Last Night's Storm,

Although the weather was intensely hot no cases of prostrations were reported in town yesterday. Relief came in the evening when ciaps of thunder, ripples of rain and paffs and gusts of wind mingled with flashes of lightn-ing made their appearance. A nelectrical storm that lasted about two hours tied up the electric railways during that period. The sky was aflame with sheet lightning. Long lines of fire split the blackness again and again and made the heavens look like a vast illuminated railway map.
