Two of Tate's Stories. The late membership of Canterbury had many 200 stories to tell. Two are recalled by his private secretary.

Another of the archbishop's stories, also of a coachman, will be new to many. A gentleman living in the neighborhood of Arlington, finding that the stationer were not in the habit of attending church, spoke to his coachman about it.

"That's just what I say myself," he said. "I say to them: 'Look at me, I go. And what harm does it do me?'"

An Encomium Cheaply Won. "Boss," said the man, "give me 2 cents."

The man addressed reached in his pocket, and a smile appeared on the bigger's face.

"I'm afraid," said the man, feeling around among the coins in his pocket, "that I can't give you (the smile on the bigger's face disappeared), and a soldier took the place of 2 cents. I think I'll have to give you (the soldier took was now turned into a broad smile) 5."

"Boss," said the bigger, "you're a brick."—New York Sun.

Needles. Needles are all made by machinery. The piece of mechanism by which the needle is manufactured takes the rough steel wire, cuts it into proper lengths, files the point, flattens the head, pierces the eye, then sharpens the tiny instrument and gives it that polish familiar to the purchaser. There is also a machine by which needles are counted and placed in the papers in which they are sold, these being afterward folded by the press-machinery.

Goodwin and the Duke. One evening after the performance of Nat G. Goodwin's play at a restaurant for a late "bite." At the table adjoining the case where the actor sat with a couple of friends was a small group of first row youths. One of these young men had met Nat Goodwin somewhere for a minute. He wanted to show to his friends that he was acquainted with a real actor. Accordingly he brought up some complimentary to theatrical matters and made a statement which some other prominent citizen, Jr., disputed. "Well, now, I'll leave it to Goodwin," said the young man who had met Nat Goodwin—amateur, for a minute. So he turned around and called out another loudly: "Oh, Goodwin! I say, Goodwin, come over here a minute, will you?"

The actor was startled for a moment, and then he arose. He took hold of the back of his chair, and with all the artistic dignity at his command, he said, looking calmly at the young man, "Call me either Nat or Mr. Goodwin, if you please." Then he seated himself.—San Francisco Argonaut.
