ENTIRE NEW STOCK.

Refresh, the Clothier, Makes a Big Cleaning Out Deal.

L. Retowich, the proprietor of the One Price Clothing House on South Main street, yesterday made a big deal by which he disposed of the entire old stock of clothing to his place to Marcus & Co., the Lancaster county auctioneers. The transaction was the largest bulk sale of clothing ever made in the town and the goods filled 25 large crates. Mr. Retowich was obliged to make the sale in order to make room for a mammoth new stock he had purchased for the fall and winter trade and which is now in the big store. The stock is so large that the many tables crum under the great weight. It embraces all the latest styles in the best make of clothing for men, boys and children and overcoats and references. Mr. Retowich says he will sell every garment at bottom rock price. The stock includes all sizes, but should anyone difficult to be unable to find just what he wants. Mr. Retowich can furnish suits to order, being the local agent for Hammonds & Bin., of New York, the greatest merchant tailoring firm in the world. No "barking" is needed at his store, as some competitors resort to. All goods speak for themselves, and he treats all customers in a gentlemanly manner.

A Finnish Crime.

Mr. and Mrs. Coladage, of Gilberton, visited Mahanoy City on Tuesday for the purpose of attending a christening. They left at home their two daughters, aged five and seven years respectively, and a boarder named Franks. The parents remained in Mahanoy City until the last day and were persuaded by friends to remain all night. When they returned home the next morning they found their oldest daughter, Mary, suffering from a brutal and Finnish attack by the boarder. The enraged father immediately went before Squire Williams, of Gilberton, and swore out a warrant for Franks' arrest, charging him with rape. He was arrested and committed to the Potsville jail to await trial.

SAVED BY PRESENCE OF MIND.

A Cambridge Colliery Carpenter Has a Thrilling Experience.

Michael McDonald, aged 26 years, residing at Cambridgeville and employed as a carpenter at the Cambridge Colliery, had an almost miraculous escape from death while at work in the breaker yesterday. Only his presence of mind saved him. He was engaged in repairing a jig screen when a part of his clothing was caught by the main shaft and his body was whirled around the shafting several times before the machinery could be stopped.

McDonald displayed great presence of mind before the work was thrown off the shaft wheel by a workman. Every time his body went over the shafting he leaped his head, and thus saved it from being dashed against the timbers above. Had he lost control of himself he would have been instantly killed on the first revolution and the subsequent turns would have mangled his head to a jelly. His clothing was torn into shreds and his body was considerably bruised, but he was able to walk from the colliery to the electric railway terminus on South Main street, where he boarded a car for his home. He refused to enter an ambulance.

Saved the Man's Life.

One of the most accommodating and efficient passenger conductors on the Lehigh Valley road is Pierre Schlier. The other evening his presence of mind and prompt action saved a man from a horrible death. Mr. Schlier's train was standing at the depot here, and just as he gave the signal to go ahead a man standing on the platform fell directly under the car. At the time Mr. Schlier was standing at the door of the baggage room and he hurriedly jumped from the train and pulled the man from the track just as the wheels were dangerously near his body. It was too late to signal the engineer to stop, and had not Mr. Schlier been so prompt the man would have met instant death.

Kalbach Punched Them.

Last night two men named Clifford Barton and Jacob C. Volkman, who hail from Hazleton and are engaged in putting the steam heating apparatus in the Lithuanian church, called at J. M. Kalbach's cigar store on Main street for a pipe one of them had left for repair. As it was not ready they examined a number of valuable pipes to which their attention had been attracted. While Kalbach was engaged in another part of the store one of them was slipped from the collection. The proprietor missed it, but felt delicate in charging the men, and spent some time in making a search. While he was thus engaged a customer in the store observed Volkman place the missing pipe at the end of the counter. When his attention was called to the matter Kalbach sprung at the men and hustled them out of the store to the pavement, at the same time punching them wherever he could land a blow. No arrest was made. Barton called at the HERRICK office this morning and stated that he was an innocent party to the affair.
