BOGART'S CASE HANGS FIRE

A Trial To-morrow Now Appears to be a Certainty.

THE ACCUSED'S LAWYERS ACTIVE

They Tried to Have the Case Taken Up the First For Trial, But For Some Unknown Reason the District Attorney Took Up Others.

SPECIAL TO EVENING HERALD.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 12th, 9 a. m.—The case of Superintendent C. D. Bogart, in which the citizens of Shenandoah are so greatly interested, and which attracts considerable attention here, was fixed for trial yesterday by agreement of counsel on both sides. It was delayed for some reason by the Commonwealth, and the indications at this writing are that it may not be called up before Thursday.

The defense, represented by Messrs. Marshall, Hunter and Patterson, of this city, and Schalk, of Pottsville, were ready for trial on the first day and requested District Attorney John Haymaker, to call the case the first one, but instead of doing so a murder case was brought up, and further delay was occasioned by following this up with a homicide case, thus taking 24 of the 60 jurors impaneled.

Attorney John Marson is representing the minority members of the School Board of Shenandoah, and will make an aggressive and determined fight. "Me-too" Smith is greatly in evidence, and appears to be the leading spirit and confidential adviser of the Commonwealth. Detectives are employed and are playing their vacation in the corridors of the court house and the hotels where those interested in the case are quartered. John Yates, father of the girl Clara Yates, who is supposed to have been assaulted, is shadowed continuously by "Me-too" Smith. When Bogart is in conversation with the friends of Prof. Bogart he is immediately called away on some pretext or other.

There may be some startling developments if the information received by the attorney for the defense, after further investigation, can be fully substantiated, which now seems certain. The nature of this information is withheld from the public at this time for obvious reasons, but will probably develop itself as the trial proceeds and, if true, will certainly implicate others besides those now accused.

Money is playing an important part in the case, so far as the prosecution is concerned. There is no disguising the fact that the people in charge of the prosecution have taken advantage of every opportunity, and left nothing undone that would be to their advantage. On the other hand, the friends of Prof. Bogart, both here and at Shenandoah, are as active as work. Especially is this true of the counsel. If he fails in establishing his innocence, it will not be their fault.

The influential and leading citizens of Knoxville, including the five members of the School Board of that place and Miss Norris, the principal, are here in the interest of Prof. Bogart, and from conversation with them it is plain that not one of them believes the superintendent guilty. They substantiate every statement, with more emphasis, made by Messrs. Price and Beddall in their report to the Shenandoah School Board after an investigation made here, and which has already been given to the public. The charges against Prof. Bogart are in two counts. The first is statutory rape and the second attempted assault with intent to rape. The prosecution will likely abandon the first charge, and the defense has no fear of the result as to the second.

STILL DELAYED.

SPECIAL TO EVENING HERALD.
PITTSBURG, Nov. 12, 3 p. m.—Superintendent Bogart's case will be called up for trial to-morrow morning, at 9:30 o'clock. There will be a full panel of jurors.

The trial of the case will probably occupy one day. Superintendent Bogart and his friends look upon the outlook as very bright. Prof. Bogart's lawyers have fought hard to get the case on trial as this week closes. The criminal court term and had the case drifted over until Friday or Saturday it would in all probability have gone over to the December term. It is believed that the prosecution desired this, but a trial to-morrow is now looked upon as a certainty.

MARK HANNA AT CANTON.

He Has a Long Conference with President-Elect McKinley.

CANTON, O., Nov. 12.—National Chairman M. A. Hanna arrived in Canton yesterday afternoon, in company with General William Ostrona, national secretary, who has been in Cleveland for several days. President-elect McKinley went to the depot in the family carriage to meet the visitors. They drove direct to the McKinley home, where lunch was delayed until after their arrival. The president-elect remained in conference from lunch until a o'clock with Chairman Hanna and Secretary Osborne.

When the trio came down stairs a reporter asked Chairman Hanna if a cabinet would be announced soon.

He simply said, "You must ask the major," and the newspaper man knew that no asking would get any information on which to base an authoritative opinion on that subject at this time.

As Mr. Hanna was walking to the carriage for the train he was asked if he expected Major and Mrs. McKinley to go to Thomasville, Ga., to sojourn with him at his winter home. He said he would be glad if they would do so, but again referred that subject to Mr. McKinley, who said he had heard nothing from Mr. Hanna on the matter. Mr. Hanna returned to Cleveland at 4:15.

Major McKinley and Mrs. McKinley took a drive during the morning in the family carriage, the president-elect handling the lines. The daily drives are doing a great deal towards bringing the tints of health back to Mrs. McKinley's face, and she returns from each of them strengthened and refreshed.

HOT REICHSTAG DEBATES.

Germany's War Minister Condone a Cowardly Murder.

EMPEROR HARSHLY CRITICIZED.

A Social Democratic Leader Declares in the German Reichstag That the Ruler's Recent Utterances Were Calculated to Strain the Allegiance of the People.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Yesterday's proceedings in the reichstag were of quite as much interest as those of Monday, and in many respects a great deal more exciting. The interpellation on the recent murder of Herr Sielemann at Carlsruhe by Lieutenant von Brusewitz and other military outrages and scandals, and also upon the question of dueling, was introduced in the presence of a full house and packed galleries.

The motion was offered by Herr Munkel, Richterite Radical, who in the course of his remarks referred to the concluding sentences of the emperor's address to the recruits last week. The words of the kaiser, Herr Munkel said, could have but one meaning, and that was that whoever insulted the king's coat insulted the king himself. The speaker was vociferously cheered by the Radicals when he declared that Lieutenant von Brusewitz was a criminal whose liberty endangered the safety of peaceful citizens.

Prince Hohenlohe replied by reading a declaration from the emperor ordering entirely new stipulations in regard to courts of honor, the effect of which was that the decisions of the courts must not necessarily involve a duel. The chancellor declined to discuss the matter of the emperor's proposition to pardon Lieutenant von Brusewitz and others who had been condemned by military and other tribunals.

General von Gossler, the new minister of war, followed in a lame speech. It was his first address in the reichstag, and he made an exceedingly unfavorable debut. The sentence imposed upon Lieutenant von Brusewitz by the military court, he said, had not yet been submitted to the kaiser for his sanction. He protested against the incitement of the public against the army by exploiting cases of cruelty on the part of officers towards soldiers and civilians. The house ought to recollect the instances in which officers had been insulted in the streets.

Herr Lenzmann, Radical, followed with a fiery speech, in which he defended the rights of civilians against the brutal and wanton assaults of officers.

Herr Lenzmann was followed by Dr. Bachem, Clerical, who spoke in a small strain. The speech of General von Gossler was then assailed in strong terms by Herr Bebel, one of the Social-Democratic leaders, who declared that it was an insult to the rights of civilians. Herr Bebel also criticized the emperor's recent utterances as bordering upon madness and calculated to strain the allegiance of the people. In the course of his speech Herr Bebel said that General von Gossler's remarks concerning the case of Lieutenant von Brusewitz might please the military circle, but they could not be called the remarks of a gentleman.

Herr Bebel said further: "How can it be said that whoever attacks the king's uniform thereby insults the king? In 1799 the king threatened with pain of death any military man who flouted a civilian. Things will at last come to such a pass that a uniform of the Cuirassiers Guard will be suspended like Gossler's hat, and the people will be required to make obeisance to the emperor's horse. It is vain to endeavor by a word from an august mouth to bring the people to such a state of fear and trembling that they will bow the knee in silence. Success is so impossible for views so diametrically opposed to everything that he is the greatest fool who is contently trying to make them prevail."

Tried to Rob Governor Hastings.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 12.—An attempt was made to burglarize Governor Hastings' mansion last evening. Mrs. Rankin, the mother of Mrs. Hastings, discovered a tramp trying to get in the front door, and pluckily drove him off, but not before she was viciously abused by the tramp, who repeatedly tried to pass her. The same tramp tried to break into the house in the afternoon, but was scared away.

Nelson Shaft Fire Still Burning.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Nov. 12.—The No. 10 vein counter gangway at Nelson shaft is still burning furiously. Workmen are now shutting this part of the mine from the other portions by a thick wall of bricks. This will allow the remainder of the colliery to renew operations within several days, and it is hoped that the shutting off of the air will smother the flames.

Borough Versus Railway.

SCHLANTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—As a result of the alleged neglect of the Scranton Traction company to repair the roadway a clash between the borough of Taylor and the railway company occurred yesterday. The borough officials blocked the street car tracks at the borough line, and prevented cars from going into the borough from Scranton. The tracks were obstructed before the first car entered in the morning. Later in the day the court granted an injunction, and the tracks were cleared.

WALDRON COMING

To Shenandoah Again—This Time With Fifty Head of Horses.

Waldron, the great Canadian horse shipper, will arrive at O'Hara's livery with fifty head of horses. They have made arrangements to accommodate him in the near future, so he can stable that number. Waldron's name is familiar with those who buy horses, and it is acknowledged by all that he conducts the nearest auction ever held in this section of the country, when he has a sale. Every horse goes, no matter what the bid is, and now that the people have confidence in his auctions they wait, for they all know that they can buy cheaper from him than from any one else. Some dealers will acknowledge that he sells horses cheaper than they can buy them in the West, and they say that he is gone broke doing it that way, he must have men out stealing them, etc. However, the title has never been questioned concerning a horse that he sold, and a man that stood in the stock exchange and bet ten thousand dollars on McKinley as he did, is not a man that is broke. The first time Waldron came to Shenandoah great opposition was put against him. He was made to pay a license, etc., and many other contemptible things to stop him were done. Of course this was expected, for the old saying is, "Big fish eat little ones." Waldron vowed that, owing to the dirty tricks done to him by certain people, he would make Shenandoah one of his principle auction markets, if it cost him all he was worth, and it seems as if he was carrying out his vow, and the purchasers are reaping the benefit. It would have been better for some had they left this dealer alone. Many are now waiting for his coming sale, which will be a big one.
