HOW THE DAY WAS SPENT!

Parade, Picnic and Fireworks Afforded Some Pleasure.

MARRIED BY HARD TIME EFFECTS. The Grant Band Tried to Put Spirit into the Events of the Day—Larger Crowds, But the Money Spenders Were Far in the Minority.

In comparison with previous years the observance of Independence Day in town yesterday was the most tame effort on record. There was a lack of spirit on the part of the people and the proprietors of hostilities say there was also a great scarcity of finance. The hard times of the past six or eight months made themselves apparent in more than one respect. People who had a little money to spare attended the bicycle picnic at Mahanoy City, or the Grant Band picnic at Columbia Park, and the proportion that spent money in town was small, although there were large numbers of people from outside places here. The electric railroads did a big business and until a late hour all cars were packed with people.

There was a considerable display of fireworks through the town, yet the dealers complain that the balances of stock on hand are large. A canvass of the town showed that there were no serious accidents from the use of fireworks, cannon, or revolvers.

The most cheerful returns, from a financial point of view, come from the ice cream and soda water dealers. The torrid weather made a great demand for cooling refreshments and it seemed that the heat diverted to the soda counters much of the revenue which would have gone into fireworks had the weather been less oppressive.

The first and really only exciting event of the day took place shortly after ten o'clock yesterday morning when a boy threw a squib on a stand of fireworks in front of Miller's store at the corner of Centre street and Market alley. About ten dollars worth of crackers, Roman candles and other nerve leasers went off almost simultaneously and rained such a cloud of smoke and racket that Watchman Creary sounded an alarm. The fire department responded, but its services were not required.

The next event of the day was the parade, which took place shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon. It was by no means as elaborate as had been expected, many of the business men whose names were on the list failing to put forth their displays. The parade was headed by the Chief Burgess and uniformed police, followed by Chief Marshall W. T. Schoppe and his aids, David Morgan and Phil Maher. Next came a committee of escort from the Grant Band. The Anniversary Corporation had a brigade of banner-carrying boys in line. O'Neill Bros. presented a float bearing attractive furniture and A. Melusky's float consisted of a unique arrangement of various articles in his line of business. Next displays by J. M. Kallbach, Miles & Gingham, A. Womer and A. P. Tabor followed the latter having four teams in line. Next came the Columbia Band, members of the Vaudeville Club on foot and in grotesque attire, the Lithuanian Band, Columbia H. & S. F. E. Co., and the Besene H. & L. Co., fully equipped and with all apparatus. The fire companies made a very pretty ending of the parade. The Grant Band picnic at Columbia Park was the next attraction. During the afternoon the attendance was fair, but in the evening a great crowd was at the park. Considering the depression in the times the picnic was a very fair financial success.

Annie on Her Muscles. Annie Rice is a Polish woman who has gained more notoriety and has figured in more law suits than any other woman in town and also has the reputation of being able to Queenberry any man or woman who dare stand before her. Sunday afternoon she was before Justice Shoemaker stating a complaint against a neighbor when a Polish man standing near interposed a remark to the effect that the Justice should not believe the woman as she was very bad. "Vat for dat your business?" asked Annie turning suddenly upon the man and slapping him several blows in the face in rapid succession. The fellow went down. He tried to regain his feet to strike back, but Annie was too quick and strong for him and followed up her advantage in great style. She did not stop until she hustled the man out of the office and down the stairs. Justice Shoemaker had remained a silent spectator of the encounter. When Annie returned he said with great composure, "Now, Annie, suppose you go home and take a rest? You have done enough work for a hot day like this." Annie took the hint and left, remarking as she closed the door "Dem babies on dem benches is more as dem fellows countin'—ain't it?"

Don't get rattled on the price. Price isn't the only thing when you buy goods. Sometimes the things that cost most in the beginning are the cheapest in the end. Our goods don't cost much more at first, but the cheapness is apparent for all times to come. It's a fact, though, in this queer world of ours, that price is the only thing that the smaller it is the more attention it attracts. We have a lot of new GROCERIES and the prices are very small.
