sin which lifty-eight lives, were lost, and the great interest manifested not only by the miners of the state but by every class of people, in the report of the commission as to the cause of the disaster and upon whom the blame rests, we have decided to devote considerable of our space in order that the HERALD readers might have an opportunity of permiting the report in full.

The commission was composed of Min-Inspectors William Stein, of town; Edward Roderick, of Scranton, and Edward Brennan. of Shamekin, who were appointed had June by tinnernor Hastings for the purpose stated above. Their report is the result of many works of informous, diffigent and conselect tions work. It is exhaustive in every detail and apparently everything that the publi has wished for as to the cause, effect and reponsibility for the disaster has been, given its its entirely and without color

The commission spont two weeks in exammy mine officials and employes, with the nid. for Atterney-General McCormick, for the purpose of throwing all the light possible upon the cause of the disaster, and at great personal yisk "the Inspectors entered the III fated mine as far as human beings dared in search of information that would cimble them to formulate their report in a manner satisfactory to the public. The commission metwithstanding the criticion of a few prowhere in the issning of the report, diversa much credit not only for their exhaustive and excellent report, but also for the willingness with which they responded to the call of the Governor and performed the duties connested therewith without remuneration, and in addition to their official duties as Insportors.

Accompanying the report is a copy of the testimony taken at the scone, a tracing of the two yeins as they should appear when worked, and also a tracing showing the plan of mining coal from groups of the breasts thetwoon reservation pillars. The Inspectors. spent weeks in reviewing their work and preparing individual written reports before meeting for final collaborration.

The work goes beyond the mere satisfaction of public curiosity. It places within the reach of every worker in the coal fields a guide by which such disasters may be avoided in the future, an important feature
