BRYAN IN PHILADELPHIA

Disappointed Thousands Unable to Hear the Candidate.

STREETS THRONGED WITH PEOPLE.

Six Thousand People Crowd Into the Academy of Music Long Refere the Speaker's Appearance - Overflow Meetings Addressed by Local Orators.

* PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.-Mr. Bryan s Philadelphia. Sept. 23—Mr. Bryan made his first campaign speech in New Jersey resterday afternoon at Washington Fark, a pleasure resort a few miles below this city. He spoke from the grand stand of the bicycle track inclosure, and fully 25,000 stood for over an hour and listened to him. John S. Wright, the fusion candidate for congress in the First New Jersey district, presided and introduced the distinguished visitor. In the course of his address, which aroused the greatest the distinguished visitor. In the course of his address, which aroused the greatest enthusiasm, Mr. Bryan said:

"I have always been led to regard polities as a very serious business. In a country like this the people themselves make the laws, or at least they have a right to, and, if they do not improve the opportunity, they enjoy the privilege of suffering, because they have neglected the opportunity. In a country like this if laws are not good the people themselves are to blame. the people themselves are to blame.

"If everything is all right, if the financial policy of the government is exactly what you want it to be then it ought not to be changed. A speaker went from Philadeiphiato Tennessee, and in making a speech down there he told them that the gold standard was the best standard in the world, and that we had ann it by years, and when he got through a gentle-years, and when he got through a gentleworld, and that we had had it for twenty man went up to him and said. 'Did I understand you to say that the gold standard is all right.' 'Yes, he says, that a man ought to be dignified enough, the gold standard is all right.' Did I not too dignified and not lacking it dignifies and not too dignified and not lacking it dignifies and say that we have had it.

would like that sort of a speech would be very much pleased with th. That is the way it is about the gold standard. A man who likes that sort of thing is very much pleased with it, but the number who like that sort of thing is growing less each day. "This is a campaign of education, in which the newspapers are not denug their

which the newspapers are not doing their share of the work. I met a man yester-day, a prominent man, a well to do man, who said that until the Chicago convention acted on the subject he had never investigated the money question. He said he had never supposed that there was anything in it, that the papers did not think it was worth thinking about, that they regarded it as a craze, and he did not have time as a business man, to pay any attention to as a business man, to pay any attention to orazes, but when a great national party adopted a platform making the money question the paramount issue, and declar-ing in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, he began to think about it. That was only a few months ago and he said he had got to be a crank on it.

"About six years ago I began to study this operation, reving to find out, what was this question, trying to find out what was right. I compared the books that I read, and I read on both sides of the money question, and the more I read the deeper became my convictions until I became so firmly of the opinion that there could be no prosperity in this country until free silver was restored, and the white metal was put again by the side of the yellow metal and given free access to the mint, as gold is given. I became so convinced that I was willing to risk all I had or hoped to be upon the correctness of that

We never had a convention in this country which more clearly, more cor-rectly, more completely represented the sentiment of the people who sent the dele-gates to the convention which met at Chi-cago. My friends, it is honor enough to be the nominee of a convention for presi-dent, but it is a higher honor yet to be the nominee of the most democratic convention that was ever held in this country. It is sufficient honor to be nominated by the machinery of the party, but it is a higher honor still to be nominated by the people of a party regardless of the ma-chinery. Since that platform was adopted the people down here have commenced to study the money question, and they find that the people of the west and south, who had been asking for the restoration of bimetallism, instead of trying to ruin this country, are trying to save this country from the ruin that would overtake it."

The balance of Mr. Eryan's Washington Park speech was a resume of the existing industrial depression and an argument to show that it was caused by contraction of

Mr. Bryan was greeted in Philadelphia last night by a crowd which, according to the police and other authorities, exceeded any outpenring of the people on a similar accasion in the history of the city. He spoke at the Academy of Music, which has a scating capacity of about 5,000. Every available inch of space in the bouse and on the stage was occupied two hours before Mr. Bryan arrived, and experts cimated the audience at fully 6,000 athered in the street outside the Academy ere fully 35,000 people, who stood patiently until 10:50 p. m., hoping to see or hear the candidate, half a dozen overflow meetings being addressed by local

The crush was something awful. Many of those who succeeded in getting inside the Academy had their clothing almost torn from them. Many cases of more or torn from them. Many cases of more or less second injury were reported to the po-lice, one man with a broken arm being taken to the hospital. Hundreds of police-men were powerless to keep the crowds in

Mr. Bryan made his headquarters at the Mr. Bryan made his headquarters at the Lafayette hotel, two blocks above the Academy, on Broad street. In front of this over 8,000 people gathered, desirous of getting at least a glimpae of the distinguished visitor. Since it was not possible for Mr. Bryan to make his way down Broad street to the Academy in his carriage, he was conducted through the base-poot and kitchen of the hotel and out of ONLY ONLY ent and kitchen of the hotel and out of ment and kitchen of the hotel and out of the rear to a side street, to the Academy. He managed to make his way to the stage entrance and got inside after an experience with the crowd that he will long remem-ber. When he appeared on the stage his reception was tremendous, the cheering lasting several minutes. His speach was to substages as follows:

in substance as follows:

"The gold standard papers ask why I come to Pennsylvania. I come, first, to secure, if possible, the electoral vote of the state of Pennsylvania. If you dony that, if you will not give me that vote, if we are defeated in this campaign, then I come upon another mission, and that is to tell the people of Peunsylvania that the agita-tion for free coinage will never cease in this country until the gold standard is driven back to England. They say that the craze is dying out. I care not what they call the silver cause. You may apply to it such epithets as you will, but I know that the silver cause will not die, because truth never dies. Our cause appeals to the masses of the copie because the masses are interested in equal laws. Our cause is opposed by those who want to use our government for profit because we are opposed to government instituted for any such purp Your city is called Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love. I come to proclaim to you the gospel that is described by the name of your own city, and yet you say you will give a hundred thousand majority against that doctrine. I come to proclaim financial independence in a city which saw the Declaration of Independence signed more than a hundred years ago

"The Issue which is raised now was raised before. There were people then who said that we could not obtain inde-pendence unless some foreign nation would help us. There are those who say would help us. There are those who say it today, and those who say it today stand in the same position as those who said it then. The people who a hundred years ago declared in favor of foreign supremacy were the people who had business dealings and acted as the agents of the people who employ them over there. You have no banks in this city today which are not controlled by the inwhich are not controlled by the influence of London, and I have no more respect for the American who takes his patriotism from Lombard street than I have for the Tory who took his patriotism a bundred years ago from England.

"One of your papers said that I lacked dignity. My friends, I have been looking into the matter, and do you know that I would rather have it said that I lacked dignity than to have it said that I lacked backbone to meet the enemies of this gov understand you to say that we have had it for twenty years? 'Yes; for more than twenty years?' Yes; for more than twenty years.' 'Well, then,' he says, 'why ain't we all right?' the says, the says, the says is the says of the says of the says of the says. The says of th 'throain't we all right?'
"Limoln was once asked what he thought of a certain man's speech. He answered: 'I think that a man who under some circumstances would not come to see me at all. And then, all our people don't have money to throw at the birds. Why, our people want more money, and if they could come all the way to Nebraska to see me it would show that they had money enough now.

"I don't like to be tacking in any of the essentiars, but do you know I can't see that there's any lack of dignity shown if I go before the people and talk to them and tell them what I stand for and what I am opposed to. They say I am begging for votes. Not at all, I never asked a man to vote for me. In fact, I have told some people to vote against me; that is more than most candidates do. I have said that if there was anybedy who be-lieved in the maintenance of the gold standard until foreign nations came to us and graciously promitted us to alandon and graciously permitted us to abandon it, not to vote for me at all.

"There is one party—no, it is not a party—it claims to be a party—which puts up one ticket in order to elect another. I am more dignified—I am too dignified to advocate one thing when I mean to do another thing. I am too dignified to nomi-nate one ticket for the purpose of voting for another ticket. I am too dignified to practice deception upon the American

The Republican party adopted at St. Louis a platform which does not say that the gold standard is a good thing. You have heard those goldbugs. I do not use the word goldbug in an offensive sense. I use the word in that same kindly spirit in which the goldburs use the word lunatic when they speak of me. The goldburs tell us that gold is the money of civilization. Isn't is strange that the Republican party did not find that out in St. Louis.

when they speak of me. The goldbugs tell us that gold is the momey of civilization. Isn't it strange that the Republican party did not find that out in St. Louis. Their platform pledges the Republican party to get rid of the gold standard. The Republican party pledges to substitute a double standard for the single standard. The Republican party admits that bimetallism is better than monometallism. The Republican party admits that bimetallism is better than monometallism. The Republican party admits that the gold standard. The Republican party admits that the gold standard is better than a single standard. The Republican party admits that the gold standard is better than a single standard. The Republican party admits that the gold standard is better than a single standard. The Republican party admits that the gold standard is bad, because if it is not bad they ought not to try to get rid of 11, and they affirm that although bad the American people must suffer from that bad thing. How long shall we maintain it? Forever, if foreign antions insist on us doing so. That is what that platform means, and the candidate for president, in his letter of acceptance, states that until foreign nations join us we are helpiess. My friends, I want you to meet this issue. I said in the beginning that the Republican party assailed the right of the Amarican party assailed the right of the Amarican properties. Many of them have used it to the set of the second that the right of the Amarican party admits that the gold standard is bad, because if it is not a single standard.

cross the ocean. "Now let me give you my interpretation of the Republican platform. I believe the nen who wrote it did not want bimetal-ism. I believe that the men who wrote it wanted the gold standard permanently but did not dare to tell the American peo-ple what they wanted. I believe they adopted that platform in order to hold the people who wanted the gold standard and if possible to conciliate the people who did not want the gold standard. In other words, I believe that platform was ntended to decrive the voters of the

The Democratic party never declared for a gold standard, and no man in office ever agitated a gold standard after he was elected until he betrayed the people who elected him. I deny the right of any pub-lic servant to secure office upon a platform and then abandon the platform.
When I find that my consciones will not permit me to carry out the platform on which I was elected I will resign and let some other man have the office. I stand here not only as the regular nominee of the Democratic party, but I stand here representing the principles that have been Democratic from the time there was a Democratic party,

"Thomas Jefferson says that people called him a mandae. They call us luna-ties. Why did they call him a manine? Because he said that bank issues were more dangerous than standing armies. The greatest fight Andrew Jackson over had was against the national banks of his day, and yet those who would turn over the issue of paper money to the national banks take his name in vain and bring disgrace upon his memory by speaking his name upon their tongues. There is not an influence that tried to defeat Jackson that is not today arrayed against the Democratic ticket."

The remainder of Mr. Bryan's speech was devoted mainly to a discussion of the recent bond issues, in which the syndicates were vigorously denounced.
