

LORD ROSEBERY RESIGNS

The Leadership of the Liberal Party in England.

EASTERN QUESTION THE CAUSE.

He Refuses to Retain His Position While Opposed by Many of His Party Leaders—Sir William Vernon Harcourt May Succeed Him.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Earl of Rosebery, the late premier in the Liberal government in succession to Mr. Gladstone, has written to Thomas E. Ellis, Liberal member of parliament for Merionethshire, and the first Liberal whip, saying that he has resigned the leadership of the liberal party. Lord Rosebery says in the course of his letter:

"The recent course of events makes it necessary to clear the air. I find myself in apparent difference with a considerable mass of Liberals on the eastern question, and there is the same conflict of opinion with Mr. Gladstone, who must necessarily always exercise unchallenged authority in the party, while scarcely any quarter do I receive explicit support. This situation, except as it regards Mr. Gladstone, is not altogether new. But I complain of no one, and I only regret that I should appear to divide the energies and to try the faith of the Liberals.

"This question, however, is above personal considerations, and in coming to speech I must speak my mind, and must speak it without reference to the party. Under these circumstances it is best for the party and for myself that I should speak, not as a leader, but as a free man. Consequently I beg to notify you that the leadership of the party, so far as I am concerned, is vacant. I resume my Liberal action."

Lord Rosebery expressed himself on Sept. 18 with reference to the public agitation in England for intervention in Turkey by Great Britain, by saying:

"For England to interfere in Turkey without the consent of the powers would involve a European war."

This opinion he based upon the supposition that Russia had not qualified the attitude which she declared in 1885 of opposing separate action in Turkey by any power.

In contrast to this view of Lord Rosebery is the attitude assumed by Mr. Gladstone in his carefully considered speech at Liverpool on Sept. 24.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the parliamentary leader of the Liberal party, and Lord Rosebery's leading rival for the leadership of the whole party, speaking on Oct. 5, supported a resolution calling upon the government to do everything possible to protect the Armenians. He rejoiced at the anti-sultan outburst in England, and said that Great Britain ought, in the future, to co-operate with Russia in the east, and as a first step, to renounce the Cyprus convention. But Sir William also declared that he was convinced that it was utterly impossible for Great Britain to effectually operate alone against Turkey.

The Times this morning says:

"It is needless to choose a new leader. Sir William Harcourt is in virtual possession of the leadership, and he has fairly earned it by his capacity in and his energy as a fighting parliamentarian out of office. Nobody in either the lords or the commons could attempt to compete with him, and it would be absurd to treat seriously the suggestion that Mr. Gladstone be recalled."

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Stehle, 2025 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat or digest food, had a headache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a bottle at A. Waseley's Drug Store.

Atkinson's Majority in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Oct. 8.—W. Y. Atkinson (Democrat) is re-elected governor by a majority of not less than 25,000, which is an increase of 6,000 over the party majority of two years ago. The situation is still very complex, and the result is largely guess work. In the Tenth district, which is the home of Thomas Watson, the Democratic majority has dropped from 8,000 to 2,000. It is generally conceded, however, that Atkinson has carried the state by at least 25,000, and the returns are expected by his friends to show that he has a majority of 35,000. This, if true, will mean that the balance of the ticket has been successful by a majority of 40,000.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75 cents. Sold by C. H. Hagenbach, Druggist, Shenandoah.

Milville's Striking Glass Blowers.

MILVILLE, N. J., Oct. 8.—The glass blowers' committee stated yesterday that the men would all be willing to return to work at last year's scale of wages, but under no circumstances would a reduction be accepted. Beyond this nothing of moment has occurred. The men are keeping very quiet and feel confident of winning. Thus far Whitall, Tatum & Co. have refused to respond to their appeal to the men individually, but a number of applications have come from non-resident non-union men.

Glad Tidings Proclaimed by Thankful Ministers.

Hope for Weak and Debilitated People. How Health and Strength May Be Readily Obtained.

These great preachers thus proclaim a new Gospel of Health to the sick and discouraged, which means renewed health, hope, happiness.

Rev. F. H. Buffum, of Winchester, N. H., who is Grand Army Chaplain for the state of New Hampshire, says:—

"The remedial effect of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy on the weakness and nervous prostration of my wife, was so positive and speedy that we can heartily testify to its undoubted merits."

Rev. G. L. Wells, of Hardwick, Vt., writes:—

"I have used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy with most excellent results. It did great good for my wife. We think highly of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and cordially recommend it."

Rev. C. D. H. Meacham, pastor Baptist Church, Townsend, Vt., states: "I am very glad to say in regard to Dr. Greene's great remedy, that when my blood was badly impoverished and my nervous system greatly impaired, Dr. Greene's medicine gave me wonderful relief."

Rev. Henry Langford, of Weston, Vt., says: "I look Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and am wonderfully improved in health and strength. I can heartily and truthfully recommend it to the sick."

Clergymen strongly recommend the people to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, because they know it cures, and because it is a physician's prescription, the discovery of the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. ## Still Making Merry Over the Visit of Russia's Ruler.

THE CZAR LAYS A CORNER STONE

For the Construction of a Bridge Which Is to be Named in His Father's Honor—Formal Reception of the Imperial Couple by the Municipal Council of Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Yesterday the czar and zarina of Russia visited the principal public buildings of Paris, including Notre Dame cathedral and the Pantheon. The czar and zarina greatly admired the frescoes on the walls of the Pantheon, and descended into the vaults of that building. They halted briefly before the tomb of the late President Carnot, where the three sons of the dead president were presented to the czar. After visiting the different buildings the party returned, through the crowded streets, to the Russian embassy.

After luncheon at the Russian embassy, at which many prominent French and Russian officials and ladies were present, their majesties drove out to inaugurate the new bridge, to be named the Alexander III bridge, and at 2:30 p. m. were met at the site of the bridge by President Faure, the usual immense crowds cheering and bright sunshine prevailing. The imperial standard of Russia was hoisted, the Russian anthem was played, and the ceremonies were carried out without a hitch.

President Faure stood beside the czar and zarina. Grouped around them were the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies, ministers and cabinet officers, and further back were the members of the diplomatic corps. The stands erected for the senators, members of the chamber of deputies and mayors of the different towns etc., were heavily loaded, and the entire vicinity was densely packed with people.

Paul Mounet read the stanza composed for the occasion by Jose Heredia. M. Boucher, the minister of commerce, then delivered a short address, begging his majesty, in the name of the government of the republic, to lay the first stone of the bridge and thus accord to a great work of civilization and peace his high appreciation and gracious patronage.

After the czar and zarina had signed the formal document prepared for the occasion the czar was handed a trowel by President Faure, with which his majesty spread a small portion of mortar and tapped the corner stone with a mallet.

At the same moment a boat, in which was a group of maidens dressed in white, left the right bank of the river and crossed the stream to the place of the ceremony, where they presented the zarina with a silver vase containing some splendid flowers.

Their majesties and President Faure then drove to the mint, and from there to the French Institute. At the latter place M. Lagouan made a speech of welcome, recalling the visit of Peter the Great, and M. Cyprien read an ode to the imperial visitors. The latter afterwards signed the minutes of the meeting and proceeded to visit the Hotel de Ville.

The Place de L'Hôtel in Ville was profusely decorated with flags, and the lamps were already lighted as the imperial party arrived. Their appearance was the signal for choirs and orchestras stationed in stands to burst into a hymn of welcome, which was followed by the "Marseillaise" and the Russian hymn.

President Faure, with the czar and zarina on either side of him, ascended the steps and amid the cheers of the crowds, the troops presenting arms, the drums rolling and the bugles sounding a fanfare.

The president of the municipal council, who was surrounded by the councillors, in welcoming their majesties said: "The people of Paris, who acclaim to your majesty, its guest and the republic's ally, have suspended their labors in order to render your majesty and the empress the homage which its traditions, love for the fatherland and faith in the destinies of the two great friendly nations impose upon them."

In reply the czar simply expressed his thanks. He traversed the provost's hall, while the choirs of the opera and the conservatoire sang the Russian hymn, accompanied by the bands of the Gardie Republicaine, and entered the Cour d'Honneur, which was transformed into a magnificent winter garden, marble statues being placed here and there among flower beds which were surrounded by a rockery, over which fell cascades, while illuminated fountains played amidst the flower beds.

At the further end of the garden a crimson staircase rose from banks of flowers. The imperial Russian pair, escorted by M. Hanault, ascended the staircase and half way up turned and admired the fairy like scene. They then continued their ascent till they reached the hall of Cariatides, where they stopped and gazed upon the onyx vase given to the czar Alexander III, father of the present czar. Thence they entered the Hall of Fetes, where 4,000 persons were awaiting them, standing.

The Russian sovereigns were then seated, with President Faure between them, on a sort of throne, the dignitaries of their suite and of the French government who were designated to attend upon them being grouped around, while they listened to a concert. The imperial party at 6 o'clock returned to the Russian embassy.

Last night the imperial visitors attended a gala performance at the Theatre Francaise. The frenetic enthusiasm in every part of the city was even greater than it was on Tuesday. Every hotel and cafe was crammed with people engaged in an animated discussion of the czar's visit and proposing toasts in honor of the Russian emperor, which find an echo in every French heart. The illuminations were repeated in all of the public buildings and the numerous private buildings on a grand scale, and the appearance of the city was no whit less brilliant than at Tuesday night's almost delirious demonstration.
