POLITICS AT CANTON, OHIO.

Delegation of Potters and Farmers Call Upon McKinley.

ADDRESSES THEM ON THE TARIFF

State Convention of Gold Democrats in Philadelphia—Mr. Bryan the Guest of Chairman Hinkley at Winnisook Lodge, in the Catskill Mountains.

CANTON, O., Aug. 25.—A thousand workmen from the twenty-eight potteries of East Liverpool, O., traveled seventy-five miles yesterday to call on Major McKinley at his home. Chairman W. L. Smith, Colonel J. N. Taylor and W. B. Blake headed the delegation. The latter is a potter bench worker and a good talker. The visitors on the way to Canton and later on their march to Major McKinley's residence attracted recruits until 3,000 men assembled about the house. After the introductory speeches Major McKinley spoke, in part, as follows:

"There is no industry, my fellow citizens, in the United States which demands or deserves protection through our tariff laws more than yours. It is a business requiring technical and artistic knowledge and the most careful attention to the many and delicate processes through which the raw material must pass to the completed product. Down to 1862 the pottery industry of the United States had achieved little or no success and had made but slight advancement in a practical and commercial way. At the close of the low tariff period of 1860 there was but one white ware pottery in the United States, with two small kilns. Decorating kilns were not known. In 1873, encouraged by the tariff and the gold premium, which was an added protection, we had increased to twenty potteries with sixty-eight kilns, but still no decorating kilns. In 1882 there were fifty-five potteries, 344 kilns, twenty-six decorating kilns. The wages paid in the potteries in 1882 were $2,387,000, and the number of employees engaged therein 7,000, or 45 per cent. You have twenty-eight potteries in the city of East Liverpool today.

"The difference between the wages of labor in this country and of foreign countries you know better than I can tell you. When the law of 1883 was enacted I stated on the floor of congress that if the duty of 35 per cent, and 60 per cent, was given, as recommended by the bill then pending in less than five years the quality of American ware would be improved, the quantity increased, and the price to the consumer sensibly diminished. That prophecy has been more than verified.

"My fellow citizens, the people in 1892 were busy at work and gave little attention to politics. They will not be so indifferent again. They have more time this year than they had four years ago, and are giving earnest attention and active work to the national contest which is engaging the country. We are growing more and more to recognize the great necessity of every citizen giving personal and serious thought to his political duties. Businessmen, workmen and the people generally are coming to realize that business and politics are closely related; that bad politics mean bad business, and that politics cannot be neglected without endangering our occupations, our earnings and our labor. We have had some depressing experience in this direction which has taught us that if we do not keep our business our business will not keep us, and that if somebody else does our work we will have no work to do at home."

"A short time after the East Liverpool workmen departed a delegation of farmers from Knox county, O., marched up to the McKinley residence. They were most warmly greeted along their line of march. It was the first delegation composed entirely of farmers which has visited Major McKinley since his nomination. In addressing them the candidate said:

"Free silver will not cure over production nor under consumption. Free silver will not remove the competition of Russia, India and the Argentine republic. This competition would remain if you coined all the silver of the world. Free silver will not increase the demand for your wheat or make a single new consumer. You don't get consumers through the mints. You get them through the factories. You will not get them by increasing the circulation of money in the United States. You will only get them by increasing the manufacturing establishments in the United States.

"Plant the factory by the farm," said Jackson, and that is as wise now and as applicable now as when the hero of New Orleans said it years ago. The best thing now is for the farmer to have a factory for his neighbor. It would be better to have a factory along side of you than to have another farm along side of you. I have no fear of the farmer—the most conservative, the most considerate and the most sturdy of our splendid civilization. They are not easily misled. They have no aim in politics but an honest one. In 1864, when free trade was the battle cry of our opponents, it was said then that the farmers would follow this heresy, but it was not so. It was the cities which followed the free trade heresy in this country. The country voted for protection while the great cities did not. So this year they will vote against free trade and free silver; they will vote for a home market and for a dollar as good as gold in every market of the world."

PENNSYLVANIA GOLD DEMOCRATS.

Every County Represented With but Two Exceptions.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Nearly all the delegates to the state convention of gold Democrats, which meets in this city this afternoon, are in the city. That there is considerable interest taken in the convention is shown by the fact that every county in the state, with one or two exceptions, is represented by one or more delegates.

The work mapped out for today will consist of the election of sixty-four delegates to the national convention at Indianapolis, the nomination of thirty-two electoral candidates, and the appointment of the state committee, with one member from each congressional district.

According to John C. Bullitt, chairman of the convention, the question of recommending the placing of a third presidential ticket in the field has not been considered. Chief interest, of course, centers in the platform to be adopted. This document, which is unusually brief, will be devoted almost entirely to the money question, and it is believed that the Allentown platform will be reaffirmed by the convention.

It was decided to recommend to the convention that those placed on the state ballot be under the heading "Jeffersonian Party." This is because of the belief that the laws of this state will not allow any heading to a ticket that may lead voters to confuse it with another ticket.

Of the eight delegates-at-large to be sent to the Indianapolis convention three have been practically decided upon by the vote of seven men. These are John C. Bullitt of Philadelphia, Scott T. McCormick of Willsport, and B. J. McGraw of Lancaster. Of the presidential electors, William M. Slingerly, of Philadelphia, is practically the only one decided upon. Benjamin Potts of Delaware county, and John Benton Hancock of Venango, are probable selections for congressmen-at-large, and for state chairman, the name most prominently named is that of William B. Given, of Lancaster, who recently resigned from the state chairmanship of the regular organization.

The New York Governorship.

SARATOGA, Aug. 25.—The end of a long day of many conferences finds a situation that has hardly been equaled in the history of state Republican conventions. Thomas C. Platt, for many years the leader of the party and but once an officeholder, is besieged in so vigorous a manner that his determination not to be a candidate, still adhered to, is quite likely to be overthrown and the scenes that marked the nomination of David B. Hill in 1881 may find a Republican repetition tomorrow. On the other hand men who for months have nursed gubernatorial dreams find those dreams today on the verge of collapse, a collapse so sudden that it has paralyzed the ambition of energetic workers and spread some discontent among the rank and file. The proposed nomination of Mr. Platt, it is alleged, is for the purpose of heading differences and preventing a breach between the followers of Aldridge and Fish.

Guests of Chairman Hinkley at Winnisook.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were brought over the Hudson from Rhinecliff to Kingston Point yesterday afternoon on a tug. They were on their way to Winnisook Lodge, where they are to be the guests of Democratic State Chairman Hinkley. Three or four hundred persons were at the landing where the train was in waiting to receive the passengers from the up-boat en route to the Catskills. A rush was made for them by the curious and excited crowd, and it seemed for a time that two policemen were quite unable to control the crowd. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan were finally pushed into the parlor coach Bayard. Mr. Bryan addressed the citizens from the rear platform, speaking about five minutes.

A Fraternal Visit.

The regular meeting of Maj. William Jennings Council No. 307, Jr., O. U. A. M., last evening, was an occasion of more than usual interest to the members. Quite a number of the members of Shenandoah Valley Council of town, which has been instituted less than six months, were present and brought with them an excellent life size emerald portrait of Maj. William Jennings, after whom the council is named, and presented the likeness to the old council. The picture is encased in a handsome frame, and now adorns the walls of their lodge room. Rev. Alfred Heebner presented the picture on behalf of the council, and it was received by Arthur Treganbo, president of the old council. The members of the latter are much delighted with the gift, and prize it very highly.

LIVELY TIME AT A CIRCUS

Bad Blood Aroused by a Hasty and Reckless Attendant.

MANY ROPES OF THE TENT CUT.

The Audience Was Quickly Dismissed as the Tent Gave Evidence of Falling—A Canvasser Fired at a Boy Who Tried to Crawl Under the Tent.

The people who attended the performance of Hunting's circus at the Trotting park last night got more in the sensational line than the program called for, and side issues of a very realistic character. Just before the performance commenced the report of a pistol shot rang through the air. It startled many of the audience under the tent, but the circus employes reassured those who expressed alarm and the matter was obviously dismissed from thought by the audience.

It was not so outside the tent, however. The shot which caused the report had been fired by a canvasser at a boy who tried to crawl under the tent to see the performance. Fortunately the bullet went wide of its mark and nobody was injured, but others who were unseated outside the tent took up the boy's case and determined upon vengeance for the shooting. The canvassers were kept busy all night preventing intrusion and damage to the tent, but in spite of their utmost vigilance the boys finally got in their work by cutting the ropes of the tent. The immense canopy commenced to sink gradually, but not enough to cause any alarm until the performance was about over, when the final act was hurriedly performed and the ringmaster announced that owing to the cutting of many of the tent ropes the manager did not consider it safe to give the concert that usually follows the performance. The audience concurred in the opinion and left the place without delay.

The boss canvasser of the circus subsequently stated that sixteen ropes of the main tent had been cut and it was with the greatest difficulty that his men succeeded in preventing the tent from falling during the performance.

There was no personal encounter between the canvasser and the outsiders, and it is fortunate that there was not, as the circus men were prepared for any emergency and an encounter would have been costly to the outsiders. Hunting's circus was attacked by a crowd in a similar manner several years ago while here and later Hunting threatened suit for $10,000 damages against the borough, but the matter ended in threats.

QUAY IS NOT FOR CAMERON.

The Junior Senator's Emphatic Denial to Public Reports.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—The report has been current in this city that Senator Quay favored the candidacy of Don Cameron to succeed himself, and that State Senator Boies Penrose was only a stool-pigeon candidate in Cameron's interests.

When informed that certain people assert that he is for Cameron, Senator Quay said, "Well, they lie." He further said he did not believe Cameron was a candidate; that he has declared he was not, and that as he is a man of honor his word should be taken.

Senator Penrose was present at the interview, and denied that Cameron was at his house in conference about the United States Senatorship. He said the story was absolutely false, and that he himself was a candidate. Senator Quay will return to this city in about a week and then go to New York to take charge of the campaign.
