It certainly is disheartening to a pa-tiest to find that the treatment he is given for a disease is more disastrous than the disease itself. Such is the case, however, with the usual treat-ment given for diseases of the blood. Notwithstanding the great progress made in many branches of medicine, the doctors have failed absolutely to find a successful treatment for blood poison, and the many diseases having had a successful treatment for blood poison, and the many diseases having their origin in the blood. They give but one kind of medicine, they know but one treatment, and whether in the form of powder, pill or liquid, the doctor's prescription is always the same—potash or mercury.

Too much cannot be said of the harmful and disastrous effects of these drugs. The doctors are unable to rid the system of the poison, and direct their efforts toward covering up the symptoms from view. There is but one effect to be obtained from potash and mercury—they bottle up the poisen and dry it up in the system, but it must be remembered that they dry up the marrow in the bones at the same time, gradually consuming the vital-lty. Those disfiguring copper-colored splotches are but indications of worse results to follow. No sooner has the system taken on the full effects of this powerful drug than that suppleness and elasticity of the joints gives way to a stiffness, followed by the racking pains of rheumatism. The form gradually bends, the bones ache, while decrepitude and helpicasness prema-turely take possession of the body. Under this treatment, it is but a short step from vigor and health to a pair of crutches. With this wreck of the system often comes falling of the hair and eyebrows, loss of finger nails, and decay of the bones—a condition most horrible. This is no overdrawn picture.

most horrible. This is no overdrawn picture, for the world to-day is full of these hobbling mercurial wrecks.

Contaglous Blood Poison is the most horrible of all diseases, and has been appropriately called the curse of mankind. Until the discovery of S. S. S., it was incurable. It has always baffled the doctors, and it is in this disease that the evils of mercury and Conspiracy to Rob Conspiracy to Rob Conspiracy to Rob Conspiracy potash are most common, because these drugs are given in such large doses in an effort to counteract the poison.
