THE REPUBLICAN TICKET!

Further Details of Monday's County Convention.

THE CAMPAIGN FORMALLY OPENED.

The Republicans Have Announced Their Standard-Bearers and Platform of Principles, and Their Election Candidates Predicted.

Special HERALD Correspondence.
POTTSVILLE, AUGUST 4.—The Republican county convention has adjourned, having before the voters the following ticket:
FOR CONGRESS—13th DISTRICT,
CHARLES N. BRUMM,
OF Minersville.
FOR COUNTY TREASURER,
ELIAS DAVIS,
OF Broad Mountain.
FOR PROTHONOTARY,
JAMES R. DEEGAN,
OF Ashland.
FOR RECORDER OF DEEDS,
EMANUEL JENKYN,
OF Joliet.
FOR REGISTER OF WILLS,
FRANK C. REESE,
OF Shenandoah.
FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER,
FRANK RENTZ,
OF Ashland.
CHARLES MEYERS,
OF Crossota.
FOR DIRECTOR OF THE POOL,
FRED. AHNENFELDT,
OF Foster Tp.

Yesterday's convention had the appearance more of a Democratic gathering than a Republican. It was 11:30 o'clock when Chairman Edwards brought the gavel down and declared an adjournment.

The forming of the combination and the success of the men whose names appeared on the "slate," was an exhibition of great generalship and clear political sagacity. Just as sure as night follows day, Mr. Brumm was defeated Sunday morning. He realized this. Brumm would never have consented to a combination with Sam Leach and Jack Whitehouse—his two political enemies—had he not seen defeat staring him in the face. Every man nominated was on the "slate," and it went through without a break or crack.

It is not generally known whose was the guiding hand that manipulated the combination. It is generally supposed that the Congressman and his man "Friday" were the originators, but such is not the case. They grasped at the opportunity to get in out of the wet, and afterwards threw their strength to the slated candidates. That is the sum total of their participation. The man who formulated the deal, and in whose mind it originated, is a resident of the county seat and his reward will come later. Watch the developments.

As a pleader at the bar William D. Seltzer may be a success, but as an advocate for a Congressional candidate he is not. He displayed very poor judgment in presenting Deugler's name to the convention, and the latter suffered thereby.

To say there are no sore as a result of yesterday's proceedings, would not be the truth. Some of the defeated candidates are very "warm." It need not surprise you to hear of the discharge of a deputy in one of the offices on the "hill." The throat has been made. But such things are natural, and this feeling will wear off in a day or two. We cannot all be nominated.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Proceedings During the Closing Hours of the Convention.

The following is an additional report of the convention proceedings after the HERALD went to press last evening.
While the clerks were engaged in the counting of the vote for County Treasurer the chairman announced that in order to save time he would hear nominations for Prothonotary and recognized R. P. Clayton, of Ashland. He placed the name of Col. James B. Deegan in nomination, the present incumbent, who came to the convention with a three-year record to back him.

R. H. Koch, Esq., of Pottsville, nominated Hiram Meyer and the nominations closed. Col. Deegan gained a most decisive victory, and received 2214 votes out of 287 cast, Mr. Meyer receiving 630.

Hon. John T. Shoener, of Orwigsburg, was nominated by H. H. Brownmiller for Clerk of the Courts, and J. J. Yeast was nominated by W. D. Seltzer, Esq., of Pottsville. Mr. Seltzer's speech did not meet with the approval of some of the delegates and he was sneered and hissed by them. Mr. Yeast secured the floor and defended himself, saying that he did not deserve such insult and objected to such treatment. He withdrew his candidacy and Hon. John T. Shoener was nominated by acclamation.

The nominations for Recorder came next and H. A. Kear, of Minersville, nominated Dr. Edwin F. Phillips, of Tower City. Kouben Barto, of Pine Grove, nominated Emanuel Jenkyn. R. H. Koch, Esq., in presenting the name of P. W. Bierstein, of Shenandoah, said that the Republican party in 1892 did not stand by Mr. Bierstein and asked that they give Mr. Bierstein a large vote for, said he, "There are not two men in this convention who have done more for the party and worked for its success more faithfully." A. B. Middleton, of Gilberton, named Amos Walbridge, of Mahanoy City. Nominations were declared closed. When the list of delegates had been called, and before the vote was computed, Helster, of Orwigsburg, moved, and it was seconded by R. H. Koch, Esq., that if, on the first ballot, there was no election, after the second ballot the lowest candidate be dropped, and on amendment by Mr. Koch, this was applied to all nominations and it was so ordered.

On the first ballot for Recorder 297 votes were cast. Necessary to a choice 149. The vote resulted: Jenkyn, 1094; Walbridge, 954; Phillips, 69; Bierstein, 33.

There was no election and a 2nd ballot was ordered. This resulted: Phillips, 58; Jenkyn, 1094.

WRECK NEAR SHAMOKIN.

Freight Engineer and Conductor on the P. & R. Railroad Killed.

The Former Buried in the Debris For Several Hours—Fireman and Two Brakemen Badly Injured—A Car Door Caused the Accident.

Special to EVENING HERALD.
SHAMOKIN, AUG. 4.—A terrible accident occurred on the Philadelphia & Reading railroad this morning at Weldy's farm, three miles from this place.

The victims of the accident are:
KILLED.

MARTIN SCHWANK, engineer, 40 years of age, resides at Tamaqua, and leaves a wife and three children.

ALEXANDER SMITH, conductor, aged 45 years, resides at Tamaqua, leaves a wife and two children.

JOHN DOE, unknown tramp; body still in the wreck.

INJURED.

CHARLES ANSPACH, fireman, lives at Tamaqua, badly injured.

WILLIAM SELLERS, brakeman, lives at Tamaqua; head badly cut and left arm broken.

MICHAEL SAULDER, brakeman, lives at Tamaqua; bad scalp wound and body badly cut.

Freight train No. 55 was bound from Tamaqua to Newberry this morning and was making quick time at Weldy's farm when a door which had fallen from a car of a preceding freight train caused the locomotive to run off the track. Several cars followed and all were thrown into a heap, making a bad wreck.

The fire from the engine ignited the wreckage, but the flames were soon extinguished. Smith's body was recovered almost immediately, but Schwank's could not be found for several hours.

The fire from the engine ignited the cars and fourteen of them were consumed. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

The body of the engineer was not recovered until after several hours work. It was taken from beneath the engine.

All efforts to get the body of a tramp who was on the train have failed thus far. It is pinned down by the tender of the engine. The identity of the tramp has not been learned. He was killed instantly with the engineer and conductor.

MR. VANDERBILT WEDDED.

Young Cornelius' Bride the Girl of His Choice.

SACRIFICED FORTUNE FOR LOVE.

Despite Parental Opposition and a Threat of Disinheritance the Marriage Takes Place—None of Mr. Vanderbilt's Family Present—A Quiet Affair.

NEW YORK, AUG. 4.—Despite the determined opposition of his family, and in defiance of the threat of disinheritance, Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., was married to Miss Grace Wilson yesterday. Mr. Vanderbilt, Sr., warned the young man that if he contracted the marriage he would have to depend upon his own resources for a livelihood, and he need expect no share of the Vanderbilt fortune. Thus the son, by disobeying his father's wishes, threw away his prospects of inheriting a large lump of the $100,000,000 which Mr. Vanderbilt, Sr., is estimated to be worth.

Not a member of the Vanderbilt family was even invited to the wedding, which was notable for its simplicity. Perhaps never in the history of the Vanderbilt or Wilson families has such a quiet wedding been solemnized.

Shortly before noon Rev. William H. Pott, assistant to Dr. Brown, rector of St. Thomas' church, entered the house. The rear drawing room had been faintly decorated with choice cut flowers early in the morning, and at noon everything was in readiness for the ceremony, when Rev. Mr. Pott took up a position at the eastern end of the room. A moment later young Mr. Vanderbilt entered the room, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Polk.

The few guests then grouped themselves to the left of the minister. Soft strains of music from a stringed orchestra announced the coming of the bride. Miss Wilson, attended solely by her father, marched down the main hall and through the center archway leading to the rear drawing room. She looked a picture of beauty in her white gown, a creation of French art. She wore a veil of extreme old English lace, reaching to the bottom of her gown. It was fastened by a magnificent wreath of diamonds, surmounted by a bunch of orange blossoms.

As soon as Miss Wilson entered the room the groom stepped forward, and taking her by the hand they both stopped before the officiating minister. In five minutes the ceremony was over, and Miss Wilson was the wife of the son of one of America's greatest millionaires. There were no ushers, and many of the conventionalities attending such weddings were omitted. After the ceremony the small gathering offered their congratulations to the young couple.

No wedding breakfast having been prepared, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt retired to apartments up stairs and donned their traveling apparel. At 12:35 the bride and groom, followed by a shower of rice, left the house and entered a coupe awaiting at the door. Where the bride and groom will spend their honeymoon was not given out, but they were driven to the Grand Central station, and it is understood they will go abroad for a year, but this has not been decided, nor has the place they will make their permanent home.

Hardly had the ceremony been finished before telegrams of congratulations began arriving. They were principally from friends of the Wilson family, but some of Mr. Vanderbilt's chums remembered him. From across the water came cablegrams of congratulations from the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, the Earl and Countess of Pembroke and others of the nobility.

The groom's gift to the bride was a large diamond heart, composed of some thirty extremely brilliant diamonds, with a beautiful sapphire in the center.

Unless the father persists in his threat to disinherit him, the son will eventually come into the possession of an immense fortune, as Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., is estimated to be worth $100,000,000. Young Cornelius is in good favor with wealthy members of the family, and will likely, under any circumstances, receive a large sum from this source.

Insolvent Beggars.

Last night three bums who make a rendezvous near the Pennsylvania railroad water tank called at Hon. M. C. Watson's place, on South Main street, and said one of the Democratic candidates for office had sent them to him for a keg of beer. Mr. Watson gave them a lecture on dissipation and ordered them off and one retaliated by addressing him in insulting language. The ex-senator punched the fellow several times and with good effect. The bum did not return the blows, but as Mr. Watson turned to leave the fellow dealt him a fist blow on the back of the neck and then ran away. Later the bums threw a stone through the window of a Polish saloon at the corner of Main and Cherry streets and an occupant was struck on the head by the stone, but not seriously injured. Chief of Police Tush and Policeman Stanton succeeded in arresting two of the bums after a hot chase and they are still in the lockup.
