ZIEGLER PARDONED.

Devine, of Blythe Township, Was Not As Fortunate.

The State Board of Pardons yesterday recommended Martin Ziegler, former constable of the Fourth ward of Pottsville, to the Governor as worthy of a pardon. The Board refused a pardon for P. P. Devine, former Justice of the Peace of Blythe township, who was tried and convicted of conspiracy and other charges, growing out of the misconduct of the affairs of that school district by the Board of Directors and others in power. Ziegler shot and killed William Kepley at Pottsville on the morning of October 19th, 1892. He was convicted in the following December. The shooting occurred about 75 yards from Kepley's home and about 20 yards east of Ziegler's residence. Ziegler, who was in bed, was like all the other people in the neighborhood aroused by cries of "murder" and "police." It was a woman screaming, Ziegler, who was a constable, ran out of his house without hat or shoes and grabbed Kepley with, as he said, the intention of taking him to the police station. The man clutched and then the shot was fired. Kepley was on his way home with his wife, and others when some one of a party of young fellows, who were standing near the scene of the tragedy made an insulting remark. Kepley stepped up to the men and exchanged blows with them. A free fight ensued, which caused the woman to scream. Ziegler ran out armed with the intention to quell the disturbance. Ziegler was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary.

HAVEMEYER ACQUITTED.

Millionaires May Snub the National Senate With Impunity.

ATTORNEY DAVIS' ARGUMENT I He Declared That the Honor, Dignity and Integrity of the Upper Branch of Congress Was at Stake—Judge Bradley Ordered an Acquittal.

Washington, May 28.—"Certainly I am satisfied with the verdict," said Henry O. Havemeyer to a reporter a few minutes after the jury had returned a verdict of not guilty yesterday afternoon. "The verdict," he continued, "ought to be satisfactory to every decent man in this and every other community." That was the only expression the president of the American Sugar Refining company would make upon the result of his trial, which had been in progress for three days before Judge Bradley.

The verdict was the culmination of a long legal battle which began three years ago, when Mr. Havemeyer declined as a witness before the senate sugar investigating committee to furnish the committee with data as to the political contributions made by the company of which he is president to the local and state campaigns of 1892 and 1893. Broker Chapman, around whom the preliminary battle waged, was found guilty and is now serving a 30 day sentence in the district jail.

The conclusion of the trial was abrupt. When the government rested its case on Wednesday the defense

E. O. HAVEMEYER moved that the court instruct the jury to order an acquittal on six grounds, the principal one of which was that the question asked was not pertinent.

District Attorney Davis made a valiant attempt to induce the presiding judge to overrule the motion. The question put to Mr. Havemeyer, Mr. Davis insisted, was pertinent to the inquiry. It had been allowed by the newspaper articles, the truth of which the committee was investigating, that a director of the sugar trust had stated that the trust cared nothing for the senate. He was quoted as having said: "We own the United States senate, body, boots and breeches; brain, morals and all." In the face of such allegations was it not the duty of the committee, he asked, to find out whether the trust had contributed to local elections, upon the result of which hung the fate of United States senators?

The honor, dignity and integrity of the senate was at stake in the inquiry. Its purpose was to vindicate the purity of the senate if the charges were proved to be false, and to adopt means of purging itself of corruption, if such corruption was found to exist. Mr. Davis described the trust as a conscienceless "octopus," reaching from coast to coast, using the leverage of its power in politics, by the admission of its president, as a Republican in Republican states and as a Democrat in Democratic states.

As to the pertinency of the question relating to local and state political contributions, Mr. Davis pointed out how a United States senator, hard pressed in his local elections, might have appealed to the Sugar Refining company for funds, with the understanding that, if he triumphed, his vote and influence would be at the disposal of the sugar trust. "That may be brutally blunt," said the district attorney, "but it is a possibility." As to the pertinency of the defense that Mr. Havemeyer should have been warned that the question he declined to answer was a committee question, Mr. Davis pointed out that Mr. Havemeyer was duly warned that he was making himself contempt.

Mr. Johnson, for the defense, was very severe in his strictures on the district attorney for his insinuations. The senate's resolution creating the investigating committee, he pointed out, asked them to inquire what contributions, large or small, had been subscribed to the Democratic campaign fund to secure the insertion of the sugar schedule in the tariff bill as alleged. He was proceeding to speak on the report of the committee concerning the senators when District Attorney Davis interrupted somewhat breathlessly: "If my honorable brethren will permit me," said he, "I would like to say that like the flowers that bloom in the spring, what the committee did or did not report has nothing to do with the case."

Mr. Johnson replied at some length to the arguments advanced by the district attorney.

In rendering his decision, which was very lengthy and consumed over an hour in its delivery, Judge Bradley declined to rule on the main question as to the jurisdiction of the senate committee. He said the questions involved in that proposition were of such grave importance that he would not rule on that point without further and more careful examination. But he held it was unnecessary to rule on the main question. Practically he sustained the motion upon the single ground that the question calling for data to state and local contributions, demanded information not within the knowledge of the witness, which he had testified to and no personal knowledge of, and which, if given at all, must have been procured from the books and of which the books themselves were the best testimony. Although the verdict of "not guilty" was given by the jury, it was a verdict returned under the court's dictation and amounted practically to the judge's throwing the case out of court.

Mr. Havemeyer's attorneys were naturally much elated over their victory. "This ends the case forever," said Mr. Johnson, of Philadelphia. Mr. Havemeyer's chief counsel, the secretary of the sugar trust, who was indicted with Mr. Havemeyer for conspiracy, was called today. District Attorney Davis, who will likewise conduct this case for the government, says that the cases are not analogous, and that the Seares case could not be dismissed on the same ground, because Mr. Seares declined to answer questions which he presumably had knowledge of, but in the Seares case it is probable that the main contention as to the jurisdiction and pertinency will be raised, and that Judge Bradley will be compelled to rule upon it as he yesterday announced he would when it was raised as the direct issue.

A Handsome Electric Car. O'Neill Bros. new general car made its first appearance on our streets this morning, and reflects great credit on the enterprise of the purchasers and makers, the Lock Falls Manufacturing Company, Reading, Pa. The new vehicle is a square one in design containing heavy French plate glass windows and doors, and is painted in a beautiful black color. Several pines adorn the top of the car, and two large lamps, highly polished and nickel plated, adorn both sides of the driver's seat, while the hubs are also set off with similar trimmings. The interior of the car is fitted out in walnut, the sides and the back being heavily draped with jet black broadcloth. The old method of keeping the coils stationary by pins is displaced by four clamps which are operated by a crank connected with a series of cog wheels that can be brought close enough to fasten the smallest coil. The front is drawn by a pair of sparkling black horses equipped with new sets of harness whose nickel trimmings glittered in the morning sun, bespeak good taste for this enterprising business firm. The first person to be borne to the grave in the new car was Anthony Dean, of Lost Creek, whose funeral took place this morning.

BOROUGH COUNCIL

The Members Held a Special Session Last Night.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR ANNUAL TOUR Board of Health and All the Borough Officials Will be Invited to Take Part in the Inspection of the Town and Water Works.

A special meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening to make arrangements to take part in the Memorial Day ceremonies and also consider the question as to whether Jacob Peifer has broken his contract to haul coal to the pumping station of the public water works. In the absence of the President, Councilman D. R. James took the chair and his maiden effort as a presiding officer in Council was quite successful until he arose to say something on a question under debate and started out with "Mr. Chairman." His colleagues enjoyed a good laugh over the slip of his memory.

The first step was to ascertain how many members of Council would be able to participate in the ceremonies and make the tour and visit to the water works and all but one member reported themselves prepared to be present. The next question raised was to the number of people to be invited to accompany Council. A vote decided that invitations be extended to the Board of Health, Chief Burgess, Borough Solicitor, Borough Treasurer, Borough Surveyor, Supervisor, Town Clerk, High Constable and Water Superintendent. The hiring of carriages and other arrangements were left in the hands of the street committee.

It was decided that Council meet at the Borough building at 9:30 o'clock on Saturday morning to take part in the Memorial Day parade.

Mr. Gable, chairman of the water committee, presented statements bearing upon the Peifer case after which it was decided to pay the demurrage bill of $74 due the P. & E. Railway Company on account of the failure to get the coal cars at Brandonville unloaded in time.

It was also decided that the water committee consult with the Borough Solicitor and ascertain if Peifer has broken his contract, report at the next meeting, and advertise in the meantime for bids for the coal hauling if the solicitor decides that the contract has been broken.

Mr. Gable presented the report of Messrs. William Reeves and Jesse E. Davis, who were employed to post and audit the books of the water department. The matter was referred back to the water committee with instructions to procure additional information from the Borough Treasurer.

Yesterday witnesses from the contestant's home, Mahanoy City, were on the stand.

He says that there was no foundation, whatever, for the story of the priest's defalcation.
