FALL OF CLOD.

Accident Befalls Workmen at the New Electric Station Site.

Three men had a narrow escape from very serious injury this morning at the place where excavations are being made for the proposed station of the Commercial Electric Light Company, on Main alley. Morgan Sanders, Bryan McCarthy and a man named Drew were at work at the part of the excavation that fell. Sanders was above the other men, who were shoveling the clay that Sanders had dug down. Suddenly the top fell. It struck Sanders first and knocked him down against the other men and the three tumbled about eight feet, but escaped being covered by the clod. In the fall McCarthy struck a wagon and sustained a fracture of the collar bone. He was sent to his home at Brownville. Sanders and Drew resumed their work.

AWAITING DECISION.

The Flynn Case is Now in the Court's Hands.

ARGUMENTS HEARD YESTERDAY!

Judge Lyon, of Juniata County, has the Case Under Consideration—He Intimates That There Will Not be an Early Decision—The Case Important.

The much-talked-of injunction suit of Anthony Flynn against the borough of Shenandoah has been argued at last and is now in the hands of the court. The arguments were made yesterday, John F. Whelan and George J. Wallinger, Esqs., presenting the case for the plaintiff and A. W. Schelck and J. H. Pomeroy, Esqs., making argument for the borough. The arguments continued about four hours.

The case was presented in all its details, the counsel showing that Flynn erected the stone wall across the creek flowing through his premises and the objection was placed there to prevent a nuisance, Flynn claiming that the stream had become so contaminated that to allow its course through his property and to allow its dwelling endangered the health of the occupants of the place. The facts being upon the efforts of the Chief Engineer and a squad of workmen to tear down the wall and allow the stream to flow in its regular channel and the armed resistance made against the movement by Flynn, who placed an American flag on the wall and guarded it with a revolver in each hand, having wholly to remove either the flag or wall, were reviewed at length. The chief argument made by Flynn's counsel was that, while they do not dispute the fact that the stream was a public water course, the borough has, by reason of certain actions, adopted it as a public sewerage and caused the nuisance of which Flynn has complained. The acts charged against the borough is the granting of permits to people to connect sewerage lines with the stream. The borough, on the other hand, claims that the stream remains to day as much a public water course as it ever was, so far as the nuisance is concerned, and that the borough has never given permission, or directed anyone to connect sewerage lines with the stream.

Judge Lyon, of Juniata county, heard the arguments and on making the papers intimated that he would take the case to the Commonwealth's attorney and the Commonwealth's attorney will have the case in the hands of the court in at least two or three weeks. The result, whatever it may be, is a matter of great importance to the borough.

The case is one of the most important the borough has ever been interested in since the water works litigation, and the decision will have a bearing on the future of the borough. It is believed the case will be in the hands of the court for at least two or three weeks. The result, whatever it may be, is a matter of great importance to the borough.

WINTERSTEEN TRIAL.

The Defendant Contradicted by a Post Office Clerk.

BLOOMSBURG, June 10.—The credibility of important witnesses who have figured in the dynamite conspiracy trial of Lloyd S. Wintersteen was the main point at issue in yesterday's proceedings. The defense having rested its case early in the day, testimony in rebuttal and sur-rebuttal was taken up, and at the close of the afternoon's session the honors seemed to have been about equally divided between the Commonwealth and the defendant. Some sworn, in behalf of the prosecution, that certain witnesses were not to be believed upon oath, and others, in Wintersteen's behalf, testified with regard to the same witnesses that their reputation for veracity was unquestionable.

Such rapid progress was made in the hearing of a volume of testimony that counsel for the defense were enabled to announce at the close of the day their intention of concluding the sur-rebuttal in one hour this morning, and Attorney James Scarlet made the first closing speech for the Commonwealth before the noon adjournment. The addresses of Fred Heiler and J. H. Jaslow, for the defense, and George S. Graham, for the prosecution, together with Judge Ernest's charge, will certainly be delivered in time to permit the case to go to the jury some time tomorrow.

The strongest point presented by the Commonwealth in rebuttal was the evidence of Elizabeth Jacoby, a clerk of the Bloomsburg post office, where the administration of those testimony there was a spirited debate between Messrs. Graham and Shields. Both Wintersteen and Don Moharier had positively sworn that only two letters had passed between them in the past few years. Miss Jacoby flatly contradicted this, after Judge Ernest had ruled in favor of her testimony. She said that 50 or more letters addressed to Don Moharier, in Wintersteen's handwriting, had passed through the post office in the last five or six years. She had personally handed many of them to Don at the general delivery window.

MAHER AND SHARKEY FIGHT

Stopped by Police at the End of the Seventh Round.

THE CONTEST DECLARED A DRAW

Sharkey Provoked Police Interference by Striking One of Maher's Seconds—A Monster Crowd of Sports on Hand to View the Fight.

New York, June 10.—Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey fought last night at the Palace Athletic club for a $15,000 purse. At the end of the seventh round the police interfered, and the contest resulted in a most unsatisfactory draw. Never in the history of the ring has there been such an enormous attendance at a boxing bout in this vicinity. There were about 10,000 persons squeezed into the big building, which was recently transformed into a fistic arena by the Palace A. C. under the management of William A. Brady. A more representative congregation of well known sporting men has never witnessed a boxing match than that which assembled last night. The quantity of money which would have been changed hands had the bout resulted in favor of either man is well up in six figures.

That there would be police interference if the men fought hard was feared by the majority of those who purchased tickets, but after the two boys who took part in the opening bout had been allowed to pummel each other without being stopped by the police those present had hopes that the big fellows would have a good chance to settle the question of superiority.

Maher and Sharkey had trained carefully, and when attired in the ring they were the picture of health and strength. Maher was the favorite, but there seemed to be plenty of money on Sharkey.

When they began operation Maher's advantage in reach and reach was very marked. Sharkey's style of boxing himself upon when stepping away caused a good deal of comment, and it was easily seen that Maher was in no hurry to mix matters, as he evidently preferred to size his man up, and he looked as if he were holding back for a good opening.

Maher was an anxious look from the very beginning of the bout, and his eyes had a very wild and hunted expression in them. The boxing was very tame for five rounds, but after showing a mark in the sixth round Sharkey, with a well directed straight right on the mouth, sent Peter sprawling half way through the ropes, where he struggled for five seconds before he regained his feet. As Maher was getting up Sharkey rushed toward him, but was called back by Chynowick, who was evidently afraid that the sailor might commit a foul. Ten seconds later the gone ended the sixth round, and when Maher returned to his corner he spat out a lot of blood. Sharkey's friends, when they saw this, yelled "first blood for Sharkey," and there was a great deal of cheering.

The seventh round was nearly completed when Maher, after getting his second good blow on Sharkey, sent the latter to the floor near the ropes with a left in the wind and a right swing on the jaw. Tom was up again inside of five seconds and rubbed into a clinch. In the clinch Maher kept working his right on the body. When the count sounded neither heeded the warning of the timekeeper, but went on hitting each other. One of Maher's seconds rushed over and grabbed Maher. While he was trying to pull the big fellow away Sharkey swung his right on the second's face, dazing him.

By this time the house was in an uproar, and there were cries of "foul" from the partisans of both men. The clin was terrible, but was increased tenfold when Inspector McLaughlin ordered the police to arrest all those concerned in the fight. Policemen in uniform swarmed into the ring, and a number of detectives also climbed through the ropes. The principals were held down by the referee, who was then the referee was right and proper. The great crowd left the building without the slightest confusion, and very little comment was heard.

Those arrested, including the principals, seconds and the referee, were escorted to the One Hundred and Fourth street police station. First allowing Maher and Sharkey to go to their dressing rooms and put on their street clothes. All furnished bail. So far Brady has not been arrested.

Dan Lynch, of San Francisco, Sharkey's timekeeper, and Steve O'Donnell, of New York, who acted as the club's timekeeper, were also arrested and released on bail.

The relative merits of the men is just as much of a puzzle as ever, and still they meet again and get a definite decision their adherents will not be satisfied. It was said that over $10,000 were taken in at the box office, and judging from the number of people in the house this is a very conservative estimate.

Visited by a Justice.
The office of Justice Shoemaker was the scene of a marriage ceremony last night, the principals being Henry D. Bonds and Miss Mary C. Eisenhart, both of town. The office was filled by friends of the respective parties who formed a group about the Justice as he pronounced the couple man and wife. There was an impressive ceremony. Upon the close of the ceremony congratulations were extended by the spectators and the couple left the office in a happy frame of mind.

Presented Her Brother.

Mrs. Mary Leach, a resident of East Lloyd street, last night caused the arrest of her brother, Alex. Olinick, for assault and battery, charging that he visited her home, grabbed her by the hair, dragged her over the floor and threw her against the kitchen stove. Mrs. Leach gave evidence in her appearance of having been a spouse. When arraigned the brother admitted the charge and said he chastised his sister because she got drunk. He furnished $1000 bail for trial before Justice Shoemaker.
