THE PENNSYLVANIANS WIN.

Cornell Defeated by a Score of Thirty-two to Ten.

AN INDOOR GAME OF FOOTBALL.

While Other Teams Flounder in the Rain and Mud Outside, the University of Chicago Defeats the University of Michigan in the Auditorium.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—Pennsylvania, 32; Cornell, 10. The Pennsylvania football eleven wound up the season of '96 yesterday afternoon by playing pretty much the same kind of a game as she has done all season—at times brilliant, while at other times it would have put to shame a lot of school boys. Cornell played a really brilliant game throughout. With the exception of Bassford, at quarter, their play was almost perfect, and had it not been for the fact that the team was so much lighter than the Red and Blue there would not have been thirty-two points scored against them.

There were very few attempts at tricks by either team. Cornell once used a trick, the first time that it has been seen on Penn's gridiron this season, and gained five yards. The Ithaca lads lined up, but no signals were given. Benham walked up slowly towards the center, ostensibly for the purpose of saying something to the quarterback, but in reality he grabbed the Penn's center before the Red and Blue players realized what was transpiring. The Cornelian and White also tried Princeton's famous turtle back play, but they lost ground each time by the experiment, the Red and Blue line holding like a stone wall. The interference of Cornell was always up to the standard, which partially accounts for the brilliant dashes by Benham and McKeever.

It was due almost entirely to the magnificent playing of Cornell's back field that both of their touchdowns were made. By steady plunges into the line and an occasional run around the ends McKeever, Ritchie and Benham got the ball over the Red and Blue goal line twice. These players seemed to be all over the field at the same time, and the playing of Lee and Taussegger on the ends was also brilliant. They got down under kicks remarkably fast and tackled like fiends.

On account of their light line their defensive play did not shine out so brilliantly as did their interference, but there were very few long gains around the ends by the men in the Pennsylvania's back field.

Except when the Red and Blue eleven were overtaken with that tired feeling they played the game they are capable of. That terrible battering ram like process was worked occasionally during the entire game, and Woodruff, Minds, Farrar, Uffenheimer and Wharton all went into the line head foremost, never failing to gain from one to ten yards. This sort of play was interspersed with an occasional revolving wedge, in which Uffenheimer was almost always used, and by some good end runs, in which Gelbert, Boyle, Dickson, Morise and Minis were the bright particular stars.

There was very little fumbling by either team, but some bad passing by the quarterbacks caused both teams to suffer considerably. The Red and Blue were penalized twice for offside play and once for holding, while the Cornell boys were set back five yards on three occasions for offside.

When Referee Mills, of Yale, blew his whistle for play it was estimated that there were 17,000 persons within the big field, and the beautiful red and blue and white colors everywhere in the huge stands made the sight a grand one.

The teams lined up as follows:

Pennsylvania Positions.	Cornell
Overfield.....center	Fennell
Wharton.....right guard	Clark
Farrar.....right tackle	Sweetland
Dickson.....right end	Taussegger
Weeks.....quarterback	Bassford
Morise.....right halfback	Benham
Minds.....fullback	Ritchie
Touchdowns, Gelbert, Minds, Uffenheimer (2), Woodruff, Boyle, Benham, Ritchie, goals, Woodruff (5), Ritchie (1); safety, Ritchie, Referee, Mills, of Yale. Umpire, Paul Dashiell, Referee, Lineman, Congdon, Dartmouth. Time, thirty-five minute halves.

Both the University of Pennsylvania and the Cornell football teams elected captains for next season's clovens. Jack Minds, the well known fullback of Pennsylvania, was unanimously agreed upon by the wearers of the red and blue, and William McKeever, Cornell's halfback, was elected captain of that team.

AN INDOOR FOOTBALL GAME.

Electric Lights Aid the Players and Add Novelty to the Occasion.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—In the big building in which five months ago W. J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency 15,000 cheering football enthusiasts saw the eleven of the University of Chicago defeat the strong eleven from the University of Michigan by a score of 7 to 6 in one of the most desperately contested games ever played in Chicago. To Herschlerger, Chicago's fullback, belongs the honor of winning the game. His punting was one of the features, and his goal from the field, kicked from the forty yard line, went cleanly between the goal posts. On the Michigan side Pingree, in the first half, was the "whole thing," the plucky little fellow seldom failing to make the required distance. He was, however, forced to retire in the second half, his place being taken by Ferbert, who was equally effective. Michigan made frequent use of the famous Princeton tackle and guard back plays, which were very effective.

One thing at least was settled by the game, and that is that indoor football is, literally and figuratively speaking, a howling success. The men had no trouble in catching punts, and football was played on its merits, without the handicaps of a wet field or a strong wind. Toward the end of the second half B. got very dark, and the spectators were treated to a novelly in the shape of football by electric light. The elements seemed all in favor of the game. The frequent squalls of rain made outdoor football almost a swimming match, and the strong south wind centered punting, one of the points of football which every one understands and appreciates, out of the question to the side which was unfortunate enough to be playing against the wind.

The scene was a brilliant one. On all sides of the field were the waving colors of the rival colleges, with here and there a sprinkling of the cardinal of Wisconsin, the blue of Yale, the red and white of Cornell and the yellow and black of Champaign. In the boxes along the side lines were many groups of gaily dressed women with their escorts. The "box parties," in fact, were not the least interesting feature of the game, replacing as they did to a certain extent the coaching parties.

The noise was simply terrific. Every mother's son and daughter seemed to be possessed of a tin horn and a determination to blow its mouthpiece through the bell. Class and college yells and songs of all kinds were started with or without provocation, and at times the play had to be stopped on account of the inability of the players to hear the signals.

The result decidedly complicates the situation as regards the western championship. Every team with the exception of Wisconsin has now suffered at least one defeat, and their tie with the Northwestern yesterday gives them but little ground for claiming the championship.

FLAG RAISING CEREMONIES HELD

An Impressive Event Under the Auspices of the Women's Relief Corps—Success of the Annunciation Literary Society's Supper and Entertainment and the Bazaar.

The observance of yesterday was not general on account of all the P. & R. collieries being kept in operation, still the town had a holiday appearance and all the attractions were well patronized. Many people went to Shamokin and witnessed the foot ball match between the team of that place and Ashland. About 3,000 people were in attendance. The interest ran high, as the game was the third to decide supremacy between the two teams. The first two games between them were hotly contested and neither side scored in either, so that yesterday's game was far blood. The Shamokinites were so confident of winning that they sent representatives to this town Wednesday night to look for bets. They did not win, however. Ashland got the game on a decision. The latter had the ball within three feet of the Shamokinites' line, when a dispute arose and the latter left the field, whereupon the umpire gave the game to Ashland by a score of 4 to 0.

Hundreds of people went to the Trotting park yesterday to witness the announced foot ball game between the Mahanoy City and Shenandoah teams, but were sorely disappointed, as the former team failed to put in an appearance. Manager Fahley says the Mahanoy City team is ungrateful.

An all-day attraction was the target shooting tournament on the mountain back of Baird's field, the prize being Robert Smith's black bear. A large crowd remained on the field until late in the afternoon and the contest was spirited. The shooting distance was forty yards and the match was won by Webster, son of Lewis Kleib, of North Main street, who took a ten-dollar gold piece in preference to the bear. The judges of the contest were M. G. Wurm, R. F. Beacher, Ellis Bevan and D. Davis. Mr. Smith will have another tournament during the Christmas season.

One of the leading attractions of last evening was the turkey supper and concert held under the auspices of the Annunciation Literary Society in its hall. It was a grand success. The following program was admirably rendered: Address, P. H. Burke; recitation, Miss Katie Sheehy; vocal duet, Misses Casavanagh and Coogan; recitation, Miss Nellie McGonigle; trio, Messrs. Mullahey, Lawson and Shoemaker; recitation, Miss Kitty O'Malley; vocal solo, Miss Mollie O'Hara; recitation, Miss Alice Farrell; section, Mandolin Club; recitation, James Crazig; quartette, Messrs. Devitt, Kaugh, Coary and Campbell; recitation, Mr. Salomon; vocal solo, Miss Katie Maley; recitation, Mr. Durkin; piano solo, Miss Nellie Toole; recitation, Mr. O'Brien; vocal solo, Miss Nellie Krug; recitation, Mr. Dunn; vocal solo, Mr. Jenkins; recitation, Mr. Mollet; piano solo, Miss Katie Connors; vocal solo, Mr. Cooney. Supper was served to about 200 people, and the evening was a most enjoyable one. The waiters and waitresses were dressed in white.

Another brilliant evening attraction was the Bazaar R. H. and turkey supper at Robbins' hall. The attendance was large and a most enjoyable evening was afforded the patrons. The success with which the bazaar and R. H. has met has led the management to decide upon a continuance and it will be open this and to-morrow evening. A new program of auxiliary attractions is given nightly.

A pleasing event of the afternoon was the flag raising at the new White street school building under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps No. 59, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic. It was well attended and the exercises were of a very impressive character. Members of Watkin Waters Post No. 146, G. A. R., Ladies' Aid Society and Camp No. 49, Sons of Veterans, were in attendance and Mr. Joel Leddon presided. The audience assembled in and about the school building and on the street, and the exercises were held at the front entrance to the building. The flag was raised on a high pole erected at the northeast corner of the property. The exercises opened with singing by Prof. John Knight and party, of Wm. Penn, and Rev. Robert O'Boyle followed with an address on Thanksgiving. After singing by the choir Rev. Alfred Heclmer formally presented the flag to the School Board and in doing so made a stirring patriotic address on the significance of the national colors and flag raisings and the duty of the rising generation from a patriotic standpoint. The flag was accepted by Superintendent C. D. Bogart, who spoke briefly, but with patriotic fervor and closed by proposing and leading three cheers for the colors. Singing by the choir and prayer by Rev. I. J. Rette closed the exercises.

"Miss Philadelphia."

When "Miss Philadelphia" was produced as a venture on the tall end of last season in the Quaker city, there was much speculation as to the length of its career, yet on the very first night it caught the popular fancy with its light frivolities, pretty music and really clever dialogue. In fact, it was the one big hit of all last season in that city, and for one hundred nights crowded the theatre at every performance. Now it comes to our town, fresh from another triumph in that city, and with all Baltimore and Washington, where it played to phenomenal receipts, singing its praises. It is the joint work of Edgar Smith, who wrote the book, and Herman Perlet who composed the music. These two gentlemen have done much in this line before, but in "Miss Philadelphia" are said to have struck their happiest vein. The music has a swing and stir to it that is sure to impress one, and make it popular in the street, while the lines of the piece are said to be really bright, clean and witty, with popular sentiment intermingled with comedy to sustain popular interest. "Miss Philadelphia" will be presented in Shenandoah on Wednesday, Dec. 2.
