CANTON CAMPAIGN CLOSES.

Major McKinley Has Addressed Nearly a Million People.

HE HAS MADE 214 SPEECHES!

From the Day of His Nomination, on June 18, Vast Crowds Have Visited Canton to Pay Their Respects to the Presidential Candidate.

CANTON, O., Nov. 2.—Saturday evening practically ended the most remarkable political campaign in the history of the United States and of the world. Canton, which has been the Republican Mecca, has figured more prominently in this campaign than any other place in the country. Pilgrimages have been made by men and women from every walk of life, and from all quarters of the country. The actual campaign has been of 192 days' duration.

Eliminating Sundays, there have been 102 days of the campaign. In that time Major McKinley has made 214 speeches, an average of more than two a day. He reached the maximum when on Saturday, Sept. 24, he spoke twenty-one times. Nearly every one of these speeches has been made from the front porch of his modest little home in North Market street, or from a temporary stand at the edge of his door yard. A very few have been made in halls, when the weather was too inclement for outdoor assemblages. The aggregate number of people addressed is difficult to estimate. Some have placed it at 1,000,000, some higher and some lower.

The ballot which nominated Major McKinley at St. Louis on June 18 had not been counted before a crowd was surging about his house and demanding a speech. It was composed of the people of Canton—fully 20,000 of them—who, in response to the signal of the town's fire bell, had rushed to the house. Forty-five minutes later 2,000 came on a special train from Alliance, twenty miles east, in this county. Soon afterward another crowd of 2,000 or more came from Massillon, and was joined here by 4,000 from Akron. From that day to this the campaign in Canton has been an animated one.

Senator-elect Foraker contributed handsomely to the brilliant close of what has been, perhaps, the most interesting day of the campaign. Major McKinley met Mr. Foraker at the station at 5 o'clock, and when some one proposed three cheers for the distinguished guest, Major McKinley took off his hat and led the cheering. Senator Foraker remained at Canton, but forty-five minutes, having to reach Cleveland in time to deliver a speech at night.

The largest delegation that has visited Canton came Saturday afternoon. It was from Youngstown and other places in the Mahoning valley, and numbered 9,000 people, 2,000 of whom were women. It took this splendid Mahoning valley delegation more than an hour to pass in review before Major McKinley. When the parade came to a halt and the people massed themselves in the streets and yard about Major McKinley's house the Republican candidate looked down upon the greatest and most inspiring audience that has greeted him. In addition to the visiting delegation there were thousands of other people pressing toward the stand.

Every man, woman and child carried a flag, and when Major McKinley rose to speak each flag waved, and a great chorus of cheers rolled like a surge of the sea up and down the densely packed streets. Major McKinley had a prepared speech in his hand which he had expected to deliver, but he could not do it. He was caught up in the wave of enthusiasm which swirled and eddied about him. He tossed the manuscript aside and spoke, as he afterwards said, "just what was in his heart." What he said was echoed in 10,000 hearts. When he declared: "There is just one class under our flag, and we all belong to it," such a cheer went up as Canton never heard before.

Major McKinley never looked better nor seemed in better health than he did yesterday. He went to church in the morning as usual, and took a walk and a drive during the day. Mrs. McKinley, after a week's illness, is able to sit up and is feeling much better. The day brought an innovation for the campaign, a Sunday delegation. The party consisted of about a hundred first voters of Detroit, sent as the representatives of the First Voters' club of 1,500 members in that city. No demonstration was made. The visitors went to church services which Major McKinley attended and afterwards called at the house to shake hands with him. They returned home in the evening.

Two Killed in Political Quarrels.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 2.—Both political parties held demonstrations in the mining town of Duryea Saturday night, and excitement ran high. There were many quarrels between the opposing forces. Frank Bronski, a Polish Republican, quarreled with some of his countrymen. Yesterday his dead body was found in a ditch. The skull had been crushed in. His assailants had evidently used a heavy club. John Luby and Andrew Drotaki, slaves, fought in a bar room. Luby drew a big knife and stabbed Drotaki in the abdomen. He died last night. Setted with remorse, Luby threw the knife across his own throat. The floor of the bar room was a sea of blood. The attending physicians say Luby's death is only a question of time.

TWO KILLED, FOUR INJURED.

Distressing Accident in Packer No. 2 Colliery This Afternoon.

John Holloran and a Laborer Killed While Trying to Save One of Their Companions From a Blast—They Were Covered by Tons of Coal and Smothered.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

LOST CREEK, Nov. 2.—A distressing accident occurred at about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in Packer No. 2 colliery by which John Holloran, a contractor, of Girardville, and Joseph Sam, a Polish laborer, of Lost Creek No. 2, were instantly killed, and Thomas Welsh, of Conners' Patch, John McGrath, of Lost Creek, Robert Carter, of Conners' Patch, and Michael Mack, of Lost Creek, were injured.

The men were engaged as a party in robbing in the East Holmes vein of the colliery and had put a hole to feet below the face of the breast for a blast. After adjusting and lighting the squib Welsh started down the breast, but stumbled and fell. He was caught in such a manner that he could not proceed any further. He called for assistance and all his companions ran back to help him. While they were thus engaged the blast went off and blew out four or five tons of coal. Holloran and Sam were completely covered. They were smothered or crushed to death. It took an hour to recover the bodies. Holloran was a brother-in-law of McGrath and leaves a wife and three children. Welsh was dangerously injured, McGrath was seriously, but not dangerously injured and Carter and Mack suffered only slight injuries. They were able to walk home.

INTIMIDATING VOTERS.

Two Young Pottsville Attorneys Threatening Saloon-keepers.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 2.—Information was received at Republican headquarters, yesterday, to the effect that a bold attempt would be made to-day to intimidate Polish and Lithuanian saloon-keepers, for the purpose of securing their votes for the Democratic county ticket.

The information received is to the effect that two young lawyers left here to-day for the Mahanoy Valley and will represent to the saloon-keepers in Shenandoah and Mahanoy City that the court desires them to support the Democratic ticket and upon their refusal to do so will imperil their chances for a renewal of their licenses.

The names of the parties to the fraud are known, and if they make the attempt the law against intimidating voters will be applied to them. The information received was of such a nature that chairman Edwards this morning called the court's attention to the matter. Judge Bechtel was very indignant and assured Mr. Edwards that the court, neither as individuals or as a body, gave any such instructions; that it places the court in a false position and that the parties responsible for dragging the Judiciary into the mire, if apprehended, will be given the full extent of the law.

No saloon-keeper need have any misgivings about voting the Republican ticket, for fear of imperiling their chances for renewal of license. This is made plain by Judge Bechtel.

Chairman Edwards will prosecute all who attempt the fraud, and desires information furnished him of any case in which a saloon-keeper has been threatened by the loss of his license for refusing to vote the Democratic ticket. The attempted fraud plainly shows which way the wind is blowing.

Changes in Election Officers.

The court this morning made several changes in the election officers in this borough. Thomas Deblin was appointed inspector of election in the Second ward in place of James Smith removed to another ward. Thomas Bellis was also appointed judge of election in that ward.

In the Third ward Richard Coogan was appointed inspector. Application was made to court for the appointment of overseers in the Fifth, and the court named John L. Hassler, Republican, and Peter Harkins, Democrat, to serve in that capacity.

Argument Postponed.

It was intended to have an argument of the injunction suit of M. C. Watson against the Columbia Brewing Company before the court at Pottsville to-day, but it was postponed for two weeks this morning.

At Breen's Rialto Cafe.

Panned oysters on toast will be served free to everybody to-night. Plenty for all.

Collieries Idle To-morrow.

The collieries were working to-day, but will be idle to-morrow (election day). The P. & R. collieries will resume on Wednesday, but the number of days is not given. The Lehigh Valley collieries will also resume at the same time and work the balance of the week.

Kendrick House Free Lunch.

CHURCH SILVER ANNIVERSARY

A Joyful Event in the German Lutheran Church.

SERMONS BY VISITING CLERGYMEN

The Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Church's Foundation here, as Well as the Anniversary of Rev. John Grubler's Pastorate Celebrated Yesterday.

Yesterday was one of rejoicing for the congregation of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran congregation and its pastor, Rev. John Grubler, as it marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the congregation and the silver anniversary of Rev. Grubler's pastorate of the church. With singular coincidence the day, being All Saints' Day, was also the 499th anniversary of Reformation Day, established by the immortal Martin Luther, so that the special observance by the congregation was really a triple one.

The services of the day were of a very impressive character and the interior of the church was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers. The morning service opened at 10 o'clock and was conducted in the German language. It was opened by the Schoppe orchestra with a selection from Haydn entitled, "The Heavens are Telling," followed by the choir, under the direction of Prof. F. Zeitz, singing the semi-inspiring hymn, "The Lord is my Shepherd." The service was followed by the congregation singing a hymn, after which Rev. William Wackernagle, D. D., of the Muhlenberg College, Allentown, delivered an impressive sermon on a text taken from St. Paul's epistle to the Philippians, J. 3:11. The sermon was an able one and Rev. Wackernagle took occasion to congratulate the pastor and congregation upon their long continued connection. Upon the conclusion of sermon the choir rendered "Be Joyful Unto the Lord" and the Schoppe orchestra closed the service with a rendition of "Veni Creator," by Williams. The choir was augmented for the ceremonies of the day by the services of singers who had been members in past years. Miss Ida Darnbach presided at the organ.

The afternoon session was devoted to Sunday school exercises and the school was addressed by Dr. Wackernagle and Rev. Clymer, of Frackville.

The evening service opened at the usual hour and the lesson of the evening was read by Dr. Wackernagle. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Umbenhen, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church of Pottsville, and was a very impressive one. Rev. Umbenhen first congratulated Rev. Grubler and the congregation upon their relations of twenty-five years and said there were abundant evidences that the relations had been mutually pleasing and acceptable. He spoke of continued pastorate and upheld them with spirited argument. He said that while there may be some disadvantages to leaving a pastor continue in one church for years, there were also disadvantages in frequent changes of pastors. In all congregations some will become cool and indifferent and in many cases it is found that the relations between the pastor and the congregation become strained, and this is more frequently found where the pastor adheres to the preaching of the gospel as he finds it. There are times when the truth is repulsive to some people, but it is the duty of a pastor to emulate the example of Paul, the disciple, who said, "I am not afraid to preach the word of the Lord." The great trouble is that many pastors, said Rev. Umbenhen, is that they get away from their true mission. They cater to the worldly appetite and fall in their duty of preaching. They seem to forget that their one great mission is to save souls and to do it by preaching the gospel. He cited an instance of a clergyman picking up a newspaper and finding in the church announcements such subjects as "High Steves and Theatre Hats," "Fitzsimmons vs Corbett." Such pastors get away from their true mission and neglect the work of soul saving. The minister who sticks to the gospel may find some of his congregation growing cold at times, but the truth will prevail and he will eventually win back these people and they will become his best and most devoted parishioners. In closing Rev. Umbenhen paid a touching tribute to Rev. Grubler. The services were interspersed by singing by the choir and the congregation.

The anniversary jubilee will be continued in the church this evening, when Rev. Schlenker, of Hazleton, will preach in English and Rev. Gebert, of Tamaqua, in German. An elaborate musical program has been arranged for the occasion.

Should be Disciplined.

The attention of the police is called to a gang of boys who make a practice nightly of throwing mud at the residences on West Cherry street, between West and Gilbert streets. Last evening they took a dog out and wrapped it around a roller. When the lady of the house left her home in attend services, she stepped upon it, which threw her heavily upon the pavement. She was very fortunate in not receiving any broken limbs.

Successful Meetings.

The continued interest in the revival meetings in the M. E. church warrants the announcement that these special services will be held every evening this week. Rev. Alfred Heebner, the pastor, will address the meeting this evening. A song service is held every evening at 7:15, lasting about 15 minutes. The public is cordially invited. Much good is being done. Seventy-five have thus far professed conversion.
