THE SHAKERS DO THEIR DUTY.

"If a man discovers a valuable medicine," said Horaco Greeley, "it is his duty to advertise it " Yes, and at once; for suffering demands the speedicst relief possible. But let the man first be sure. Suffering had better wait than be deluded by false hopes. Medicine, like surgery, must often seem cruel in order to be really kind. On this principle the Shakers, of Mt. Lebanon, N. V., withheld theff great indigestion and dyspepsia remedy from the public for several years. With them right-doing is everything-money comparatively nothing. Hence the popularity and success of whatever they offer for sale. Having satisfied themselves of the merit of their medicine by employing it in the worst cases of digestive disorders in their own vicinity for years, they did their duty-they advertised it, under the name of the Shaker Digestive Cordial. In all cases where there is distress after eating, pain in the stomach, chest and back; aversion to food with the resulting symptoms, such as headache, furred tengue, cructation of gas, with weakness and loss of fish, etc., the Cordial has a most happy effect. Being itself a digested food with power to digest other foods, it relieves the weak and possibly inflamed stomach of the labor it is in no condition to perform, gives new strength to the body and presently restores to the digestive organs their normal vigor. Taken immediately after eating this remedy insures the digestion of the meal and prevents the fermentation of the food, which is the source of most of the afflicted symptoms which accompany dyspepsia. It is also as agreeable to the taste as it is potent as a medicine.

To show their own confidence in it, and to hasten 'its universal adoption, the Shakers authorize druggists to sell trial bottles at the

BARRICADED IN THEIR CELLAR.

The Murderer and His Insane Mother and Brother Figally Captured by a Posse, Who Cut a Role Through the Floor to the Collar.

VINELAND, N. J., Doc. 15. - Yesterday ATTRICAND, N. J., Dec. In.—Yesterday afternoon a crowd of armed men battered down the door of the home of Luigi Jorio, cut through to the cellar, and after a terrific struggle captured Antonio Jorio, who had brutally murdered his father. In the cellar with the murderer were his mother and brother, all insane with religious frenzy.

Until recently the Jorio family were liv-ing happily, but the death of a younger son seemed to turn the minds of them all. son seemed to turn the minds of them all.
Since that time they have been exhibiting religious freuzy constantly and in all places, and a few weeks ago two of the sons, one of whom was Antonio, were arrested and sont to jail. They were discharged a day or two ago, and the father.
Laigi Jorio, incurred the whath of Antonio by refusive any longer to include in nio by refusing any longer to indulge in the insamp and bolsterous religious ser-vices in which the family had been indulg ing for months past.

Antonio, in his insane rage, yesterday Antonio, in his tinsane rage, yesteruay afternoon seized a club and attacked his father. He dealt the old man a terrific blow on the head, and when his father had fallen he planted his foot on his chest and pounded his head into a shapelest mass. Crowds of people saw the murder, but none dared interfere to save the man's life. Finally two of the spectators secured guns, and at the sight of these Antonic fied to his home.

posse was formed, and a crowd of fully armed men surrounded the house But the place had been barricaded, and it was necessary before an entrance could be effected to batter in the door. The Joric family were heard shricking and praying in the sellar, the trap door of which had been fastened down from below. Then been instened down from below. Then axes were secured and a large section of the floor cut away. Half a dozen men, prepared for any emergency, dropped down into the dark hole where the crazy Italians had taken their stand, and after a terrific struggle managed to bind the murderer, Antonio, down with ropes. He was then heisted up and carried off to jail, along with his insane mother and brother.

Sasta Clause Causes an Altoona Fire.
ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 15.—Valuable property in the heart of the business section of this city was destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of £100,000. A boy playing Santa Claus in one of the windows of F. M. Morrow's dry goods store, at the corner of Eleventh avenue and Twelfth street, dropped a lamp, and in trying to extinuish it set fire to some cotton about his guish it set fire to some cotton about his neck. He pulled the cotton garment hastily off and throw it down upon some decorations in the window. Instantly the window was ablaze and a few minutes later the fire was sweeping through the store, driving the clerks out. The fire spread to several adjoining buildings before it was subdued, and eight merchants

Wanamaker as a Free Trader.

From Taggarts' Times (Philad-iolius).
In adopting resolutions opposing the election of John Wanamaker to the United States senate—resolutions not one word of which was permitted to find its way into the columns of any Philadelphia daily newspaper—the United Mine Workers of America, representing 142,000 man, undoubtedly expressed the sentiment of much the larger portion of the commumuch the larger portion of the community. There can be no question that Wan-maker's candidacy is regarded with disfavor by an overwhelming majority of his fellow citizens, and especially by the nard working men and women who form the most considerable and the most valuable element of this or any other civilized society. In view of all that John Wanamaker is, and all that he stands for, of the meshods whereby his prominence has been achieved, and of the mesh that are being achieved, and of the means that are being employed to promote the attainment of his ambition, how could it be otherwise!

If Wanamaker were a poor man, if he were no more liberally endowed with this world's goods than his principal rival, no one supposes for a moment that his name would be seriously considered in connection with an office of so dignified and re-sponsible a character as that of United States sonator. He has none of the qualifications of a statesman, neither the abilnor the breadth of view, nor the liberality of spirit. Until at the instance of Mr. Quay and as a reward for his substantial services as a money raiser during the cam-paign he was made postmaster general in Benjamin Harrison's cabinet, he had never figured to any extent in public beyond his much bepuffed ministrations in Hethan's Sunday school; and the New York Sunday papers, all silent now under the se-ductive influence of Wanamaker advertising, greeted his appointment to a cabinet position with shouts of derisive and protesting commont. In this senatorial fight it is nothing but his wealth that gives Wanamaker any standing, and that ofroumstance alone is sufficient to justify the opposition of those who object to the influence of money bags in politics and who think that the United States senate s altogether too much of a millionaires club siready.

But the manner in which Wanamaker's wealth has been acquired tells even more heavily against him than the sufficiently damning fact that such wealth constitutes the sole foundation of his candidacy. Wanamaker's wealth represents three things to which the working people of Philadelphia, of Pennsylvania and of the United States are with good reason most bitterly and irreconcilably opposed. It represents free trade; it represents cheap labor; and it represents that concentration of capital for the stamping out of competi-tion which is one of the worst abuses of the day. Of course Wanamaker would deny that he is a free trader, but his busi-ness interests are such that he cannot help leaning toward free trade or a tariff for revenue only, which is practically the same thing, and away from the affective protection championed by the Republican party and represented by President-elect McKinley. Wanamaker is an importer of foreign goods, of goods that are sold in competition with those of home production, and he wants to get his imported wares through the custom house as cheaply as possible. Indeed, he has had frequent suits in which he has contested the claims of the government on account of import duties, and some times with good success. He could not consistently stand upon the St. Louis platform. His record and the

Then as to cheap labor. Wanamaker gets the last cent's worth out of his working people, and, when he cannot satisfy himself, he endeavors to import cheap contract labor from abroad. As the mine workers mention in their resolutions, he or his firm—it is immaterial which—was convicted April 29, 1836, of an offense against the contract labor law of the United States, and fined El,009 penalty of account of it. The klos of sending to the United States senate such a man is an affront to all working people.

The pitiable attitude of the daily newspapers, both of Philadelphia and New York, where by a striking coincidence he has lately extended his operations, furnishes another strong argument against his election. It is unsafe to place in high public office any man whom the newspapers are afraid to criticise. Wanamaker's control of the saily press alone suffices to make his candidacy a public peril.

DON CARLOS TO RETIRE.

Spanish Pretender Will Abdicate in Favor of His Son,

AN OFFICER IN RUSSIA'S ARMY.

The New Claimant to the Throne of Spain Is Described as a Youth of Adventurous and Ambitious Disposition, Who Hopes for Russian Support. Manuin, Dec. 15 .- A dispatch to The Imparcials from Rome says that Don Car-les, the pretender to the throne of Spain, intends to abdicate his claim in favor of his son. Don Jaime. The present Don Carlos is the grandson

The present Don Carlos is the grandson of the original pretender to the Spanish throne, also named Don Carlos, and is called by the Spanish legitimists Charles VII of Spain. His grandfather was a brother of King Fordinand VII of Spain. King Fordinand was without male issue, and, annulling the Salie law of the country, he named his oldest daughter, is abella, as his successor importing the Isabella, as his successor, ignoring the claims of his brother Carlos. The latter raised the standard of revolt in Spain, but was defeated. In 1845 he re-nounced his claim in favor of his eldest sou, known as Carlos VI. The latter was succeeded in his pretensions upon his death in 1861 by his brother, Don Joan, and in 1860 Don Juan renounced his claims in favor of his only son, the present Don Carlos, who, it is now announced, pro-poses to abdicate in favor of his citlest son. Don Carlos is said to have displayed a waning enthusham during the last few years over the claims put forth in his be-balf to the throne of Spain. He is called indolent, and since the last Carlist war he has come into a fortune estimated at be-tween $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 upon the death of his first wife, who was Margue rite of Bourbon, daughter of Charles III. Duke of Parma. A campaign for the throne of Spain would necessarily involve the expenditure of a large amount of this money, and this would be discountenanced by the court of Austria, with which Don Carlos desires to stand well. The queen regent of Spain was an archduchess of Austria.

It is said also that Don Cartos' presen wife, to whom he was married in 1991 and who was Bertha, Princess of Rohan, would naturally discourage any effort to secure the throne of Spain, since, if he were to become king, the Castillian aristocracy would be likely to decline to pay her homage as queen, on the ground that she is not of royal birth.

Don Carlos is said to have been deeply afflicted by the elopement a few weeks ago of his second daughter, Princess Elvira, with a Boman artist, a married mannamed Folchi, and in a proclamation to named Folchi, and in a proclamation to his followers he discovered her.

In view of the present activity of the Carlists in Spain and Don Carlos' disincilnation to lend himself to the plans of his followers, his abdication of his claims in favor of his eldest son. Don Jaime, has been predicted. The latter is past 26 years old, and was educated in England and Austria. By express permission of the exar he is serving as an officer in a Russian cavalry regiment, and is said to have sian cavalry regiment, and is said to have hopes of Russian support for his preten-sions to the throne of Spain. He is described as a youth of an adventurous and ambitious disposition.
