There is more curative close students during their advancment from the first grade primary to the close of their career in school. The annual commencement exerclses bring to mind many thoughts. The whole aim of the school is to prepare the pupils for the active work they themselves must do. It is work of much interest, but of little importance except it may have served the purpose above stated. Not only the pupil, but sometimes the teachers forget this important fact, the latter setting an undue value upon branches of education that may readily be acquired through reading after the tunnet has left school, and too little apon the exercises which are to prepare him for doing work without guidence or assistance. The kinds of knowledge to be obtained by reading and memorizing, observation and application thereto forever. d the powers of reason, says the Baltimore Sun, are much less dependevi upon the skill or zeal of the Daily & Sunday, by mail, $8 a year teacher than upon the diligence, at tention and native intelligence of the pupil. Hence it may be fairly said that no amount of variety of knowledge acquired by the student at the close of his career in school can compensate him for any deficiency in these fundamental studies. Unless he can read and write fluently and correctly and has a good knowledge Price 50, a copy. of mathematics (including arithme tie as a matter of course) he has not been well prepared for "commence ment" day-the day when he goes forth to begin on his own account to hattle with the world. It is desirable, of course, that he should have in addition to these essentials other kinds of knowledge, but he can gain such knowledge out side of school if he be given the keys of learning. He could learn this FOR THIS WEEK from observation as well as from theory, for inumerable great men maye fought their way painfully to distinction for knowledge and ability with scanty school preparation for their commencement of life. And yet It is necessary at times to call attention to the long recognized truth for the reason that the ambition of leachers and school directors tends. toward such a multiplication of Mcluskey & Son, studies that the fundamentals are more or less neglected. Chicago, June 19 .- Charles W. Spald-ing. ex-president of the defunct Globe Savings bank and ex-treasurer of the State university, was yesterday acquitted of the charge of embessiement. The verdict was a general surprise, as the instructions of the court to the jury left scarcely any chance for an ac quilital. The first words uttered by Spalding after the verdict had been read in court were: "Well, this is a surprise."

The specific charge against him was the converting of $7,000 worth of the bonds of the Pitisfield school district, in Pike county. These bonds were hypothscated with the Metropolitan National bank, of this city, to secure a loan of $6,750. Spalding owes his ac-quittal to a single word in the statute.
