THORNE'S CONFESSION

Of the Murder and Butchery of William Guldensuppe.

MRS. NACK WAS AN ACCOMPLICE.

She Was in Love With Thorne and Was Anxious to Get Rid of Her Former Lover—Thorne says He Has No Fear of Death.

New York, July 8.—There is no longer a mystery about the tragedy which first came to the public knowledge on June 25, when boys playing on the pier at the foot of East Eleventh street discovered floating in the river a bundle which contained a portion of a human body. Martin Thorne, according to the detective bureau, has confessed that he planned with Mrs. Nack, and himself committed the murder of William Guldensuppe, a Turkish bath masseur, and the former lover of Mrs. Nack. There are some inconsistencies in the story given out by the police, and which is alleged to have reached them at second hand.

According to his confession, the murderer of Guldensuppe was committed on Friday, June 25, in the house at Woodside, L. I., which had been rented by Mrs. Nack ostensibly for a "baby farm." On Monday, the statement says, Thorne went early to the Woodside house, and hid in a closet over the door, and waited the arrival of Mrs. Nack and Guldensuppe. He took off his shoes so that no accidental noise could spoil his carefully laid plan. It was between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Nack and her victim, Guldensuppe, drove up in the motor which had been mentioned in the previous stories of the mystery. Thorne heard Mrs. Nack ask Guldensuppe a few questions about the house, and heard Guldensuppe answer. Then Mrs. Nack said, according to the confession: "While I don't wait for me. Go through the house and see how you like it."

Thorne, concealed behind the door of the closet, heard Guldensuppe's steps on the stairs as he complied with the woman's request. Carelessly Guldensuppe, who had just entered, until he came to the closet where Thorne stood. As the door swung open Thorne shot Guldensuppe right in the head. He died almost instantly. Then Thorne dragged the body to the bath tub and sent Mrs. Nack away, after he had removed and dismembered the body. When Mrs. Nack returned, a few hours later, they took the body away, and as they crossed the river Thorne threw the parts overboard. The confession does not explain how one portion of the body was found in the water. Mrs. Nack was desperately in love with Thorne, and this is believed to be the motive for her plot to put Guldensuppe out of the way. For the sake of Guldensuppe she originally left her husband.

At the police figure it out, Guldensuppe was murdered Friday morning, June 25, at Woodside. At 5 o'clock of the same afternoon, they think, Mrs. Nack went to Long Island in a light wagon, and she and Thorne carried the head, upper portions of the trunk and legs of the murdered man to the river, and from a ferryboat threw them into the water. On Saturday, according to the police, the man and the woman went again to the Woodside house in the survey, loaded in the second half of the trunk and Guldensuppe's clothing, drove the ferry to Washington, and drove from there to Cliffside, which is at the back and north of Weehawken, then crossed the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street ferry, and on to the point near Washington bridge, where the lower section of the mutilated body was found.

Mrs. Thorne is 32 years old. His features are strongly German in type, and he looks younger than his age, giving the impression of being an even tempered, good natured man. After his arrest he appeared cool, collected and at ease, no matter whether it was being questioned, having his portrait taken at police headquarters, or before the magistrate in court. To Acting Inspector O'Brien Thorne said that he had no fear of death.

THE USTANINE TRICK. London, July 8.—Greece-Turkish affairs appear to be entering an interesting stage. Yesterday the porte dispatched a circular to its representatives abroad containing a skillful defence of the Turkish case, and declining to consider any frontier line in Western Turkey as the basis of negotiations. It is reported that the sultan has convinced himself that the powers will not resort to coercion, and has decided to test the alleged concert of Europe to the utmost.

Miners Driven from Work. Wheeling, W. Va., July 8.—Yesterday, armed with pick handles and clubs, the striking miners of the Putnam district, at Long Run, over the river, proceeded to Dillonville, a short distance away on the same road, and forced the working miners at the latter place to come out on strike. The deputy United States marshals from Cincinnati had not yet arrived.

STRIKERS ENCOURAGED.

The Number of Mine Strikers Increased by Five Thousand IN THE PITTSBURG DISTRICT.

But the Operators Are Just as Confident of Success As Are the Men Who Are Demanding Better Pay for Their Labor. Pittsburgh, July 8.—Sixty hours after the inauguration of the great coal miners strike a comparison of statements from both sides engaged in the contest show favorable results for the diggers. Discounting the miners' official announcements by the operators' opinions, there seems no question that the workmen have scored a decided advantage in this district, and it is believed that as the Pittsburgh district goes to work the country. Conservative estimates place the number of miners now striking in this district at from 16,000 to 18,000 men, an increase of about 5,000 over Tuesday's record. This leaves but from 3,000 to 5,000 men still working.

The key to the entire situation, from present appearances, lies in the success of the operators in securing the co-operation of the men now working for the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company. Without these men the strike can hardly succeed, because they will be able in a measure to supply the demand long enough to tide over the present unemployment. Patrick Dolan, president of the Pittsburgh district miners, is confident that before the present week closes he will have succeeded in getting all of these men to join the ranks of the strikers, and when this result is effected the battle will be practically won.

The operators are just as confident of success as the miners are, and last night issued a statement claiming a large accession of men in different parts of the district and a heavier shipping list than usual. One thing slightly in favor of the operators is the freeing of the ranks of those remaining at work. Ten million bushels of coal which have been stacked in the pools above here awaiting this event will be brought to this harbor and be available for the present demand.

Notwithstanding the advantages claimed for the operators, the consensus of opinion appears to be in favor of the miners, inasmuch as the operators can hope only for temporary relief with their present facilities, and the miners' officials seem to be in a fair way to effectually cripple even these by constantly adding to their number from the ranks of those remaining at work. When the miners' headquarters were visited last evening the officials were in high glee over the result accomplished during the day. "From all reports I have received," said President Dolan, "there are no more than 3,000 miners at work in the Pittsburgh district. From reliable lieutenants in the field reports received say that more than 75 per cent. of the aggregate number of men in the district have joined in the movement for higher wages. The best news received was that the men working under contract at the Pan Handle mines of M. A. Hanna & Co. had quit work, and that also Hobbing First Pool miners were idle, and no coal was loaded at the mines of the Pittsburgh Gas Coal company at Swanton and Gastonville. The strike is a greater success than any one of 1884. If we can get the men at the New York and Cleveland Gas and Coal company out we can settle this fight within a week, and I believe we can do it."

Leading operators in the district profess to take an entirely different view of the situation. They admit that the miners have succeeded in getting more men to strike than they expected, but say they are not worrying over the outlook, and that the strike will not last a week. None of them are pressed for coal, and have offers from operators who are anxious to get them out of the movement to help them out. Ex-Senator Camden of West Virginia, has plenty of coal, and is now trying to lease cars to take it to the market. Pittsburgh operators whose mines are idle have requests for their individual cars. One operator sent 100 cars to West Virginia on Tuesday.

The strike has already benefited the West Virginia operators, and if it continues for a few weeks they will be enabled to dispose of a large quantity of coal at high prices.

Heroic Sailor Honored. Baltimore, July 8.—Captain George A. Hines, of the schooner Hilda, was last evening presented, at his home in this city, with a gold medal and certificate of honor by Mr. Arthur Robson, the local agent of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique. The honor was conferred upon Captain Hines by the officials of the French line in recognition of his bravery in rescuing four of the shipwrecked crew of the Ville de St. Nazaire, which foundered off Cape Cod last winter. Captain Hines picked up the two weeks' crew, the captain, steward, doctor and one passenger of the ill-fated steamer several days after the wreck occurred.
