States, in national convention assembled, according to custom adopted a platform which received the sanction of nearly two thirds of a very large proportion of the Democrats of the nation. That convention had a right to define Democracy in a party sense, and we have a right to desince that sense, and we have a right to desince that those who indersed that platform are Democrats and that these who rafined to support the platform are not Democrats. It is strange that there should be any con-test over this point. It is strange that those who searced for their condition less than 1 per cent of the popular vote of the United States should insist that they are cutited to be called the real Democrats and then uses their claim to respectabiland then ugge their claim to respectabil ity in numbers on the ground that the majority of them voted for the lippublican candidates. If a minority has a right to give a party definition of Democracy

"In my opinion there should be no som-promise of the issues involved in the late campaign and no terms short of absolute der offered these who have deserted us. If any Democrat becomes convinced that the gold standard is necessary or be-comes a defender of trusts, he can leave the party and join the bolting Democrats or the Republicans. If any bolting Demoor the hopking and is will-ing to inderse the Chleago platform and labor with these who seek to carry it into effect, we will welcome such a Democrat back into the fold.

"We are engaged now in just such a contest as that through which Andrew Jackson passed, and we do well on this occasion to take encouragement from his devotion to the cause of the people. He gained his greatest victory in his fight against the national bank. We have the name light on hand today. The national bank is making to force a retirement of the greenbacks and then monopolize the isano of paper meney. "While the Republicans have not yet had an opportunity to write their policies upon the statute book we have proceeded far enough to discover that the mere an-nonncement of Republican success does nonneement of Republican success does not restore prosperity. If the advocates of free silver had won, overy bank and business failure would have been attribu-ted to their success and the gold standard papers would have been loud in their wailing. But the Republican organs, al-though compelled to chronicle an increas-ing number of business failures over the corresponding period of fast year, never connect those failures with Republican success. During the month of November, 1895, soven national banks failed and in the 1896, seven national banks failed, and in the month of December eight more closed their doors. I find upon examination of atatistics that December witnessed clos-ing of more national banks than were closed in any other month since Jan. 1, 1808, excepting the three months of the panie of that year. "The press dispatches state that the holiday trade in Gormany was a disappointment to the merchants. The fact that Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, has been sent abroad by the president-elect as an ambassador most extraordinary te bring Europe to bimetallism, is an evidence that the gold standard is still con-cealing its bleading from the American people. If the gold standard is the stand-ard of divilization, why should we risk a roturn to barbarism by chasing after in-ternational bimstalliam? If Senator Wal-cont succeade in attering un a silver acitacost succeeds in stirring up a silver agita-tion in England he will be accused of disturbing business and destroying confi-dence in that great center of financial con-fidence, London. If his errand proves a fruitless one, it will only give additional evidence that the United States must act
