PREDICTED STORM COMES.

Few Disasters Reported Along the Atlantic Coast.

SCHOONER WRECK AT LEWES, DEL.

Of the Crew Three Were Lost and the Others Rescued With Difficulty by Life Savers—Heroic Rescue of a Crew Off New England.

New York, Oct. 12.—The storm which the weather observer Dunn warned New York city would strike here by nightfall Sunday arrived promptly on time. It was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon when it began to rain, and from that time it began to blow, lightly at first, but gradually working up to a very high pitch. Almost a mile a minute was the velocity it had attained by 10:30 p. m., and the effects were perceptible on all sides. The shipping interests in the harbor, having received sufficient warning, had ample time to prepare for the approaching storm, and it is not likely that any great loss will occur. Although the wind blew at a hurricane rate along the New Jersey coast very little damage has been reported so far. Throughout the country districts of New Jersey nothing more than telegraph poles and trees are reported down. Accompanying the wind storm was a heavy rain, which in many parts fell in torrents for hours.

At Asbury Park and Long Branch most of the damage was done by the great waves which were dashed up along the piers and beaches, but as preparations had been made for the storm the damage was not heavy. At these places the wind attained a velocity of about fifty miles an hour, and those who watched the ocean from the shore said they had never seen an angrier sea or more terrible waves. At Sandy Hook the gale was experienced at its worst. It blew great guns all day, and continued throughout the night. Several coastwise steamers which sailed on Saturday returned yesterday and anchored in the Horseshoe to ride out the storm.

HEEDED THE STORM SIGNAL.
Vessels Escape the Fury of the Storm in Boston Harbor.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Never before in the history of the local weather bureau in this city have the warnings of this department been so generally heeded as during the past forty-eight hours. With a perfectly blue sky and a light east wind the hurricane signal was hoisted at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and has remained up ever since. With the exception of two or three large ocean steamers every craft in the harbor remained at her anchorage, and today there is scarcely a vessel outside of Boston light.

The advancing West India storm made itself evident about twelve hours after the hurricane signal was hoisted. The wind shifted to the northwest and since that time has increased constantly in force, attaining the highest velocity about 8 o'clock last night, when it blew fifty-five miles an hour. Along the southern New England coast it is raining heavily, especially at Block Island and Nantucket. As usual, Block Island reported the greatest wind velocity, sixty-eight miles an hour.

With the exception of the wreck of the Albatross at Baker's Island, off Salem harbor, no other disasters have as yet been reported, although the four masted schooner Mabel Jordan, bound in from Philadelphia in ballast, ran ashore early in the morning. She was hauled off later without serious damage and towed to this city.

AMERICAN SCHOONER WRECKED.

Three Sailors Drowned and the Others Rescued by Life Savers.

Lewes, Del., Oct. 12.—At daybreak yesterday the American schooner Luther A. Roby, from Schuylerville, Nova Scotia, for Philadelphia, with a cargo of plaster, struck near the point of Cape Henlopen while a terrible northeast gale was prevailing. The vessel pounded to pieces on the sands before the life saving men could get a line to her. Three of the crew lost their lives, and five men were rescued after an awful experience with the elements. The dead are: Harry Milby, Thomas Simms and an unknown Norwegian sailor. One of those killed lost his life by being struck by the mainmast when it fell.

The survivors are Captain W. H. Maloney, of Boston; Mate George A. Hopkins, Fred Olson, Alexander Melan and Edgar Lewes. They are being cared for by the crew of the life saving station No. 2. They were rescued after they had given up all hope of reaching shore alive. When the schooner went to pieces the five men managed to get hold of the deck house. On this frail raft they were buffeted about at the mercy of the enormously high seas until they were seen by the life savers. A rope was thrown to them and the five men, now nearly exhausted, were hauled through the roaring surf to a place of safety.

The Storm at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 12.—A severe northeast storm began to rage along the coast about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and has continued with unabated fury. The wind blew steadily about fifty-five miles an hour. The government life crew reports no shipping disasters along the coast. In this city the storm did considerable damage. Along the beach front the ocean ran high up under the new esplanade and into the hotel lawns. At Massachusetts avenue the buried hull of a wrecked schooner which stranded there last year was torn from her bed by the tides and driven with great force against the iron pier, tearing away 150 feet of the structure. At Texas avenue the Lee pier was smashed into by a piece of wreckage and the center piling torn away.

A Message from the Dead.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 12.—A bottle was picked up on the south side of the island by James C. McCleave, which contained the following message written on a piece of paper: "Sept. 10—We are off Nantucket twenty miles, and about to sink. Please notify my wife, Mrs. Mary Frazer, of Gloucester. We will have reached shore alive." It was signed by John C. Frazer, and there was nothing which indicated the name of the vessel.

Norwegian Bark Wrecked.
LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Norwegian bark Minda, Captain Robinson, from Shetland, Nova Scotia, to Manchester, was wrecked in the Menai strait on Saturday night. Lifeboats succeeded in rescuing the crew in an exhausted condition yesterday morning.

Intense Cold in England.
LONDON, Oct. 12.—Intense cold and snow prevail in many parts of the united kingdom and the recent destructive gale was renewed on Saturday night. On many of the coasts there was numerous casualties and loss of life.

Saved from a Watery Grave.

GLoucester, Mass., Oct. 12.—The Bath schooner Albatross, with a cargo of lumber, after a hard tussle with the tremendous seas, kicked up by the northeast gale, lies a total wreck on the breakers off Baker's Island, while her captain, James Oliver, and his crew of two men are indebted to Captain Young, of the lobster smack Helen M. Butler, of this port, for their lives. The seas were making a dash across the Albatross and three men were clinging to her sides when rescued by the crew of the Butler.

Pension Agent Convicted.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 12.—In the United States court here James B. Denworth was convicted of unlawfully retaining a portion of a pension which he had, in the capacity of pension agent, secured for Mrs. Mary Figg, a widow. The amount alleged to have been kept by him is $25. A motion for a new trial was made, and Denworth was held in $1,000 bail. Two years ago Mr. Denworth was a candidate for department commander of the G. A. R.

Hit Him With a Brick.

Saturday afternoon Felix Alex struck Enoch Stanawick on the head with a brick and Justice Carlin committed him to the lockup in default of $2000 bail. The assault took place in Whykawick's saloon on East Centre street and a peculiar feature of the case is that the men were entire strangers to each other and there was no difficulty preceding the attack. Alex himself could give no reason for it.

MR. FLYNN'S FORTIFICATION

Looks Over the Wall in Sympathy With His Neighbors.

THEY ARE FLOODED BY SEWERAGE

A Sequel to the Case Which Has Worried the Board of Health and Borough Council For Many Months—Threats of Suits For Damages.

There is war in the First ward over a nuisance created on a number of properties by the blocking of a creek which has been a part of the natural drainage system of the borough ever since its incorporation, and long before. The blockade has been established by ex-High Constable Anthony Flynn and what the ultimate result will be no one can at this time conjecture.

The creek flows from the northern part of town, in the vicinity of Baird's field, and takes a southeast course until it strikes another creek at the southern end of Emerick street. As the town has developed people have built houses along the banks, and over the creek and so much has the water course been hedged that many people do not know of its existence. Of course advantage has been taken of the creek for drainage purposes and its contents to-day are not desirable to have flowing over any property and, therefore, it is not surprising that the residents of the First ward affected are up in arms. The only question is, who is responsible for the condition of affairs? Some people say Anthony Flynn, others say the Borough Council, and still others blame the lawyers. Time, alone, will tell.

Years ago Flynn purchased a property on South Emerick street. The creek mentioned passed through the property, the dwelling being so constructed as to leave a passage for the flowing waters beneath, and in the yard the creek was covered by old railroad sills. Nobody complained about the creek until some months ago, when the sills became so rotten that they caved in, partly blocking the creek and allowing offensive odors to make the surrounding atmosphere unbearable.

Mr. Flynn complained to the Borough Council and Board of Health, claiming that the creek was a public sewerage and the borough should cover it. The complaint fluctuated between the Board of Health and Borough Council until it became a chestnut, and finally it was thrown aside on an opinion by the Borough Solicitor, who stated that the creek was a natural water course, and not a public sewerage; and, as the brick was on private property, the borough was not liable. Mr. Flynn said it was a public sewerage, as the borough had given parties permits to run sewerage lines to the creek. This the borough officials deny. They say they have given permits to have the streets dug up for the laying of sewerage pipes, but at no time does it designate where the lines shall discharge, only in cases of public sewerage.

Mr. Flynn then appealed to the law, and through George J. Wallinger, Esq., brought suit against the borough for damages in trespass. This suit is still pending. Recently Mr. Flynn's lawyer advised him, so it is claimed, to build a stone wall across the creek so as to stop it flowing over his property and then lay such sewerage pipes as would serve his own purpose. Mr. Flynn decided to follow the advice, but first told his neighbors what he proposed doing. They became greatly alarmed and called upon the Borough Council. The Borough Solicitor adhered to his former opinion and said the best thing for the Council to do would be to await the result of Mr. Flynn's suit for damages, as that would settle the question as to whether the creek was under the jurisdiction of the borough.

Mr. Flynn waited a few days and then started work on his wall. He finally succeeded in putting up an effectual breastwork and the rain of last night did the rest. The water and sewerage first formed a pool, then swelled by degrees until it became a dam. The wall is a high one. The water had to go some place, however, and it has flowed over the adjoining premises. The basements on the J. B. Monaghan property are flooded to a depth of two and a half feet, and Michael Graham, Health Officer Conroy, Edward McGuinness and other adjoining property owners are driven to desperation. Clearly the matter has several wagons in the yard next to his establishment and this morning it looked as if they would soon be floating. The language the afflicted parties are using has given the atmosphere of the vicinity a sulphurous odor and it is hardly safe for anybody having anything to do with the management of the borough affairs to go within gun shot distance of the scene. Meanwhile Mr. Flynn looks over his stone wall with great complacency, but occasionally deals out bits of sympathy to his afflicted neighbors, whose only hope of satisfaction lies in suits against the borough. Should the court decide that Mr. Flynn is responsible for the condition of affairs they will only have a poor man to call upon for damages. The First ward will no doubt be well represented at the Borough Council meeting next Thursday night.
