A BUSY SCENE.
Large Force of Men Engaged at the Brewery Building.

The busiest scene in town is presented on West Oak street, between Main and Jarvis, where the Columbia Brewing Company has a force of men engaged in breaking ground for the foundation walls of the building the company is to erect for stabling and feed storage purposes. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible and within a short time the structure will begin to assume shape. The building proper will be 30x110 feet, the latter dimension being on Oak street. It will be constructed of brick and three stories high. The use to which it will be put are somewhat different to what were previously announced. The impression has got abroad that part of the building will be made for storage of malt and grain used in the brewery, but it is mistaken, as the new building will practically be distinct from the brewery proper and nothing to be used in the latter will be stored near the stable. The basement of the new building will be from nine to twelve feet deep and used as the bottling department, which is now being built on the first floor will be used for the storage of wagons, which will be doubly beneficial, in that it will protect the vehicles from stormy weather and the complaints of wagons along Oak street and Pear alley over night will be avoided. The second floor will furnish stabling for the horses and will be fitted up with all modern improvements. On the third floor will be stored all hay and feed required for the stable. The company's horses are at present quartered at Neisewander's and the Commercial hotel stables. The plans for the new building were made by Mr. W. M. Brewer, the president of the Columbia Brewing Company, and are being carried out under his personal supervision. Mr. Brewer's many years experience in the management and control of breweries makes him eminently qualified to judge the requirements of his company under the present movement, and when the new building is completed it will undoubtedly be one of the most substantial and complete for the purpose of any in the county. The foundation walls will be two feet thick and the brick walls eight inches thick. Every attention will be given to details promising convenience in all respects and proof against fire. Electric lights will be distributed in all parts of it, so that there will be no occasion to use lanterns or lamps at any time. The third floor will afford storage for about two tons of feed, besides an enormous quantity of hay. The hoisting of feed and hay into the loft and lowering of it to the stables will be done by the latest approved automatic contrivances. To-day about forty men, including diggers, drivers and dumpers, were at work on the site and the force is increased each day, as no work progresses and makes room for additional men to take part in it.

M'KINLEY IS AT BUFFALO

The President Banqueted by Comrades of the Grand Army.
HIS SPEECH TO THE VETERANS!
The Patriotic That Inspires Americans in Defense of Their Nation's Honor.
The President's Tribute to the Soldiers of the South.

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—From dawn to darkness, and from twilight to midnight, the great gathering of the Grand Army of the Republic waxed greater and grander. The President's visit to all that could be wished for. The Grand Army has turned out more men than ever before attended a national encampment, and this is true also of the ex-Prisoners of War association, the Naval Veterans and the Woman's Auxiliary bodies. From early morning till late at night Main street held a continuous procession of posts. Scores of them brought bands, and few, indeed, had no music. The features of the day were the arrival of President McKinley, accompanied by Secretary Alger and Governor Black of New York, the banquet to the president last evening and the parade of the Naval Veterans and ex-Prisoners of War in the morning. During the day there were more than 20 corps, brigade, regimental and company reunions. The Naval Veterans, ex-Prisoners of War, the United States Cavalry and the Association of Nurses held their conventions, and there were many receptions given by and to the ladies of the auxiliary associations. A trip on the lake, participated in by about 2,000 ladies, was one of the pleasantest of the many entertainments. Last evening there were a number of campfires for the men, and receptions and musical entertainments for the ladies.

At the request of the citizens of Buffalo President McKinley consented to ride at the head of the line in the G. A. R. parade today as far as the review line, that is, the president and his retinue to the city arrived until he retired last night there was no glorious and spontaneous demonstration, and President McKinley said that he had never before half appreciated the warmth of sentiment among the veterans. From the depot to the Niagara hotel, a distance of two miles, the streets were lined with people, and at the hotel, in front of which there is a great square, the police and soldiers from the nearby barracks, even with the reinforcement of extras, had difficulty to keep the multitude in line. Even at each corner McKinley and Governor Black, the president himself entered the hotel and vanished from sight there followed after him the cheers of the people until he was obliged to come to the balcony, where, after some sort of order had been restored, he said:

"I feel that you and to thank you at the same time for your generous welcome. The Grand Army of the Republic seems to be on foot today, but not carrying arms. Those were long since laid aside, and the Grand Army of the Republic is today dedicated to peace and the Union forever. I am glad to be in the city of Buffalo with my comrades of '61 and '65 and my comrades now. I thank you all, and bid you good afternoon."

Shortly after 5 o'clock Columbia post, dressed in handsome fatigue coats and white duck trousers, arrived at the hotel and acted as escort to the president to the Elliott building, where the post entertained the president at a banquet.

As the president passed from the hotel to the banquet hall the police had to literally drive a way through for the carriage, and the Elliott corridor was so densely packed that the president had to be lifted through by policemen. In the reception room of the club he met prominent citizens of Buffalo, and then a little later he entered the great banquet hall as the guest of honor of Columbia post of Chicago, with 500 other distinguished guests and soldiers.

When an elaborate menu had been discussed to the satisfaction of the guests the toastmaster called for Governor Frank S. Black, who extended a welcome, for Columbia post, to President McKinley.

At 2 o'clock Senator Mark A. Hanna, who had just arrived in the city, came into the banquet hall. His entry was noted by applause at the further end of the hall, and as the proceedings paused President McKinley rose from his seat and moved along the hall to meet him. There was a shout of applause as the two men clasped hands and the president's left hand went on Mr. Hanna's shoulder. Both took their seats amid applause. Mr. Hanna had to hold a levee. Closely following Mr. Hanna's entrance it was announced that the president, desiring to hear Archbishop Ireland and other speakers, had decided to make a brief visit to some of the campfires and then return. The toastmaster then announced the next toast, "The City of Buffalo Welcomes the Grand Army." Mayor Jewett responded.

While Mr. Jewett was speaking the president returned, and for a few minutes pandemonium reigned supreme. Somebody yelled "Wheat 10, silver 40," a cry that was taken up and repeated again and again.

When Mr. Jewett had finished his address President McKinley was introduced, and for fully ten minutes it seemed as though the roof would have to fall or the side walls bulge with the roars of applause and greeting. Then the president said, very slowly and distinctly:

"I wish I might frame fitting words to make a suitable response to the address, and for fully ten minutes it seemed as though the roof would have to fall or the side walls bulge with the roars of applause and greeting. Then the president said, very slowly and distinctly:

A WORKMAN'S AWFUL FATE!

Instantly Killed While Riding Down the Mahanoy Plane.
WAS THROWN FROM THE BARNEY
A Sudden Jelling Threw the Unfortunate Man Beneath the Wheels—He Was Horribly Mangled—A Companion Was Thrown Over an Embankment.

The Mahanoy plane was the scene of a distressing accident at about six o'clock last night by which one man was instantly killed and another seriously, but not dangerously injured.

The man killed was Oscar Lenzhart, a resident of Frackville, who was employed as night man in the signal tower near the foot of the plane. He was on his way to work when the accident happened.

It is customary for men residing at Frackville and working at "the foot" to ride down the plane on the "barney" and Lenzhart followed the custom last night, accompanied by a man named Frank Lewicki, a laborer who was also on his way to work. They got on the "barney" before it started from the top and descended half way without accident, but when the journey was being made down the lower half some of the machinery at the top, or in the rope, caused the "barney" to jolt so much that both men were thrown from it. Lenzhart fell under the wheels of the "barney" and was instantly killed, his body being frightfully mangled. The other man was more fortunate. He fell clear of the wheels and rolled down the embankment. He was considerably bruised, but not dangerously injured. He was so badly frightened that he hurried from the scene without ascertaining the fate of his companion.

Lenzhart was about 37 years of age and leaves a wife and three children.

It is reported that orders will be issued to prevent riding on the plane "barney" hereafter. About a week ago a young man was carried down into the pit at the bottom of the plane and so badly injured that he will be crippled for life.

THE P. O. S. OF A.
Report of the State Secretary—Elections by the Commandery General.

The first day's session of the State Camp, Patriotic Order Sons of America, opened in the Academy of Music at Reading yesterday. The Mayor Weidel delivered an address of welcome, and State President A. J. Colburn responded. In his annual address President Colburn called attention to the condition of the order in Pennsylvania, and he made the following recommendations: That a committee be appointed to inquire into the advisability of selling the present State Camp building in Philadelphia to secure a more suitable one; that Article V, Section 1, be amended so as to include members of the local Law Camps among the officers of which this State Camp shall consist; to re-appoint secretaries and transmitters of each camp to give bonds; that the appropriations for organization be increased; that camp property be insured; that power as well as authority were held during the day, marked by confusion and dissatisfaction. When they were over it was found that the London men, who were first to strike, had voted to return without making any demands. Rochester and Sandy Lick appointed committees to visit Superintendent Reed and demand the restoration of the former district seal of 25 cents. Reed told them the demand would not be granted at this time, and advised them to return to work, as better times were in store.

Most Miners Out.
Dubois, Pa., Aug. 25.—The strike situation here is chaotic. The Rochester, London and Sandy Lick miners went out yesterday, under the pressure of agitators from Pittsburgh, although it had been decided Monday night that there should be no strike. Meetings were held during the day, marked by confusion and dissatisfaction. When they were over it was found that the London men, who were first to strike, had voted to return without making any demands. Rochester and Sandy Lick appointed committees to visit Superintendent Reed and demand the restoration of the former district seal of 25 cents. Ticket Scalper Arrested.
Atlantic City, Aug. 25.—George V. White, of Washington, D. C., was arrested here yesterday on the charge of ticket scalping. The recorder held him under $2,500 bail for court under five separate charges. White was taken into custody at the instance of Benjamin Franklin, a Pennsylvania railroad agent. He had been trapped by Detectives Joseph T. Note and D. N. Rigler, of the same company. Papers, billets and letters were found on him to prove his business, besides printed advertising matter. White had been previously warned by the railroad company, through Detective Brooks, of this city, to abandon the business. He paid no attention to the warning, and went on selling and purchasing tickets.

CONTEST RESUMED.

Judge Craig Takes More Evidence in the Lyon-Dunn Case.
Judge Allen Craig, of Carbon, was the only member of the Bench present at Pottsville yesterday morning, when the Lyon-Dunn Circumlocution contest was resumed. The contest court had been adjourned since June 29. Both contestants were present. Judge Lyon was accompanied by only one of his counsel, Judge Byron. Judge Dunn was more fortunate. He had Messrs. Walter, Marr, Schick and Striegel with him. During the vacation Judge Dunn had compiled and filed with the Prothonotary an additional bill of particulars, containing about 2,000 names, out of which he expects to get enough illegal votes for Lyon to prove his own election. All the witnesses yesterday were from Pottsville and all were heard by noon, when court adjourned for the day.
