Wilkins was sleepy when he got home. He was sleepler than ever when he had crawled into bed with the clammy plaster on him and a big towel backing it up close against the cuticle. He dozed perceptibly as the plaster warmed up.

"I'll go to sleep," he thought. "It it gets too hot, I'll wake up."

"Yes, I'll—wake up—if gets too hot"—
Mr. Wilkins was snoring, and a clock away down the hall was striking 10.

in which he had seen a miner standing over him with a pick and felt that a great bole was being dug through his ribs.
Wilkins snorted, turned over and writhed with a grimmes. Then he pulled the clothing far from him, sat up and said, "Ugh!"

At 7 o'clock he was in the drug store again. He was bending over to keep his clothing from touching him.

The right clork was still in charge, and he grinned broadly.

"Let me see the place," he suggested even before Wilkins spoke.

There was a brilliant parallelogram, 4 by 7 inches, just under the third button of Wilkins' yess, and as the air touched its Wilkins' recess.

Wilkins winced.
"You'll have to be very careful or you'll bave a bad blister there," said the clerk.
"Blister! Say, I can stand it. Tell me the truth. How deep is that hole?"
"Nonsense. Go out and get a big, soft

Wilkins paid 35 cents for the handker-chief and 35 cents for a cool, mussy paste, which the clock smeared on one side of it.
"Now, if you let your flannel next to

The Dangers From Escaping Gas. So many people suffer from headaches, extreme institude and disinclination to make any mental effort, a condition which HEADQUARTERS :- Hotel Francy, Shens amounts to positive incriness, that med-ical men have been investigating the why and wherefore of this state of things in order, if possible, to find a reason, and, following that, a remedy for this annoying C. and discouraging condition.

Among other facts brought to light, it appears that many headaches and much discomfort are traceable largely to the polsonous effects of gas of various sorts. Ordinary illuminating gas has, as is well known, the properties that produce asphyxiation, and even though the victure may survive the accident of inhaling a large amount of gas, the best-line may survive the accident of inhaling. a large amount of gas, the headache, nausea and prostration following such an experience are distressing in the extreme, It is often the case that people who live in houses lighted by gas suffer scrious consequences without being aware of it. They do not inhale chough to attract their attraction but the references along tention, but the poisonous vapor slowly but surely undermines their health and produces headaches, congestion and a long train of unauspected evils. Especially is this the case where what is known as water gas is used. This gas is made by heating luced soul to a white lucat them. heating hard cost to a white heat, then passing steam over it. The carbon decomposes the steam, and then, uniting with the oxygen, forms a gas known as carbonic oxide, which is deadly in the extreme. The immediate cause of death from carbonic oxide is that it destroys the red blood corpuseles in the animal body, These red corpuscies convey exygen to every pertion of the system. The carbonic oxide distroys the exygen, and in consequence there is a sert of sufficient of the blood, which results in death in a very

There are many instances of death from gas poisoning in houses illuminated by other means. In several cases it took a long time for the nuthorities to discover that the gas escaped through defective pipes and made its way through the earth into the dwelling and slowly sapped the vitality of the unsuspecting occupants.—

What Is Found Ender the Seats After an Operatio Performance.

When the currain has made its final fall after an operatic performance at the Metdispersed, a queer scene is enacted. A company enters and spreads itself out in boxes and orehestra stails, escrimiling cushions, pearing into corners, as though hunting for the strange demon who com-pels even the brightest of operatic stars to occasionally sing flats where charps are written. But the members of the com-pany of sectors are in search of something a thoroughly tested remedy, gently prepares the system for this period, lessens the pain, and removes all danger. Its use insurers a safe and happy termination of the dreaded event.

reptured and entranced and telegraphical.

For one year the property is kept in the opera house safe, tabeled with the name of the finder, and duly entered in a book kept for the purpose. If melaimed at the end of the year, the article is presented to the finder by the management as a reward for the house.

Among the queerest articles at the Met-ropolitan which await a claimant are a false tooth with a heavy gold riate attached, false tooth with a heavy gold plate atmobed, two silk hats, whose owners must have been strangely contanced with the must to go home larcheaded; an elegant lace mantilla, which most have cost at least $150; a gold bracelet, the broken clasp of which shows the reason for its loss; a diamond ring, gold chains of various patterns, apparently torn off in the scramble for the door, open glasses by the dozen, black, blue and fancy colored garters by the score (some with handsome gold clasps, engraved with menograms that it has been found impossible to identify); cance and unbrollas by the hundred, overshoes, carriage shoes, glaves and pocketbooks, lined ringe shoes, gloves and pocketbooks, lined and unlined. One of these pocketbooks, picked up by a gleaner, was found to contain $500 in greenbacks. It was handed in with the greetlacks. It was banded in with the rest of the findings to the manager. Its cureless owner, a Japaness connected with the consulate, claimed it the following day. The honest finder went unrewarded. But they are accustomed to that sert of treat-ment at the Metropolitan.—New York Press.

Commercial Geography.

Great cities are seldom pro-ominent for any particular line of manufactures. Their industries are too large and diversified for any one of them to show marked superior-ity over all the rest. Now and then a great industry of some city is taken from it. When ships were made of wood, London was the greatest shipbuilding center of the world. Then from ships same into use, and London has lost her shipbuilding trade, which has been transferred to the Clyde, the Tyne and the Wear, right at the sources of iron and coal supplies.

The great vessels in which most occan commerce is now earried have severely affected the interests of some ports. Cities that once were scaperts are new inland, as far as any great amount of ocean traffic is concerned. The largest ships of commerce could once sail up the Avon to Bristol and the Savern to Gloucester. The far larger ships that now earry commerce cannot reach these places, but are compelled to stop at Avonmonth and Cardiff. Cargoes were formerly landed as far up the Thames as London Bridge, but steamers now have to stop at the docks, some miles below that point. Bremen was once one of the world's greatest commercial cities, but her water front is now too shallow for deep sen ves-sels, and her port is at Bremerhaven, several miles below. Hamburg, accessible to all classes of vessels, though 60 miles from the sea, has reaped the benefit of Bremen's misfortune, which, however, has not de-prived the latter city of a large carrying
