ANOTHER TRAIN ROBBERY. This Time in Missouri—The Robbers Got Only Some Jewelry.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—A passenger and express train on the Chicago and Alton railroad due here from Chicago and St. Louis at 7 o'clock was held up and robbed by four masked men this evening at Blue Springs cut, between Independence and Gladstone, Mo. The scene of the robbery is less than twenty miles distant from Kansas City. The train was flagged at the cut. While two of the robbers stood guard over the passenger coaches, the other two covered the conductor, engineer and fireman with their revolvers and compelled them to go to the express car. Then the robbers commanded the messenger to open the door of the car, threatening to break in the doors should he refuse. After some delay the robbers were admitted to the car. They compelled the messenger to open the safe, and extracted from it several packages. How much booty was secured cannot be ascertained at this hour, but the conductor of the train states that the bandits secured nothing save several packages of jewelry. Having secured the packages, the robbers left the train and entered the woods. Though several shots were fired, no one was injured.

The train proceeded to Independence, and information of the robbery was telegraphed from there. A deputy sheriff and posse left Independence at once, and a squad of policemen was detailed from here, but it is thought the bandits are now safely out of the way. There have been three holdups in the Blue Spring cut. The James gang held up a train there in 1881.

Chained in a Burning Building.

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa., Oct. 24.—This small frame house of Martin Morse, at Canton, was discovered on fire. The doors were fastened, and upon breaking them down the neighbors found Mrs. Leroy, aged 99 years, alone and chained to the walls. The chains were broken and the frantic woman was carried from the building as the roof fell in. Mrs. Leroy made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, both of whom were away from the house when the fire occurred. Mr. and Mrs. Morse, whose reputation is good, say that the old lady is childish, and to keep her out of mischief they chained her when they went away from home. The fire began on the top floor, and Mrs. Leroy was chained down stairs.

County Commissioners Enjoined.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 24.—Judge Simonon returned home last night from Princeton, where he had been attending the sesquicentennial celebration. He met Attorney John H. Fow at Princeton Junction in the afternoon and went with him to Philadelphia, where he signed the injunction against the county commissioners of Philadelphia, restraining them from printing ballots bearing the columns known as the "McKinley-Citizens' Ticket."

A Fearful Suicide.

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa., Oct. 24.—Godfrid Lindow, a young Swede, of Mount Jewett, who has been suffering with typhoid fever for some time, tried to butt his brains out. Later he cut his throat, with a knife, and then with his fingers he tore the opening clear to the chest, dying a most painful death.

A Car Load of Cloaks.

I have just returned from New York with the greatest bargains ever offered by any Dry Goods house in stylish Coats for Ladies or Children. We make no vain boast when we state we can sell Cloaks, Wraps, Jackets, or Fur Capes from 25 to 50 per cent cheaper than any other store. Customers who want to get the very latest and correct shapes would do well to visit our great cloak department. 10-23-24 L. J. WILKINSON.

The Fort Flynn Case.

The lawyers in the injunction suit of Anthony Flynn against the Borough of Shenandoah, where Mr. Flynn seeks to restrain the borough officials from tearing down the stone wall he built across the creek in the First ward, yesterday agreed that, instead of having an argument before the court at Pottsville on Monday, they will meet in town next Wednesday or Thursday with witnesses for both sides and take testimony in the case.

Should Be Broken Up.

The attention of the police is called to a gang of boys and young men who make a rendezvous at the Merchants Bank corner, on North Main street, every night, including Sundays. The complaints made against the gang are numerous and varied in character. It is claimed that they conceal all kinds of mischievous schemes and then march from the corner in a body to carry them out. Last night their scene of operations was the White street school building, where they attempted to annoy the night school teachers and employes. The stoning of people along Lloyd street is also laid at the door of this gang.

Kendrick House Free Lunch.

Sour kraut, pork and mashed potatoes will be served as free lunch to-night. Hot lunch on Monday morning.

Persecution Suspected.

Isaac Levine, of South Jardin street, suspects that he is a victim of persecution, but cannot understand why he should be. On Wednesday night his horse, valued at $125, and a cow valued at $75, were poisoned. The latter animal died this morning. Had both been stabled in one place the theory that poison might have accidentally got into the food would be more readily accepted, but the cow was kept in a stable on Pear alley, at the rear of Mr. Levine's residence, while the horse was quartered at a stable on Strawberry alley, in the First ward.

Brennan's New Restaurant.

Sour kraut and baked potatoes will be served as free lunch on Monday morning.

EX-SPEAKER CRISP DEAD!

Recent Attacks of Pleuro-Pneumonia Hastened His Death.

WAS THE CHOICE FOR SENATOR

Mr. Crisp Would Have Been Chosen to Succeed John M. Gordon in the Upper House of Congress—Governor Atkinson May Now Secure the Post.

ATLANTA, Oct. 24.—Charles E. Crisp, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, died here yesterday afternoon. Mr. Crisp had been an inmate of this sanitarium of Dr. J. H. S. Holmes in this city for several weeks. His condition had been reported as very low, but no fatal conclusion to his illness had been expected so soon. Mr. Crisp had been in intense pain all day. Every few minutes he would suffer greatly. But no danger was feared at such an early moment. His wife, together with a sanitarium nurse, Miss Sharp, were watching at his bedside.

It was after 1 o'clock that Mr. Crisp was seized with another attack. The watchers saw it and sent down stairs for Dr. Holmes. Judge Crisp's two daughters, Mrs. Fred Davenport and Miss Bertha Crisp, and his two sons, Mr. Charles F. Crisp, Jr., and Mr. Fred Crisp, were at the Ballard House, on Peachtree street. They were quickly summoned. When then entered the room Judge Crisp was still conscious. He gave them a look of recognition, breathed a few times and died. He could not speak.

Mr. Crisp's death, while apparently so sudden, was not unexpected by the physicians who have been watching his health. He had been declining for several years. His last illness, however, was immediately contracted by an attack of malaria in America, Ga., a few weeks ago, but which itself yielded to treatment when he came to Atlanta. He was considered convalescent, and only last Sabbath had ridden out.

He died, however, at his residence on Peachtree street. His death was hastened by congestion of the lungs, which, added to the weakness of the lungs and heart, caused by the previous attacks of pleuro-pneumonia, resulted in his death. Mr. Crisp was the choice of the Democrats of Georgia to succeed Senator John M. Gordon in the United States senate, and would have been chosen to that position by the legislature at its approaching session had he lived. His death throws the political situation into chaos and makes the choice of senator a matter of great uncertainty. The legislature is almost unanimously for free silver, however, and whoever is named will be an advocate of that policy.

Governor W. Y. Atkinson, who has just been re-elected chief executive of Georgia for a term of two years, is prominently mentioned as successor to the senatorial seat which would have been Mr. Crisp's had he survived. Should he enter and be elected there would probably be a contest for the governorship between Hon. Robert L. Berner and Hon. A. S. Clay, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee. Governor Atkinson's choice as senator would render necessary a special election for governor.

Mr. Crisp's first pronouncement in national affairs came from the skill with which he led his party in several warm election contests. The prestige he then acquired led to his election to the speakership after one of the most memorable campaigns in the history of the house. His chief opponent was Senator Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, whom he defeated after a struggle that was prolonged so that the house of representatives, contrary to custom, assembled on the opening day with the question of its next speaker still in doubt.

As speaker Mr. Crisp was fair, but firm. His rulings have been upheld, and though sometimes they were the subject of considerable criticism from his political opponents, he always commanded their respect and confidence. He was a pronounced advocate of the free coinage of silver, and on one occasion his casting vote as speaker saved the defeat of a free coinage bill. On the other hand, it was largely due to his firmness in ruling that passed the Sherman silver repeal law through the house, his ruling defeating a formidable filibustering movement led by Mr. Brand, of Missouri.

Charles F. Crisp was born in Sheffield, England, where his parents had gone on a visit, and was brought to his home in Georgia the year of his birth. He received a common school education, and when only 16 years of age he entered the Confederate army, coming out a lieutenant. After the war he studied law, and then drifted into politics. After holding several important state offices, he was elected to the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first, Fifty-second, Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth congresses. He was elected speaker of the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses. He was 61 years old.

ASSAULTED A MERCHANT.

A Lively Bout Took Place on Main Street This Morning.

John Hafner was before Justice Lawler this morning, charged by Wolf Layvine, the North Main street merchant, with assault and battery and destroying property. Bill was fixed at $200 in one case and $200 in the other. Hafner and Alexander Woomer had an argument and they went to Layvine's store to settle by asking Layvine about past transactions. While in the place the argument grew warm and Hafner attempted to strike Woomer. Layvine forced Hafner out of the store. The latter had a pin case in one hand and he struck back, smashing the pane of glass in one of the double doors, and the gun case also struck Layvine on the nose, but did not injure him seriously.

Narrow Escape.

Yesterday at noon two ladies, whose names could not be learned, had a narrow escape from being ground to pieces at the Lehigh Valley crossing on South Main street. A passenger train had passed, and the ladies, thinking the track was clear, started across when they were confronted by a rapidly coming coal train. By the quick presence of the engineer the engine was reversed, and the accident avoided.

CHARGES OF FRAUD

New York Manufacturers I Two Local Tailors

SEIZURE MADE ON SEARCH

Over a Thousand Dollars Tailors Arrested, But Free Settled by Paying the Cost Full and All Expenses

A breeze of excitement was kindled last night by Constable Thomas (and his posse) searching for goods under a search warrant issued in the north-west corner of Centre and on the upper part of the house. The goods were taken from the collar and other parts of the house. The search was made by the constable and his posse. The goods were taken from the collar and other parts of the house. The search was made by the constable and his posse.

An investigation showed that and his posse had obtained goods under a search warrant issued in the house stated on were seized on complaint of cloth manufacturers of New York the property of Andrew J. and the merchant tailors of 102 South which place is but a short distance from the goods were seized. The suits under which these were instituted were before Judge Green on a judgment based on given to a resident of town, for the New York creditors had been seized the place. The goods were seized by search warrant last night and it is also alleged that when that asked what became of the goods they had been made up and delivered to customers, who to pay for them.

It was upon this statement of agents instituted their suits in Green yesterday. The Greens on charges of obtaining goods pretenses and conspiracy to defraud the sum of $1,500 was required to pay. The goods seized were taken in M. M. Burke, Esq., the county clerk, and if there is any old debt that possession is mine had the clothing manufacturers late this morning.

THE CASES SETTLED. This morning all parties met at M. M. Burke, Esq., and a settlement was effected whereby the agents when they seized the goods, they agreed to pay the full amount of the goods seized, and costs amounting to $25.
