THE DUCHESS WEDDED.

Duke of Sutherland's Widow Becomes Lady Bollit.

IGNOBLE BRITISH "NOBILITY!

An interesting Chapter Relating to the Titled Aristocracy of England-A Disreputable Duke Who Forsook Bis Wife and Family for an Adventuress.

LOYDON, Nov. 13 .- Sir Albert K. Rollin, member of parliament for the somb di-vision of I-lington was married yesterday to the Downger Duckes of Sutherland. As Mrs. Blair, the downger duckes visited the United States with the third duke. d'erwards her husband, a few years ago. Aftér the third duke's douth, in 1802, she After the third disks a death, in 1802, she disputed his will with the present disks, his son, and as one of the results the downger duchess spent six weeks in Holloway jail for contempt of court in burning the important documentary evidence. The trouble eventually was compromised. Six Albert K. Rollit is a wealthy ship owner, and is Comservative in solities.

Albert K. Rotht is a wearing and is Conservative in politics.

It is said that Captain Blair sought other it is said that capital thair sought refuge from the scoulal by blowing his brain-out. His death while on a hunt-ing excursion with the Duke of Suther-land set Mrs. Blair free to follow the duke

The first Duchess of Sutherland, who was Countess of Cromartle in her own right, resented the intrusion into her donestle circle, and instituted proceedings or divorce, but abundance them at the lirest instigation of her especial friend, the queen.

The liaison with Mrs. Blair continued. and when the duke fell if at his magnificent country seat in Staffordshire, in the autumn of 1881. Mrs. Blair planted herself at his heiside, with the full approval of the infatuated duke. Under these circular these circular these circular these circular and the seat of the content of the circular these circular that the circular these circular these circular that the circular than the circ cumstances the duchess and her children kept at a distance. At length the doctor's bulletins amounced that the duke's death was framinent, and at their carnest solicitation the dupless went to Trentham-Within a few hours after their arrival the danger was past, and the dube quickly rallied.

A terrible scone is then reported to have taken place between the injured wife and her children on the one side and the intruding woman on the other. A final attempt was made to drive the latter from the house and to put a stop to the scandal. The stranger, strong in the support of the duke, was, however, victorious, and it was the duchess, accompanied by all her same day.

The duke, who had scarcely recovered from his illness, embarked with Mrs. Blair on board his yacht, and left England on a prolonged trip, going to Java and the United States, among other places. While

In the latter country the first duchess died, and less than four months later M.s. Blair became the Duchess of Sutherland.

As Mrs. Blair she had had a place in London society, but her efforts to re-enter the charmed circle as Duchess of Sutherland did not meet with success, and she was still socially estracted when the duke for sale at Povinsky's drug stere. 28 East died, on Sept. 22, 1892.

died, on Sept. 22, 1892.

The marquis was duke, and the day of the second duchess was over. At the funeral of the late duke none of the family took any notice of her. The duchess was given barely time to pack up her things and quit Dunrobin castle. She went off to Tittensor House, in the neighborhood of Teaches withings and part of the metal of the second s hood of Trentham, which the late duke had desired her to regard as her own property.

But when the old duke died the turn of the stepson came. By order of the new duke admittance to Tittensor was refused to the duchess. Then came a legal contest for possession, in which the duchess was defeated. She was also ordered to deposit in court the Sutherland diamonds heirlooms, which she had placed with her

Then the new duke instituted formal occedings to contest the validity of his father's will. It was in the course of these proceedings that the dowager duchess was committed to jail. Early in April, 1863, in the court of probate, before Sir Francis. Jeune, the coursel for the present duke asked that a write of attachment should be issued against the downger duchess on the ground that, having obtained an order to Inspect certain papers, she had deliberately placed in the fire a document which, under the order, she was permitted to inspect. For this she was sentenced to six weeks in fall, and to pay a fine of $1,250. She served out her time, but was accorded every priv-lege while definited.

Sir Albert has political ambitions. He had a chance in the formation of the Sal-Isbary ministry to obtain a prominent, almost a cabinet post. But his chance goes with his marriage to the dowager duches. Though in some respects a most a estimable lady, she has not the eachet which is thought essential for position in the Salisbury set. If he makes his way upwards it will be inspite of his marriage.

Isn't it a pity that so many women go through life as nervous, fretful invaints always in a sich bed or on the verge of it. They are to be sincerely pitied for the great majority have in them the making of healthy, amiable, capable wives and mothers. These cases become sadder still when it is realized that the sufferings they endure are unnecessary. Any woman can be healthy and amiable and helpful if she will take care of the health of those delicate organs that are essentially feminine.

The greatest known medicine for women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all weakness and disease of the organs that make wifehood and motherhood possible. It aliays inflammation, so sheapain, and restores calm and strength to,the shattered nerves. It prepares for wifebood and maternity. Over 0,000 women have testified to its virtues. Druggists sell it.
