The King's Portrait.

A pretty trait is recorded of King George of Greece. At home as on his travels he likes to wander abroad incognito, without attendance, and so unpresentiously dressed that he escapes recognition. At one time he was taking one of his long selliary walks when his attention was attracted by a couple coming along the coal land in hand, evidently a young workman and his sweetheart. Under protext of naking his way, he entered into conversation with way, he entired into conversation with them, and was told that they were concept and hoped by Christmas to have earned enough to get married.
