There have been strange alliances formed between the Republican leaders in this county since the election of McKinley—men who were bitter political enemics last year are now found in secret caucuses forming combinations.

This fact has caused many of the warm supporters of Senator Quay to put on their thinking caps. They went danger shead for the Beaver statesman in this county, so far as the state delegates are concerned. The Wanamaker people have decided to make a strong effort to secure the delegates from each district, and will select strong candidates from their ranks. Herein lies the danger to the success of the Quay cause. Some of these announced as caudidates op-posed to Wamamaker are holding highsalaried positions and have been continually before the people for several years seeking some office. The Republican voters have become disgusted with this state of affairs, and although the districts are strong Quay lo-calities, they will turn these men down as a chuke to their gread, and if necessary, wot for the opposing caudidates, whether they are friendly to the Wamanaker people or not. Those who are real friends of Senator Quay, if they have not already done so, should advise him of the true state of affairs. If this is not done the Schuylkill delegation in
