company, were crushed like egg shells by falling debris from the overhanging cliffs. At Pean station a two story house belong-ing to John Driestadt was completely deolished The family was not hurt.

The greatest damage, however, was in Washington county, which was the scene of yesterday morning's cloudburst. Hundreds of bridges have been washed away, and traffic has been suspended on the Washington and Waynesburg reliread. In the oil fields an enormous amount of oil was lest through breaking of mains and secres of rigs were demolished. At Clays-ville houses were unroofed, trees uprocted and many buildings are total wrecks.

Reports brought in from the surroundcountry state that the storm has ing country state that the storm has wrought grout destruction for miles around. In some places houses were removed from their foundations, but no further less of life is yet reported. Many houses and barns were struck by lightning,

Stock Drowned in the Stables

Uniontown, Pa., July 20.—The loss in Fuyette county by the flood will reach $100,000. At 1 o'clock yesterday morning the water stood eighteen inches higher than at any previous record and immense damage was done. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad here was swept away and bridges and tracks washed out between here and Connellsville. Fences, outbuildtags, small houses and barns were swept ray and much stock was drowned in the International Wage Scale for Sailors. CHICAGO, July 20.-The Record says A wage scale to govern the shipping in-terests of the world has been drawn up. If the ship owners tall to accept it, seamen say, a strike will be declared which men say, a strike will be declared which will be felt wherever men trust their lives to the decks of vessels. The idea, having its origin among the English sallors, has gradually spread, until now it has sup-porters everywhere. American seamen are said to be in thorough accord with the movement.
