A Breaker Razed.
The Glendon breaker, Mahanoy City, which was operated for the past twenty-five years by J. C. Haydon & Co., and has been abandoned for the past year and a half on account of the supply of coal becoming exhausted, is now a thing of the past, as it was completely leveled to the ground yesterday by a large gang of P. & R. carpenters, which work removes from sight one of the oldest landmarks in existence in the Mahanoy valley. The breaker was razed to avoid the possibility of a fire.

THE CONVENTION DETAILS.

Additional Report of the Democratic Hosts at Pottsville.

The Democratic county convention adjourned at about midnight last night, and when the chairman's gavel sounded the following ticket was completed:

- FOR CONGRESS, WATSON F. SHEPHERD, Of Pottsville.
- FOR COUNTY TREASURER, GEORGE F. POLMER, Of Shenandoah.
- FOR PROTHONOTARY, HARRY M. BRADIGAN, Of Shenandoah.
- FOR CLERK OF COURTS, PHIL J. CONNELL, Of Girardville.
- FOR RECORDER OF DEEDS, FREDERICK PORTZ, Of Pottsville.
- FOR REGISTER OF WILL, JOHN MYER, Of Mahanoy City.
- FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER, J. P. MARTIN, Of Pinegrove.
- P. J. FERGUSSON, Of Lost Creek.
- FOR DIRECTOR OF THE POOR, PERIE CONDON, Of Palo Alto.

Our report of last evening was complete up to Clerk of the Courts. For that position W. B. Durkin, of Girardville, presented the name of Philip J. Connell, and it was greeted with a storm of applause. Hon. James E. Brennan placed the name of John C. Ryan, of Cass township, before the convention. At this point the excitement, which had been running high for quite a while, assumed such proportions that the roll call could not be continued, and the chairman had to request the sergeants to remove several objectionable persons who were interfering with the convention. When the Fifth ward of Mahanoy City was reached a disturbance was aroused by a dispute as to how the delegates from that ward voted. Every vote had been greeted with loud applause by friends of both parties and in the noise the delegate's vote was not heard. Riot reigned supreme for several minutes. Quiet was finally restored by the chairman, who called Officer Shay to the platform and instructed him to remove any one who did not obey the gavel. The balloting was again resumed, but was interrupted several times before it was finally concluded. The vote resulted:

Connell was thereupon declared elected amidst the wildest confusion and enthusiasm. Nominations for Recorder were next in order, and Joseph Wadlinger, of Pottsville, and Fred. Portz, of the same place, were nominated. James O'Hearn, of Shenandoah, on behalf of Thomas Mullahay, of the same place, withdrew the latter's name and he did so for the good of the party, Shenandoah having two nominees on the ticket. The vote resulted:

When the balloting for Prothonotary, which came next, was begun, the same disorder that prevailed in the afternoon was prevalent and it looked for a while as though there would be blood spilled. The candidates for nomination to the office were John J. Meyer, of Mahanoy City; S. C. Boyer, Port Clinton, and Louis W. Kopp, Tremont. The first ballot resulted:

Another ballot was ordered, in which Myer received 3904; Boyer, 2692; Kopp 2625. Myer's name was dropped in accordance with a resolution to the effect that after the second ballot the lowest candidate be disqualified. As there was still no choice a third ballot was taken and resulted in the election of Myer. The vote was:

For County Commissioner the names of John P. Martin, of Pinegrove; P. J. Fergussion, of Lost Creek; T. B. Snyder, of West Penn, and John Conners, of Norwegian, were presented. There had been bitter enmity against Ferguson and circulars entitled "Ferguson Kodaked," were freely distributed among the delegates by that gentleman's enemies. But after a hard fight Ferguson was pushed through, with Martin, by the following vote:

The last business of this storm-tossed convention was the nomination of Poor Director, for which the aspirants were Timothy Flynn, of Rush twp.; Perie Condon, Palo Alto; Samuel H. Butz, Schuylkill Haven; Cornelius Mayer, Schuylkill Haven; Jacob Gunther, Yorkville, Daniel Toland, Lost Creek. Condon was elected by the following vote: Condon, 4,778; Flynn received 250; Mayer, 1,726; Butz, 391; Gunther, 275; Toland, 89. The convention then adjourned.

Result of a Lost Creek Man's Unfounded Jealousy Spirit.

Lost Creek furnishes a case of a somewhat sensational character arising from the apparent unfounded jealousy of a husband and the latter seems doomed to spend some time in jail for his foolishness. As no suit has been commenced yet the correspondent furnishing the information does not desire to give the names of the parties interested. He vouches for the correctness of the story, however, and says there will be a session in court of a very interesting character.

It appears that the aggressor in the case keeps a boarding house and he was informed that his wife was inclined to be more hospitable to one of the boarders than discretion dictated. Yesterday the husband hit upon a plan of revenge. At the usual hour in the morning he started for his work in the mines, but instead of delving into the bowels of the earth he sneaked round his house to the front entrance and, unobserved by any member of the household, succeeded in secreting himself in a closet in one of the most frequented rooms. In spite of the intense heat he succeeded in remaining in his place of concealment all day and until six o'clock in the evening. During all that time he had neither seen nor heard anything to justify his contemplated action, but the strain upon his imagination caused by the stories he had been told and the effects of the heat, intensified by the almost smothering atmosphere of his voluntarily selected prison, had made him almost a maniac and he was ready to attack any one upon the slightest provocation. This was his condition when his wife entered the room in which the closet was located and soliloquized, "I wonder where my husband is, he ought to be home by this time?" As already stated, the husband needed only a word to spur him to action and the soliloquy led him to believe that his wife was conversing with some one. The infuriated man sprang from the closet and attacked his wife without awaiting or demanding an explanation. He was beating her unmercifully when he heard footsteps and hastened back to the closet. The suspected boarder entered the room and found the wife crying. He asked the cause and, upon being told, made some remark which rekindled the husband's fury. The latter again dashed from the closet and attacked the boarder with a black jack. He also drew a revolver, but the wife prevented the use of the weapon. The boarder suffered a severe beating and has not been able to leave the house.
