A COMPACT FORMED.

Senators Loech and Coyle Against the County Commissioners.

News comes by way of Harrisburg to the effect that Schuykill county's two Senators have pooled their grievances in an effort to strike at the present board of County Commissioners. It appears that the latter, in making their appointments this year, committed the unpardonable sin of not consulting with the two legislative dignitaries above mentioned, and hence Senators Loech and Coyle have determined to set their present positions to strike at Messrs. Bents and Meyers.

Senator Coyle has introduced a bill that provides for the election of County Solicitor by the people, thus taking the appointing power from the County Commissioners. The bill further provides that the Governor shall immediately upon the passage of this bill, appoint a County Solicitor to serve until January, 1898, when the people shall elect a person for that position.

Simultaneously with the introduction of the Coyle measure, Senator Loech presented a bill which takes the appointment of the warden and all other county prison officials out of the hands of the Commissioners and places the authority with the county court, the political complexion of which at present is Democratic.

It is an open secret that neither Senator Coyle, nor Senator Loech, were pleased with the "bill" appointments, many of their friends being turned down and they themselves were not consulted as to who should secure these plum—a grievous wrong in the eyes of these two politicians. It is said the bills are not popular with the powers that be at Harrisburg, and that the chances for their final passage is anything but encouraging to the Senatorial combine.

The fact that the two Senators have always been at daggers' points politically, causes many to doubt the sincerity of either. In fact, it is now said that Senator Coyle has broken faith with his new love, and will do all he can to defeat both bills if the County Commissioners will make a place in their office for a man the Senator would name. This offer, however, has been refused.

The outcome of the compact is being watched with a great deal of interest by Schuykill politicians, and the result will have considerable to do with the future course of many of the local statesmen.

Obituary.

Information has been received by relatives of the death of Mrs. Ann, widow of the late William Bradbury, at one time a prominent mine foreman in this county, which occurred at Hooper, Dodge county, Nebraska, on Wednesday morning last, aged 78 years. She was well known in this county prior to her removal to the West, which occurred several years ago. She is survived by three sons and three daughters, namely, Nelson, William and James, of Hooper, Neb.; Lizzie, wife of Thomas, and Mary Ann, wife of James Bruce, respectively, and Emma J., wife of Robert Bennie, all of Grandville. The oldest daughter, Sarah, now deceased, was the wife of Capt. Geo. W. Johnson, of town. Talked About What a Remarkable Good Business.

It is being talked about what a remarkable good business the famous, corner Centre and Main streets, are doing for us this year. You might ask yourself, why is it? Well, it is simply because they are giving the public the benefit of the hard times, and are selling men's, boys' and children's clothing at prices that naturally are being appreciated by the inhabitants of Shenandoah and vicinity. This firm can sell a man's suit for $2.00, $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00, that cannot be purchased in any other store in the county for less than double the money. THE FAMOUS want your trade and to get it they offer all buyers inducement enough. We guarantee that no matter how particular the person he can be suited in both quality and price, so we recommend you to call on them. You can save big money in buying from the FAMOUS. A Young Man's Threats.

Edward Hughes, a young man of town, was before Justice Cardin this morning charged by Miss Margaret Reese, of Turkey Run, with surety of the peace and carrying concealed deadly weapons. The complainant swore that Hughes said he would shoot her if she kept company with any young man other than himself. He also threatened to shoot the young man who is going with Hughes. Hughes denied the charge and gave bail for trial at court.

THE TOMALONIS INQUEST BEGUN.

Several Witnesses Tell Contradictory Stories to the Jury.

ONE WITNESS HAS DISAPPEARED.

The Widow of the Victim Refuses to Appear Before the Deputy Coroner—The Investigation Has Been Continued to Secure More Witnesses.

Deputy Coroner Manley and a jury last night opened the investigation into the case of the injuries from which Thomas Tomalonis died at the Miners' hospital. The jury selected for the purpose is composed of John Scanlan, Joseph H. Manley, James J. Powell, Patrick Gomers, P. J. Flaherty, John J. Reedy.

Deputy District Attorney M. P. McLaughlin was present and conducted the examination of the witnesses before the jury. Martin Moore, the court stenographer, took the testimony for the Commonwealth. William Snyder and Matt. Karapowitz, who are charged with having beaten the deceased and inflicting the injuries from which he died, did not appear at the inquest. The most striking development at the inquest was an apparent determination to shield the assailants of the deceased, whoever they may be. More than one of the witnesses told contradictory stories before the jury, and some of them testified with frankness. The evidence also showed that a very important witness has disappeared. Constable Matt. Gibson and special officer Anthony Alex were sent after the widow of the deceased, but she refused to go to the coroner's office, or elsewhere. She has evidently decided to drop the case, which is directly in contrast with her disposition when the warrants were first issued for the arrest of Snyder and Karapowitz.

The first witness at the inquest was Dr. W. N. Stein. He testified that between 11 and 12 o'clock on the night of Saturday, Dec. 19th, 1896, Thomas Tomalonis called at his office. The doctor examined his head carefully and found two scalp wounds. The man was covered with blood. The wounds appeared to have been made with a stone. The man's hat was not brought and there were marks of red dirt on it. The doctor did not detect any fracture of the skull at the time. Tomalonis was sent to the Miners' hospital on the doctor's recommendation because he developed symptoms of epilepsy. The doctor testified that the wounds he found on the man's head were of a peculiar nature and that he had seen such wounds caused by death. The doctor said Chief Burgess Durst took the man home. Tomalonis was able to walk home, but had to be led.

William Baskawicz, of 236 East Centre street, was called and testified that he was a relative of Tomalonis and saw him in Joe Vinakulis house on Sunday, Dec. 20th, the day after the assault. Tomalonis did not say who attacked him, but Victor Washefski said that William Snyder assaulted Tomalonis. Victor said that Tomalonis came in Snyder's saloon and called for a drink and didn't pay for it. Snyder and Tomalonis and Matt. Karapowitz hit Tomalonis with a stove raker.

Victor Washefski was called and directly contradicted the last witness. He said he went to Mahanoy City at 7 o'clock on the night of December 19th. He did not tell William Snyder and Matt. Karapowitz that Tomalonis, but Baskawicz told him that.

Baskawicz again took the stand and swore that in conversation somebody said that Tomalonis was beaten by a woman. Victor Washefski said, "It was so" and added in a hazy way that Snyder and Karapowitz were the former's saloon and as the man was going out the door Matt. Karapowitz struck him over the head with a stove raker. William Molouowsky was the most important witness at the inquest. He testified, "On the night of December 19th I was in Snyder's saloon, at about nine o'clock. I was there about ten minutes and found Tomalonis there. He was a little drunk myself. They commenced quarreling about 25 cents. Snyder came from behind the bar and caught hold of Tomalonis by the coat collar and arm and raised him up. Tomalonis stood at the door and went behind the bar and they were drinking again. Afterwards we went out. I don't know Matt. Karapowitz. There were about eight men in the place."

Q. What was the trouble about the 25 cents? A. On account that Tomalonis didn't want to pay for the drinks. Snyder didn't put him out. He only pushed him by the door and left him there. Nobody helped him that I saw. I didn't see anybody hit Tomalonis on the head and I didn't see Tomalonis bleeding. I didn't see anybody throw anything at him. Tomalonis stood at the door a little while and then went out. I have a brother named John. I don't know where he is. He went away some place over a week ago. I didn't know he was going away. I know he has gone because he is not at his house. He was in Snyder's saloon on the night of the fight.

The witness explained his uncertainty about the proceedings during the fight in the saloon, by a statement that he was pretty drunk himself.

Michael Lemotowicz, an East Centre street saloonkeeper, was called and swore that he was not in Snyder's saloon, nor did he see Tomalonis at any time on Dec. 19th. He was at Tomalonis' house after and Tomalonis said that Matt. Karapowitz had hit him with a poker or something. He didn't mention Snyder's name.

William Sadowsky, the special officer who was called and testified: "I saw Tomalonis on the night of Dec. 19th, between 9 and 10 o'clock. I met him at the corner of Main and Centre streets. He was covered with blood. I asked him what was the matter. He said he wanted to see a doctor. I took him to Dr. Stein's. He didn't tell me who hit him, but said it was Snyder's. I heard talk about the case after. Michael Lemotowicz, the saloonkeeper, told me that he saw Tomalonis was thrown out of the saloon and he saw Abrahamitz leave Tomalonis down in the gutter and kick him."

Lemotowicz was again called to the stand. In his previous testimony he had sworn that he did not see Tomalonis that night.

Q. Did you see Abrahamitz beating Tomalonis?

A. No sir.

Q. Did you say so to William Sadowsky?

A. Some people were standing at Snyder's saloon door and made an alarm that somebody was fighting at Snyder's saloon. I went from behind my bar and went to the pavement. I stood there and saw them piling at the door. There was a big crowd there. Maybe fifty people. I saw Snyder and other people there. I couldn't tell their names. I didn't see Abrahamitz there. I didn't see Matt. Karapowitz there, I saw TOMALONIS THERE. They were pushing him out of the door. He didn't fall when he got out of the door. I couldn't see. My saloon is nearly a square away.

Q. How is it you could recognize Tomalonis and couldn't recognize the others who were pushing him out?

A. It was too far away. I know Tomalonis for a long time. He was a big fellow.

Q. Did you watch Tomalonis after he came out of the door?

A. No, I didn't; when I saw the fight I went back into the house.

Q. Why didn't you tell us a while ago what you saw?

A. Because you didn't ask me.

Q. What made you tell Sadowsky you saw Abrahamitz beat Tomalonis in the gutter?

A. I didn't.

Q. Have you seen Snyder since that fight occurred?

A. I saw him ten times after that, or more, but we didn't talk about the fight.

The Miners' hospital physicians who made the post-mortem examination of the victim were unable to present last night. Another session of the inquest will be held upon the call of the Deputy Coroner when the doctors and other witnesses will be examined.

William Snyder, one of the men concerned in the post-mortem examination of the victim's office at Pottsville yesterday and his bail rose increased from $1,000 to $3,000, Karapowitz's bail remains at $1,000. Snyder's father-in-law, Anton Tabak, is on Karapowitz's bond.

TO REAPPORTION PENNSYLVANIA. A Bill to Aways with the Congressmen-at-Large.

Harrisburg, Feb. 25.—In the senate yesterday Mr. Vaughn reported from the committee on congressional reapportionment a bill to reapportion the congressional district of this state. The bill apportions the state into 30 districts, doing away with the two offices of congressmen-at-large. By the provisions of the bill Philadelphia and Allegheny each gains a congressman.

Mr. Sprout introduced a bill to make a reduction of 40 per cent, more or less, in the Philadelphia telephone service charges, and to establish the maximum charges of the whole state. It makes the maximum charges, within a radius of two miles from the exchange, 35 a month in all cities with a population of 100,000, and $4 in all other cities, towns and villages. An additional charge of $1 per month for each mile beyond the two mile limit is allowed, and where two telephones are subscribed for by one person the maximum within the two mile radius are to be $5 and $2.50, according to which side of the 100,000 line the population is on. The penalty for violation of the act is a fine of $500.

In the House the bill repealing the local option law in the borough of Verona was killed by a vote of 86 to 74, less than a constitutional majority voting. The same fate befell the bill repealing the prohibitory law in Fayette county.

Both houses adjourned until Monday evening.

To be sued for libeling officials. Harrisburg, Feb. 25.—District Attorney Graham, of Philadelphia, came to Harrisburg last night to confer with state officials on the sensational corruption and malfeasance charges made against them in the last issue of the Pennsylvania Methodist. It has been decided to prosecute the editor, Dr. E. C. Swallow, of Harrisburg, for libel. Dr. Swallow was recently summoned before the house and senate building and grounds committee to explain his charges that the burning of the capitol was not accidental. He explained that much of his information was given in confidence and he was not at liberty to make it public at this time. He has been subpoenaed to appear before the committee next Tuesday morning. If he then refuses to answer certain questions he will probably be arrested for contempt.

TESTIMONY OF COAL BARONS.

Before New York's Trust Investigating Committee.

WOFUL DISPLAY OF IGNORANCE!

Men Who Are Powers in the Coal Business Declare That They Do Not Know the Present Price—The Committee Concludes Talking of Testimony.

New York, Feb. 25.—The alleged coal combine was the special object of inquiry yesterday by the joint legislative committee on trusts. President Sam Sloan, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, was the first witness called. In reply to a question by Senator Lexow, Mr. Sloan said that a conference of coal road men was held in this city in 1896. The Philadelphia and Reading, Lehigh Valley, New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, the Pennsylvania, the New York, Lake Erie and Western, the New York, Ontario and Western, and other roads were represented at the meeting. Witness said that the conference lasted several hours, and that it was understood that every man in the conference had pledged his honor to maintain the allotments apportioned in the coal carrying trade.

Mr. Sloan could not remember the price of lump coal at that time. When asked what was the necessity for increasing the price of coal after Feb. 1, 1896, he responded: "Coal at that time was low in price. We thought we had the right to fix the price on our commodity."

President E. H. Thomas, of the Erie railroad, the next witness, declared that the restriction of output increases the demand for coal among the consumers, but asserted that the amount to be produced was never discussed at any meeting he attended. He did not know, he said, that the price of coal had been increased after the conference. In reply to the question "What is the price of coal now?" he responded: "I do not know, but I think a slight increase in price had been made in 1896 over the price charged in 1895."

P. H. Gibbons, treasurer of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, testified that the price of coal was higher by 40 cents a ton in 1896 than at the corresponding period of 1895. He too declared that he did not know the present price.

Edwin R. Holder, vice president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, testified that there were no stated meetings of coal agents. He declared that prior to the 1896 conference prices were ruinously low.

Richard H. Williams, general sales agent for the Erie railroad, testified that it was customary for sales agents to meet in conference and discuss the output for the succeeding month. He recalled three or four such conferences and admitted selling directly to retailers. Witness said that the September circular would show an increase of $1 a ton had been made within the year preceding the date of the conference of presidents held prior to Feb. 1, 1896.

The subject of combination in the coal trade was dropped temporarily while the committee listened to the testimony of Francis H. Evening, a wholesale grocer doing business at St. Louis, regarding his experiences with the sugar refinery. Mr. Evening said that he had refused to accept the factors' agreement in vogue by the American Sugar Refining company, and in consequence he could not procure that company's product without paying an extra charge. Witness said that the factors had to choose between selling the product of the American Sugar Refining company and foreign sugars. Foreign refiners sell at a lesser price than the American company because they are satisfied with a smaller margin of profit; owing to the cheapness of labor in Europe compared with that in America. Witness said he was comforted by a similar state of affairs with the coffee kings and the American Tobacco company. If there was a larger tariff put on foreign sugar his firm would have to go out of business or take the alternative and sign a factors' agreement.

Clinton W. Wisner, of Walden, N. Y., vice president of the Stevens Coal company, and Joseph H. Dickerson, sales agent of the New York, Ontario and Western railroad company, also testified. The latter declared that immediately after the conference of presidents it was found that bankruptcy was staring the company in the face, which necessitated the increase in the price of coal which followed. P. E. Heller, of the Lehigh Valley and Wilkesbarre Coal company, was the last witness.

With this witness the committee closed the taking of testimony for the present. The report should be ready to lay before the legislature on March 1, but after adjournment Chairman Lexow announced that he would ask for an extension until March 8.

INDECENT NEWSP. PERS. One of Them Publishes an Article Concerning Dr. Owe Course.

From Yesterday's Daily News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The President has delivered a most scathing criticism upon indecent newspaper publications in denying a pardon to James B. Wilson, sentenced in December, 1895, in Indiana, to two years' imprisonment, $500 fine and costs for mailing indecent papers. The President says: "Denied. This convict was one of the editors and proprietors and a distributor through the mails and otherwise of a disgracefully vile newspaper. His conviction and sentence was an event distinctly tending to the promotion of public morals and the protection of the souls and daughters of our land from filth and corruption at a time when indecent newspaper publications are so dangerous and common. Everybody in favor of cleanliness should encourage the punishment of such offenses and desire that it should be more frequently imposed. Within I am much surprised by the number of respectable people who have joined in urging clemency in the case, my duty seems so clear that I am not in the least tempted to interfere with the just and wholesome sentence of the court."
