Peter Horne's Narrow Escape.

The family of Peter Horne, of Shepton, narrowly escaped being asphyxiated on Wednesday evening. The family retired at the usual hour, but before doing so Mr. Horne dumped a quantity of coal on the stove. The draft was strong, and in consequence gas was generated in considerable quantity in short order. In the morning when the family arose they were all very weak, but the timely arrival of a physician saved them. A young daughter had a very narrow escape.

Monaghan Wants Damages.

Thomas Monaghan, of Comors' patch, has brought suit against Peter Kane, section foreman on the Lehigh Valley railroad, to recover the loss of a cow. The animal was struck by an engine and one of its legs broken. It was afterwards killed, so Monaghan claims, by the section hands at Kane's orders. He also claims that the cow was not killed but could have had it slaughtered and used the meat. Kane claimed that the cow died from its injuries. The case will go to court.

DESERTED BY HIS WIFE.

A Brownsville Lithuanian Minus His Bride and Cash.

Peter Radiszewski, a Lithuanian resident of Brownsville, is in great distress over the sudden disappearance of his wife, a pretty woman of about 22 years, and the simultaneous loss of $500 in cash which his wife held as their joint savings. The story as told runs this way: His wife came to this country about a year ago and they were joined in wedlock. There is no issue from the union. Mrs. Radiszewski is attractive and of a very congenial disposition. In order that they might more rapidly accumulate money the couple decided to take in boarders, and they did so, but the husband soon had his jealousy aroused and he dismissed all the boarders. Mrs. Radiszewski recently developed a strong desire to visit friends in Pittsburgh. He urged her to wait a while, in view of the fact that he has been out of work some time, and she apparently coincided in his views, but yesterday she disappeared and took with her the $500 they had saved. Radiszewski has under surveillance a young man who was one of his boarders, on the supposition that the latter may soon depart to join the erring wife.
