HOOKS & BROWN
4 North Main St.

Lawrence Colliery Case. The Supreme Court, in session at 10:30 a. m., yesterday handed down a decision in the Lawrence Colliery case, which has been pending since the decision of the court in the case of the Lawrence Colliery, Messrs. Lawrence & Brown, made an assignment to Robert Potter, Sr. The landlords under the terms of their lease forfeited the lease, and took possession of the colliery. The creditors of Lawrence & Brown sued as innocent debtors to recover undervaluation of the improvements. The landlords had a claim for rent unpaid and offered this as a set-off against the value of the colliery. It was decided in favor of the defendants, and the Supreme Court affirmed the finding of the lower court.

LOCAL INSTITUTE.

Proceedings at an Interesting Meeting of School Teachers Yesterday.

A very interesting local Teachers Institute was held in the High school building yesterday afternoon with all but one of the teachers in attendance and Superintendent C. D. Bogart presiding. The meeting was of general interest in that it brought out many points bearing upon the relations of teachers and pupils to each other, and in one instance touched upon methods of punishment that should be resorted to where pupils misbehave, or are obstinate.

This subject brought out a statement by Superintendent Bogart that considerably complaint had been made to him that some teachers are in the habit of striking pupils on their heads. He said he wanted it analyzed that under no circumstances would he give support to a teacher who resorted to that kind of punishment. The Superintendent added that the offenses committed by pupils are of such a variety that it would be difficult to assign a punishment that would be proper for all, or to enumerate what should be done in the respective degrees, but that there is a natural punishment for every offense and a true teacher will seek to know what that punishment is, and use it.

The Superintendent also said that he had found that some teachers were not prompt in opening their schools and some have been in the habit of going home and leaving pupils in the rooms to finish their work in the evenings. He spent some time in criticizing these practices. By way of diversion Superintendent Bogart called the blackboard and chalk into play and gave a problem. It was solved in two ways and the teachers were called upon to grade the problem. The result was a wide difference in the percentage estimated by the different teachers and quite a spirited debate followed and the Superintendent asked the teachers to give the subject thought for subsequent consideration. He said the problem was presented to show the necessity of uniformity in estimating examination papers. Meetings will be held to bring about this uniformity as far as possible in all grades.

The subject of fall studies was presented by Miss Cline, in which she gave many excellent suggestions for teachers of all grades to have pupils bring into the school rooms leaves, nuts, seeds, etc., as well as different forms of roots, in order that the pupils may learn facts concerning them. The object of this is to awaken the power of observation on the part of children, as well as to impart knowledge. Superintendent Bogart not only strongly endorsed the suggestions of the teacher, but highly complimented her for the forethought in making them.

The subject of language was presented by Miss Kimmel, in which she was brought out the necessity of constant vigilance on the part of teachers to break up such expressions as "I done it," "I seen it," "Me father" and many such bad habits of speech that are heard every day. Miss Kimmel's idea was that this work is of more importance than the text book work in grammar, and she put this very pertinent question, "How much better are our pupils in school talking in every day language than boys and girls who don't have the opportunity of attending school?"

Prof. Cooper, Mr. Hooks and Misses O'Connell, Morrison and Kohn were appointed a committee of five to arrange programs for the institutes to be held about two and four weeks hence.

United Mine Workers. In a number of our exchanges the wrong date is given for the convention of District No. 1, United Mine Workers of America. They will meet in Pottsville on Friday, the 10th inst., instead of the 9th as published in a number of the papers. Each Union is entitled to one delegate, and the business to be considered is of such serious import to the coal workers that a full attendance is requested. The convention will consider the disaster at Pittston; the enforcement of what is known as the Wyatt anti-company store bill, introduced by Hon. Joseph Wyatt, the two-weeks pay bill, and the position of wage earners in the present political contest.

Theories of cure may be discussed lengthily by physicians, but the sufferers want quick relief; and One Minute Cough Cure will give it to them. A safe cure for children. It is "the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results." C. H. Hagenbuch.

Killed in the Mines. An explosion of gas occurred at the Williams colliery, north of Pottsville, by which one boy was killed and three men burned. John Donnelly, aged 16 years and residing at Mt. Laffee, was instantly killed. Richard Reese and his son, Edward, were seriously burned about the head, neck and breast. They both reside at Pottsville. James Brown, of Pottsville, whose lamp ignited the gas, escaped with only a slight burn. Abraham Williams, who worked with Brown, was blown 40 feet, and had a miraculous escape. The deputy coroner will investigate the accident.

A Dangerous Practice. Complaint is made by employees of the Lakeside Electric Railway that boys make a practice of greasing the rails on the Bowers street trestle of the road. The authorities should investigate the matter and try to find the guilty parties, so that an example may be made of them before it is too late to avoid a disaster. There are residences on both sides of the trestle and it should not be difficult to get the necessary information.

We... Introduced Mr. Factory Price to This Town

And when we say he has met with a very cordial reception and been taken up by the best people, we say what everyone knows to be true. Yes, Mr. Factory Price is the most popular fellow in Shenandoah today. He has earned that position by his liberality and the fair, square treatment he has extended to everybody. He can look every one of his acquaintances in the face and ask them to name a time when they have not profited by his friendship. His friends have not sought his acquaintances on account of his good looks or cleverness, but because it has paid them.
