Catarrh is seemingly one of the most complicated of ailments, and one which the doctors are absolutely unable to cure. The reasons for this are easily explained. Catarrh is a blood disease, and only a blood remedy can effect it. The various sprays, douches and washes which are employed as a local treatment. are employed as a local treatment, may, for a time, alleviate the trouble, but no one ever knew of auch treatment producing a cure. They can not reach the seat of the disease, as the experience of many autherers will prove; nothing can do so except a real blood remedy.

In the treatment of Catarrh, S. S. S, has demonstrated the fact that it reaches deep-seated diseases, which other remedies can not touch.

Mr. Chas. A. Parr, the leading wall paper dealer, of Athens, Ga., writes: For months I suffered from a severe

HIS ONE SOFT SPOT.

THE CONSTRUCTION BOSS WAS HARD, BUT HE LOVED CHILDREN.

The Story of How He Found Little Jimmy and Amwured the Starring Boy's Cry For Milk-But the Rough Fellow Wouldn't Own to His Weshness.

Captain Makem was a hard rean with a soft spot. That soft spot was his friend-ship for little Jimmy Greng and dated from the winter when the child was lost

According to the point of view, the cap-tain was the best man or the worst who ever bossed a milroad construction camp.
Ask the leading contractors, and they would tell you that he was an AI man, who could get more work out of his gang than any foremen on the line. Leave it to the men who did the work, and you would learn that he was the memoes and most abusive old hustler who ever gave a man his time for laying down his shevel to light a pipe. There were ugly stories told about his practice of eye gouging in a fight, and his reputation was sufficient to keep his comp the quietest of them all.
In December the camp contained about 40 men and teams, one woman and two children. The inventory is not complete without including one old rawboard horse. a sort of enusy follower, who subsisted on the leavings of the work inules. He was owned by Grogg, the boarding master, who, with his wife, ministered beef, kneon, berns, pointoes, bread and coffee thrice a day to the 40 hungry men,

At this time camp was ten miles from water, upon a dry plain carrying no vegetation but sparse angebrush and greasewood. Water was hauled in tank wagons, and the old horse, not getting all he need-ed in camp, had learned to follow the teams to the spring.

One morning, after the gang had breakfasted and gone to work on the grade and the tank wagens could be dimly seen through their own dust on the road to the spring, Gregg's Httle 3-year-old son came out of the mess tent and erossed over t the corral, where he often played. The old horse was there, nowing through the manger, and the child presently climbed upon its back as it stood rubbing against a wag The horse paid no heed to his little on. The mose paid no need to his fitter rider, and seen ambled off up the read after the water wagons. The child held on tightly, at first laughing, then crying, until he had been carried several miles, when he fell off and wandered away from the ond through the brush.

Jimmy was not missed until the men came in from the grade for dinner. Then there was a hurried and unavailing search through the camp. After dinner Mahem hald off ten tenns and sent the drivers out to make a general search. By midafterto make a general search. By midster-ment they returned and reported fallure. Meanwhile Mrs. Gregg, who said she was perfectly sums Jimmy would not leave camp, had been through every tent and overlanded every bed roll, believing that some one for a joke had hidden the boy. Mahem now took the whole force of 40 men and joined in the quest. Under his direction the camp was circled twice at a distance of one mile, and overy yard of the way carefully examined for footprints.

None was found, and Mahem said to his no relief until I bought a bottle of Cham hene "Now your work is cut out for you.
Before dark you've got to look under every brush inside of this line, and you're bound to find him, for he could not get outside without making trucks."

This search also was, of course, fruitless. Some men come to camp at night-fall and others kept moving about the plain at night, kepting to hear the child cry.

At daylarak the capitaln was in the sud-dle mounted on his favorite mule. He still believed the boy must be inside the circle, if that had been properly made. To clear up that doubt he meant to make the entire and alone and outside of the line made by the men. To reach the starting point he rode out up the road toward the spring, his eyes on the ground, his mind on the problem of how Jimmy could get out of amp and leave no trail.
"By God, I've got it!" said he suddenly, jabling both spurs into the mule, which responded with a gallant attempt to pluch him into a castus bed. "That boy rode out on a water wagon. His mother is off wrong to tidaking he was in the tent when
