one was auxious to hear how she impremed to do it, for she is a lovely woman of the womanly type, and the last one in the world to ever ask a man to marry her. Then, too, she was a helle and had hosts of admirers, many of whom would have been glad to have won her. "Why, I don't know how it happened You see, Jack had been attentive to me

You see, Jock had been attentive to me for years, and svery little while would tell me how much be borot me and ask me if I could tare for him. I put him off, and then, after two or three years, he began to begiet telling me of his love. In the meanwhile I learned to love him and tried in every way to make him speak, his when he called, he mover wanted to see me alone, and always tried to have some of the family about. When we were alone, by was movely and alont, and he amount of sweetness on my part would bring him.

for was morely and allent, and no amount of sweethers on my part would bring him to another arrowal.

"At least he called and said that he was going to Washington, that there was no use of his staying out west. There were no ties to hold him, and no une for whom he especially eared. I used my best endeavors to dissuade him and hinted in every way possible that he might expect a favorable answer if he would ask me to marry him. Jack said good night to the marry him. Jack said good alght to the people, and I went to the door with him. We stood at the entrance some time, and I tried so hard to bring him out, but no use. He spoke of no one caring for him, and all that surt of thing. Finally we shook hands, and he left. I saw him walk down the yard, and us he reached the gate I called to him to come back. I had seen him leave me forever in that minute and sould not stand it. When he came up the steps, I said. Jack, I care for you a great deal. The rest naturally followed, and we were married in the spring?"—Wash-

March 17. Chicago, Jan. 30.—A private disputch received from Dan Stnart by L. M. Housman says that he will today notify the principals in the Cortest-Fitzstmmons fight to be prepared to fight in the state of Novada on March 17. Stuart says that he is not prepared at the present time to name the exact location of the fight, but in the course of the next ten or fifteen days he will amounce the town where the days he will announce the town where the event is to be pulled off.

James Corbett, when informed that the glove bill had passed both houses of the Nevada legislature has night, said: "So the fight is a sure thing for Nevada, i. it? the fight is a sure thing for Nevada, i. 167 Well, its a great thing to have it under the logal samtion, but it might as well be pulled right here in Chicago as far as moral considerations are concerned. Nevada suffs me perfectly for a fighting place. It may be a little cold there, and I was counting on a fight down south, where it is warmer. However, it is all out to ma."
