A MID-DAY BLAZE.
Flames in a Hat and Cap Factory Cause Excitement.
At about one o'clock this afternoon fire was discovered on the third floor of Robbins' row, on North White street, occupied by the Progress Hat and Cap Manufacturing Company. The fire companies responded promptly and lost little time in getting to work. The flames seemed to rage between the ceiling of the top floor and the rafters of the roof. The Rescue and Phoenix fire companies set to work at the front of the buildings, on White street, while the Columbus ran a line of hose from Plum alley to the rear, attacking the flames at the northeast corner of the row, where the fire seemed to pass the firemen's hands. The fire companies made a gallant fight for about half an hour and succeeded in confining the flames to the factory and extinguishing them, in spite of the fact that the place was almost packed with inflammable material.
The fire is supposed to have originated at a chimney in the office of the factory at the northeast corner of the building. Nicholas Erieland, one of the Progress company, said that no one was in the place during the noon hour. When Max Gilleston, a workman, returned to the factory he found it a blaze. Mr. Erieland said nearly $5,000 worth of machinery and manufactured and unmanufactured goods were damaged by fire and water, with insurance.
Four families residing under the factory suffered considerable loss by damage to household effects by water.
The building is owned by J. M. Robbins and probably damaged to the extent of $500 to $800. A great deal of the plastering in the place was ruined by water.

THE ELECTION WAS ILLEGAL.

The Supreme Court Renders Decisions Against the Borough Justices.
WRITS OF DUSTER WILL FOLLOW
Application for the Writs Will be Made Next Monday—Uncertainty as to Whether Commission Will be Issued to Those Elected Last February.

The Supreme Court at Philadelphia yesterday handed down a decision declaring that the elections of Borough Justices as made in Shenandoah and Mahanoy City in the spring of 1896 were illegal, which will require Messrs. Coyne and Jones, of the latter place, an attorney and a writ, in this place, to defend the positions they have claimed under the said elections and commissions for five years issued under the returns of Governor Hastings.

OPINION OF THE COURT.
Chief Justice Sterrett read the opinion in the case of Martin J. Lawlor, of Shenandoah. In passing upon the question Chief Justice Sterrett, among other things, says:
"There is no authority in the election law, as amended, for the voting for a person to fill an office, the name of which office is not designated on the official ballot prepared for the use of official voters. It is the duty of those entrusted with the preparation and distribution of the official ballot to see that the name or title of every office, to be filled at the forthcoming election, is distinctly designated thereon as the election law specifically requires. The obvious reason why the office of 'Borough Justice of the Peace' was not so designated on the ballot prepared for the use of voters at the election in question, is because the office was not authorized to be chosen at that time, as the court being properly directed, it had been otherwise, the title of the office would have been properly designated in each column of the official ballot, and if appellant's name, as a candidate for the office of Borough Justice, etc., did not appear on the ballot, those desiring to vote for him could do so by inserting his name in the blank or right hand column immediately under the designation of the office to which he was a candidate. It is distinctly designated thereon as the election law in the right-hand column of the official ballot. It is the name only that is to be inserted, not the title of the office to be filled. The latter is already designated on the ballot and constitutes part of the ballot prepared for the use of voters, etc.
"In this case the respective titles of all the offices to be filled, which were set forth, were properly designated on the official ballot, but some electioneers conceived the idea of amending the official ballot by preparing a blank column for their own use, and inserting in the left-hand column of the official ballot the names of candidates for each, and pasted the same over the right-hand column of the official ballot, thus substituting for the latter the ticket or column prepared by themselves. It was held that 'to permit the voter to procure from outside parties a slip staked to either corner, or pasted in any other column and paste the same over the printed matter, as well as the blank spaces thereon, and to insert in the left-hand column of the official ballot, thus substituting for the latter to both, to sanction what was done in this case. The direction of the act, as to how the voter shall do and how it shall be done, are plain, explicit and mandatory. No substantial departure from those directions can ever be safely recognized as their legal effect.
"There appears to be no error in the decree, and it is therefore affirmed with costs to be paid by appellant."

The Justices against whom the decisions are rendered continue to transact business under their commissions and will have a right to do so until a judgment of ouster is entered against them. Herein the question will be taken by the prosecution next Monday.
So far as Messrs. Lawlor, Cardin, Coyne and Jones are concerned the long drawn out litigation over the standing of the Justices of the Peace in Shenandoah and Mahanoy City seems to be at an end. The granting of a judgment of ouster against them is accepted as a foregone conclusion. But other complications are to follow, and it is difficult at this time to say when the two boroughs will have Justices of the Peace who will be able to occupy their seats with full confidence of undisturbed possession.

It will be remembered that the petition against whom the Supreme Court has just decided claimed election by virtue of a few votes cast in each ward of their respective boroughs and secured commissions for five years upon the returns of the so-called election. They then proceeded to oust the Justices who held office in the two boroughs and after a fight through the Dauphin county court, followed by an appeal to the Supreme Court, Messrs. Toomey, Shoemaker, Dangler, Williams, Walker and Bailey, of town, and the old judges in Mahanoy City were obliged to do what the illegally elected Borough Justices are about to be required to do—abandon. Meanwhile the old Justices go together and, through their counsel, A. W. Schalk, Esq., said: "I don't intend to let the legality of the elections of their successors in Mahanoy City, at the Pottsville court, stand them. So great was the confidence that the Supreme Court would sustain Judge Penning, that at the last spring election candidates for Borough Justices of the Peace were nominated and elected, and Judge Toomey and Shoemaker being the successful candidates in this town. The question now is whether they will receive commissions after the ouster are ordered. It is claimed by them that when Judge Penning decided that the Borough Justices were illegally elected vacancies were created and there will be no appointments until the next spring election, claiming that no vacancies existed when the last elections were made.

In conversation with a HERALD reporter to-day A. W. Schalk, Esq., said: "I don't intend to let the legality of the elections of their successors in Mahanoy City, at the Pottsville court, stand them. So great was the confidence that the Supreme Court would sustain Judge Penning, that at the last spring election candidates for Borough Justices of the Peace were nominated and elected, and Judge Toomey and Shoemaker being the successful candidates in this town. The question now is whether they will receive commissions after the ouster are ordered. It is claimed by them that when Judge Penning decided that the Borough Justices were illegally elected vacancies were created and there will be no appointments until the next spring election, claiming that no vacancies existed when the last elections were made.

The question will be raised as to whether, or not, vacancies existed at the time of the elections and whether, or not, their elections were illegal, or valid. If they are sustained, of course commissions will be issued to them. If they are not sustained, the Governor will appoint Justices for one year, or until the next spring election."

President McKinley Appoints Commissioners to Urge Bimetallism.
WOLCOTT, STEVENSON AND PAINE
The Colorado Senator, the Ex-Vice President and the Well Known New England Lecturer Will Go to Foreign Countries to Urge Co-operation.

Washington, April 13.—The president last night announced the appointment of Senator Edward G. Wolcott, of Colorado, Hon. Charles J. Paine, of Boston, and ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson as commissioners to an international monetary conference. These appointments are made under the act approved March 3 last "for the promotion of an international agreement for bimetallism," and by its provisions the appointees do not require confirmation by the senate.
It has been generally conceded that Senator Wolcott would be a member of the commission. He has been an active leader in the movement for a monetary agreement, and widely known as an advocate of the silver cause. His trip to Europe last summer was generally conceded to be at least semi-official in the representative of the new administration. His tour extended over several months, and embraced the leading European capitals. He had audiences with the more noted financiers and ministers, and it is believed then laid the foundations for the international conference which the commission just appointed will endeavor to bring to a conclusion. Senator Wolcott is now serving his second term in the senate, having been elected to that body in 1895. While a pronounced bimetallist, he was a staunch supporter of the St. Louis treaty, which was a member of the financial question.

Ex-Vice President Stevenson, the Democratic member of the commission, though generally known as an advocate of bimetallism, was a staunch supporter of Bryan and the Chicago platform. He and Senator Wolcott, however, are said to be in accord on the financial question.
General Charles J. Paine, who may be termed the minority member, is a Republican, and was a McKinley man. He is one of the most prominent business men of Massachusetts, and is said to be a deep student of the financial question. While he is classed as a supporter of bimetallism based on international agreement, he is regarded as allied with the sound money faction. He is a graduate of Harvard, being a member of the class of '73. General Paine is largely identified with railroads and other corporations. He is a man of large wealth, and is probably best known to the public at large as one of the syndicate of gentlemen who built the cruise-defending yacht, Puritan, Mayflower and Volcano, and who do not generally know that General Paine accompanied Senator Wolcott on his European trip last summer, and assisted him in that work. It is believed that he will be understood as a man who was to be made a member of the commission.

It is not yet known when the commissioners will meet and organize. When an organization is effected, however, it is believed that Senator Wolcott will be moderator. It is authoritatively stated that the commissioners will not go abroad before May 1, by which time the new ambassadors will be at their posts and render the special envoys the assistance necessary in the consummation of their mission.

Geordy's Trial for Wife Murder.
Georgetown, Del., April 13.—The trial of James M. Geordy, charged with murdering his wife, formerly Mrs. Mary Lewis, of New York, by throwing her into the Broadkill river at Milton, Del., on March 11 last, was begun here yesterday. Chief Justice Lore and Judges Chace, Cullen and Brantley were on the bench. The jury is composed of nine farmers, one manufacturer, one marble dealer and one carpenter. Rev. W. W. Moir, of New York, testified to marrying Geordy and Mrs. Lewis on Feb. 28, and Mrs. Blanche Geordy, sister of the dead woman, and Miss Agnes Erick, a cousin, testified to her identity.

Chinese Dying of Starvation.
San Francisco, April 13.—According to advices brought by the Gaelic, natives in the vicinity of Ichang, China, are dying by hundreds of starvation. The grain crop last year was almost a total failure, and as the people exchanged their maize for rice to last them through the winter food has been scant for a long time. Supplies are now completely exhausted, and the harvest of death has begun. Even in the sections that relief has been sent the amount of food to such families is so small that it serves barely to sustain life, and does not relieve the pangs of hunger.
