Several Shots Fired, But no Hallet Took

John J. Creary, the Main street watchman, heard three shots between 3 and 4 o'clock this magning when he was standing at the corner of Main and Centre streets. The Borough Council Declines to Accept the statement of the stateme report came from the neighborhood in which Creary's mother resides and he instead in Creary's mother resides and he hastened in that direction. Upon reaching the Hotel Francy he learned that Manager Stempson had fired the shots at some men who had forced the lock from the refrigerator that stands in the yard at the rear of the hotel. While he was making an investigation, one Jehn Cooney, be allegue, came up from the rear antrance to Austin Ganghan's saloun, which is in the basement of the hotel, and addressed abusive language to the watchman. There was an encounter, during which Creary knocked encounter, during which Creary knocked Coogan down with his club. Creary mys he was about to go for aid, in expectation of an attack from friends of Cooney, when the latter and three friends assaulted him. They tore his club from his hand, the strap cutting and bruising his wrist. Creary fired eight shots and dispensed the crowd. He fired all the shots to the pavement, not wish-ing to main any of his assilants.
