The President Leads Forty-Svo Thonsand solutiers of the Wars. Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.-Forty-five housand men yesterday marched through the principal streets, swathed in mage and bunting, exceiving the ovations of a bait million people, where gratitude and admiration was evinced in every way in watch human devotion dent of the Union they fought to save himself their comrade, was at their head. When the line of the Gran-Army procession moved, at 10:10 o'clock in the morning, the sky had not a cloud. The minstorm of the night left a clear, bracing air that was like tonic to the marching men. The pro-cession moved for five hours and 4, minutes. Along the route of march 100 girls, dressed in the color of the finst, scattered flowers in the paths of the soldiers. President McKinley rode in a carriage at the head of the procession, and waved his hat at the cheering crowd At the reviewing stand he took his position with Commander-in-Chief Clarkson, and Governor Black and the headquarters staff passed in review. Of all the throng viewing the process sion no one person was more enthusi-natic or more affected by the sight than President McKinley. With his hand on his hat, continually unrecovered to the national colors or the salutes of the veterans, the president watched the array of proud veterans march by. It was bertainly a column to inspire ad-miration. Such men as Secretary of War Alger, General Lew Wallace and General John Palmer walked side by ide with the negro or the decrepit pensloner whom they had to assist. The closing event of the evening way a reception to the president at Music Hall. Other receptions were given has night by Mrs. Cathorine Eirst, ng tional president of the Ladies of the G. A. R., at the Iroquels hetel, a re-ception by Mrs. F. C. Between the lines of Mrs. Bradley's statement as given below one reads something of the history of this devoted wife and mother. Surely she has passed through the furnace of affliction "heated doubly hot," and the joy that refers in her household on account of her restoration will be shared by a large fincle of acquaintances. Mrs. Bradley is a widely known pioneer resident of Brockway, Trumbull Co., Ohio. It is with a view to helping others who are sufferers from nervous disorders or disease of the heart, that she sends us the statement of her case, which is certainly one of the most complicated in medical history, and should convince the most skeptical reader that Dr. Miles' remedies cure when all other means fail.

"Twelve years ago the 25th day of last December I was compelled to take to my bed on account of extreme nervousness. My husband said he would rather go to the penitentiary than through another such siege as he had with me for a few years previous. Little did he suspect he was then on the eve of a twelve year campaign. We employed in all twenty-six different physicians, the best we could hear of, and it cost us over $2,000.00, but I only grew-worse. I became wholly unable to walk, and they carried me from one room to another. I became so nervous the doors had to be cushioned, the clocks were stopped and the family went about in their stocking feet. I was so miserable that life seemed unendurable, and all I asked for was death. The doctor said my extreme nervousness was caused by eccessence of the urethra and performed four different operations, which nearly cost my life each time, but no benefit resulted. To give me strength strychnine was given me every day for five years and calomel every third day for three years. My headaches were terrible, especially in lower back part of head, and sharp pains between shoulders, down my back and slde of limb. My back was scarred and cupped for three years and bilistered the whole length with fly blisters. Nothing I ate would digest, but simply distressed me. Worse than all, however, was my nervous fear. I was so full of fear I dared not eat, nor drink, nor try to walk or sleep, yet I did not know what I was afraid of. I was a wearisome burden to my friends. At last the draggist persuaded my husband to have me try Dr. Miles' Restorative Norvine. The arst bottle was not finished before I could eat with a relish and was able to walk, and before I had taken three bottles was able to do my own work, and after taking six bottles I am cured. My weight bas increased over fifty "Twelve years ago the 25th day of last December I was compelled to take walk, and before I had taken three bottles was able to do my own work, and after taking six bottles I am cured. My weight has increased over fifty pounds. No words of mine are able to tell the good it has done me and I never tire of telling to others the story of my cure." MRS. S. BRADLEY.

NOTHING has yet transpired that seems to throw even the faintest light upon the Wilson murder in Philadelphia. True, a few arrests have been made, and there are some rumors in regard to others, but as far as can be learned, the mystery has not been solved, nor from present indications is it likely to be very soon.

THE Hartford "Courant" calls for the addition of two words to the dictionary, "fathead" and "it" as a noun. A fathead is defined as a large pompous person, who makes up by solemn studidity for lack of intelligence. An "it" is a person so feeble intellectually and physically as not to be entitled to the personal pronoun. The same writer finds fault with existing definitions of "chumps" and "jay," because they are learned chumps and jays, and the words can not be restricted to dolts and country bumpkins. These refinements may be in order, but the growth of the English language needs the brakes rather than stimulation.
