proper parties of the powers yesterday is a destinite arrangement not the recist and the foreign admirals to establish an immediate blockade of the Cretan ports.

This arrangement is somewhat in the mattite of a concession to Russia and Prince. Russia, during the middle of last week, proposed, with Prance seconding the proposed, with Prance seconding the proposed, with Prance seconding the proposed, another joint note to Greece, instatting on the withdrawals of the troops instant of an immediate resort by the powers to force. Russia's aciden was impried, it is officially stated, by a certain sympathy for Greece, but so many objections were rateed by each power in turn to this suggestion that the other course has finally been agreed upon, it is thought that the atmplese way to carry out the threat made in the identical note will be the blockading of the Crean point and the landing of forces suifilined to insure the maintenance of order, teaching future aciden as to the fate of Crete to later negotiations. This was the view of Russia as Published in as official St. Petersburg Journal says: "We state the reasons which development as to the Crean points and the landing of forces suifilined to insure the maintenance of order, teaching future aciden as to the fate of Crete to later negotiations. Unfortunately they do not seem adequately recognized at Athena. Bu-manitarian motives actuated the powmantarian motives actuated the powers more than any other consideration, as has been shown by the action of the powers toward, the Hellenic government. While consenting to recall her ships, Greece persists that the co-operation of her troops is necessary to the pacification of the laland, after which pleblecite should decide the fate of Such an attitude is unsatisfactory to consuit the opinion of the Gresk government. They simply expressed to Athens in succinct terms the decision imposed by circumstances, there-unto it was for Greece to conform. In rafusing to heed this decision Greece gives clear proof that, under a pretext of assuring a condition of peace and order in Crete, she is really pursuing a much less disinterested object, name a much less districted to ject, name-ly, annexation by surprise

"The powers are too unanimously re-solved to maintain peace in the east to sanction such designs. They find themselves compelled, though much against their will, to have recourse to vigorous measures which they shrink from adopting in regard to Gresce. At the same time they will have in the resources at their disposal a sure means of pacifying Greece without the co-operation of the Greek troops. Is apt. to attack you at this sen-son of the year. The Greeks Still Pushing Operations as Though Preparing for War.

Athens, March 15 .- The reported reeall to London of the British consul. Sir Alfred Billotti, continues to be the subject of much comment in political circles. It is feared that his recall may be connected with a plan for the oc-cupation of Crete, which, in view of the refusal of certain powers to take part in such a move, might be restricted to Great Britain, and might be on that account the preluie to a much more pro-longed occupation.
