The most interesting feature of the house program for the coming week, unless the Nienragus causal bill should receive consideration, which is rise of the recess complications seems entirely imprebable, will be the fight against conference report on the immigration bill. Mr. Bartholdt, of Missouri, who made an ineffectual abtempt to prevent the bill from going to conference, will lead the opposition in the end, as the sentiment in faver of an immigration bill in the house is, as shown by the votes on previous occasions, in astrong majority. Nevertheless Mr. Bartholdt proposes to do all in his power to defeat the conference report. Two appropriation bills, the agriculture and Indian, will probably consume the remainder of the week. There are some features of both bills which may cause considerable debate. Such time as can be spared will be given to the committees to call up such bills as have been reported by thom.
