We Abslished the Page.

For many years the Cincinnati Enquirer used to print a solid editorial page and employed an exclusive editorial stall of six writers, who wrote all their matter at night in order to keep abroast of the telegraphic news. One Fourth of July evening as they assembled to begin work somebody surgested a patriotic drink in honor of the occasion. They filed down to a restaurant near by, and, as they lined up at the bar, the door opened and Washington McLean, the in siding genius of the paper, came in-Mr. McLenn did not drink often, but northely winds, becoming variable, when he did he drank very hard. On this consider he was celebrating the Foorth. The result was that round after round of whisley was ordered, and nobody thought of the editorial page except one writer (who tells the story in the Chiengy Times-Harahl), who went linek to the editorial rooms and sat down the first sentence, "Yesterday was the Fourth of July." The next day, when write an editorial. He never got beyond the paper came out, on the editorial page there was just one line of cuitorial matter. At the top were the words, "Yesterday was the Fourth of July," and the rost of the page was filled with nows. The reading public believed that the change was intentional, and Mr. WILKINSON'S tory latters commending his enterprise in giving news preference over editorial that he abolished the editorial page permanontly.

The Vendish Tongue In Germany. Consul General de Kay writes for The Century a jupper on the Scrhum swamp Vendland under the title of "An Inland Venice," Mr. do Kay says: These people speak German to : ings as we poss Vendish to our boatman but the Vemissi is disappearing beening for the sale of the army, its traching h discouraged. Throughout all this dis triet, far over into Saxony, only a few churches still offer serinous in the old tongue. Yet if the Vendish tongue disappears the names of places will tell the tale, even as such names in Bran-douburg and Saxouy still do. Dresden, Leipsic, these are Vendish words—or call them Slavic, with the broader term that now means the race. And here-about are Cotthus, Vetschau, Muschen, Brahmow, Babaw, Dlugy, Raddush, Leipe, Lehde, Byhlegnhre, Straupitz and Lublion. And the diesses that wind or shoot straight in and out of forest and cleared fields retain Vendish names: Mutniga, Binshnitza, Rogazo, Zscha-pigk, Polenzo, Grobilitzo and Nabasutz Efforts have been made to give German names to many of them, but country people everywhere are great holders to precedent, and the people who stick se tightly to their old costume are not go ing to give up their place names without a struggle Catarra and Colds Relieved in 10 to 60
